FAIRY TALE COMES TRUE FOR LAGUNA WOMAN

She's the Queen of Atlantis and Lemuria

This is the "royal" flag of Mrs. Meeker, Laguna Beach realty operator who recently inherited tropic empire.

By Douglas Nelson Rhodes

Mrs. Gertrude Norris Meeker has, through a quirk of fate, become the ruler of an island empire. She checks her domain on the globe and in "Historical Treasures of Leif Erikson," rare book which tells of Viking explorations.

CLIENTS of a certain small real estate firm in Laguna Beach would be astonished to learn that the petite, 57-year-old woman realtor, who takes such personal interest in solving their housing problems is — through a trick of fate — the new queen of a five-million-acre empire encompassing 50 tropical islands in three oceans and the ruler of 25,000 subjects.

None could be more amazed, though, than Mrs. Gertrude Norris Meeker, herself when in August, 1953, she was notified officially by the island group's government that a virtual stranger had bequeathed her all rights, titles and properties of a constitutional monarch in a scattered island empire extending — in a hop-skip-jump fashion — from a point 200 miles south of Florida, along the Central American coast to 300 miles southeast of the Panama Canal. Also included in the realms is an "annex" of some dozen small isles in the Pacific west of Panama.

The widely separated collection of islands once was known as the Danish Virgin Islands West but now is recognized internationally as the "Atlantic and Pacific Empire of Atlantis and Lemuria," so named after the legendary "lost continents" of Atlantis and Lemuria. Some atolls in both oceans are purportedly the last remnants of these fabled lands.

WHETHER the lost continents of Atlantis and Lemuria ever really existed is a hotly debated question but actual existence of Mrs. Meeker's newly acquired kingdom is not in doubt. It is composed of three large and four small Atlantic and Caribbean islands, five small Pacific isles with satellite atolls, and 43 other land masses ranging in size from a few acres of tropical growth to great oval-shaped rims of land encircling lagoons 60 miles and more in circumference. The three largest islands are Flamingo (named for the millions of flamingo birds that make their home there), Odino and Thoro. Ninety per cent of the population in the realm live on this island trio.

The true-life fairy tale, in which Mrs. Meeker finds herself playing the starring role, began in 1945 when she befriended one Don Juan Hua Eiderscol, a venerable, courtly gentleman of Spanish-Danish descent, who was then foreign minister of the little empire. Mrs. Meeker, widow of a prominent western mining promoter, was at the time active in mining property development.

Eiderscol asked Mrs. Meeker's

help in disposing of some American mining leases so that he might weather a financial drouth brought about by the war which prevented him from receiving funds from foreign investments. With her assistance and advice this was accomplished and Don Juan was profuse in his expressions of gratitude. He promised Mrs. Meeker that if he ever became governor general — a title roughly equivalent to king in the island government — he'd show his appreciation in a substantial way.

THE GRAY-HAIRED businesswoman forgot the incident until 1948, when she learned that Don Juan had succeeded to the ruling title at the death of the reigning government head. Then in August, 1953, she was informed officially that old Don Juan Hua Eiderscol, governor general of the Atlantic and Pacific Empire of Atlantis and Lemuria, had died. In his will, the communication stated, he had directed that Gertrude Norris Meeker be named his successor.

"At first I thought it was a joke," the California businesswoman declared. "But, after a big stack of legal documents, commissions and a passport arrived and were carefully checked, I was too thunderstruck to realize fully my unexpected good fortune."

Mrs. Meeker has inherited far more than a mere empty title. The territory — though widely separated by thousands of square miles of ocean — includes at least a dozen inhabited islands with great development possibilities. Natural resources are rich in fine hardwoods, fish, gold, sil-

Mrs. Meeker's empire encompasses five million acres. Most of 25,000 natives live on Flamingo, Odino, Thoro.

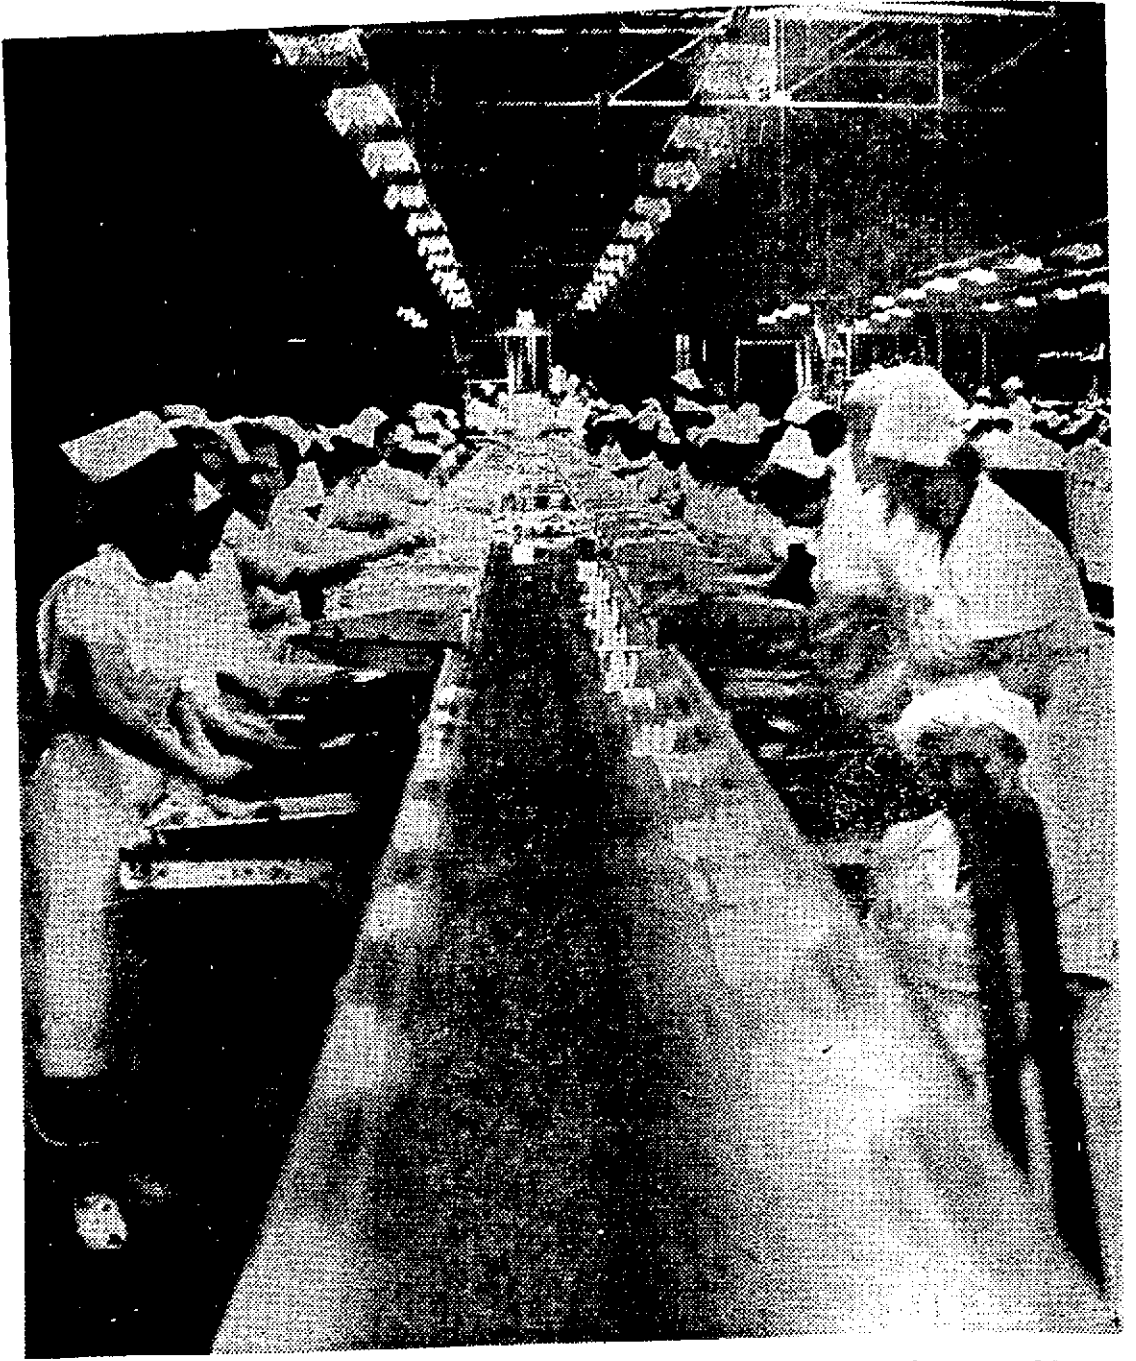

One-mule power is still standard transportation in the widely-scattered island group in Mrs. Meeker's holding. Islands have resort possibilities.

How to Put a 100-Pound Tuna in a 7-Ounce Can

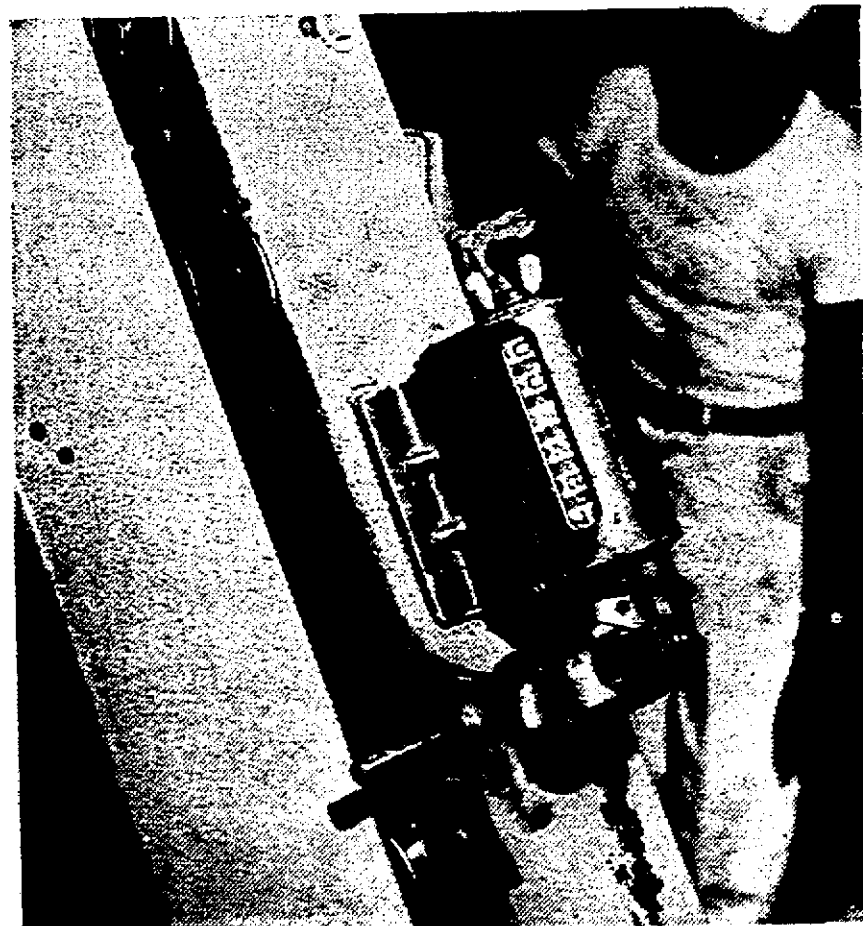

Without human aid, this machine developed at Star-Kist plant unscrambles empty tuna cans, turning them all right-side-up on conveyor belt.

Three-decker stainless steel belt carries the cooked fish to white-garbed women workers, who remove the finest white meat for canning.

A salting machine (right) tosses a dab of salt into each can, while the spigots add salad oil.

A million cans a day are counted automatically as they are speeded through automatic conveyor.

By James Phelan

FORTY YEARS AGO a Yugoslav immigrant named Martin Bogdanovich, fishing for tuna off Long Beach, hooked onto a simple idea that grew into a multi-million-dollar business, helped turn Long Beach-San Pedro-Wilmington into the greatest fishing port in the world, and changed the eating habits of Americans.

The idea had the classic simplicity that makes other people knock themselves on the head and lament, "Why didn't I think of that?"

Bogdanovich, one happy morning, stored some ice on his little fishing boat when he put out from shore.

At that time, tuna was almost unknown to American consumers. Tunafishing employed only a handful of fishermen at a standard of living several cuts below that of a marginal Arkansas share-cropper. The few tuna that were caught were consumed by Californians who lived near the shore. There were no tuna canneries, and the great American staple in canned fish was salmon.

The trouble with tuna-fishing was two-fold: The fish were elusive and unpredictable, and like any other fish, they spoiled easily. Fishermen might go out and hook only three or four fish all day, but when night approached they had to make the long trip back to shore with their meager, unprofitable catch.

Martin Bogdanovich and his ice changed all that. When other boats turned shoreward with only a few tuna, he fished on until he had a capacity load, his catch safely tucked away on ice.

BOGDANOVICH was a man at whose door opportunity needed to knock only once. He soon was running a market on shore, and other boats—all equipped with ice—were fishing for him. From the market he moved into the cannery business.

The simple idea of carrying ice on a tuna boat was the first step in an industrial revolution that wound up putting tuna on virtually every table in the United States, and pushed canned salmon into a minor role in the American diet.

Martin Bogdanovich's crude refrigeration for the first time put tuna ashore in mass quantities so they could be canned. Today 64 per cent of all tuna consumed in this country is canned by two companies with headquarters on Terminal Island—the Star-Kist Co., founded by fisherman Bogdanovich, and the Van Camp Co., which produces the Chicken of the Sea brand.

The fish-canning industry today gives employment to 15,000 persons in the harbor area and produces between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 a year in "new money" in the Southland. It ranks fourth in importance among California industries, and on good years moves up into third.

But before it grew, it had to solve an intriguing industrial problem—How do you put a tuna that weighs as much as 150 pounds into a 7-ounce can? It answered that problem by developing an assembly-line technique that rivals, on a smaller scale, the mass-production methods by which Detroit turns out automobiles.

THE $2,500,000 Star-Kist Plant No. 4 on Terminal Island, largest tuna cannery in the world, comprises a series of conveyor belts, mechanical gadgets and automatic machines that can turn out a million cans of tuna in an eight-hour shift. It operates with an efficiency that would have brought a gleam to the eyes of Henry Ford, the man who gave mass production to the industrial world.

From the near-by docks where the tuna clippers and purse seiners unload, the tuna are whisked by flumes—man-made brooks—to the cannery. En route they are weighed—again automatically—in 1000-pound batches.

In the cannery they are tumbled onto a conveyor belt where the cleaning process has been reduced to a simple piece-work basis. One group of men slit the fishes, another eviscerate them.

From the cleaning line, the tuna are pushed in huge trays to the cookers, where they are steamed from one to seven hours, depending on the size of the fish, at 218 degrees.

FROM THE COOKERS, to a cooling room, then into the giant cannery room, longer than a football field, with seven Swedish stainless-steel conveyor belts. With a touch that Ford would admire, the floor of the plant slopes gently from the butcher line to the steel belts, so the workers can push the big trays with a minimum of effort.

Each of the 250-foot conveyor belts has three levels. The middle one carries the cooked fish slowly down the line of 100 white-garbed women who work at each line.

The women skillfully remove the light-meat fillets for canning, and discard the heads, tails, skin and dark meat. The top conveyor belt carries the fillets on to the canning machines, the bottom belt carries the dark meat back to the head of the line, where it drops into a chute and is processed for pet food, and chicken feed.

The actual canning operation is an automatic marvel of complexity. The tuna meat is fed into a machine that tucks exactly seven ounces into an open-topped can. The lines of cans speed in single file past another machine that tosses an identical amount of salt into each can. They are whisked under another device that squirts salad oil into the cans. Then they dive into a clanking machine that seals them, and spits them out the other side like a machine gun, at the rate of 125 cans per minute.

From the canning machine

They Copy the Masters

On a broad stage in the natural amphitheater of Irvine Bowl, the seaside art colony of Laguna Beach this year will copy the masterpieces of the great painters to present for the 19th time the world-famed Pageant of the Masters in connection with the annual Festival of Arts, from July 17 through Aug. 15. Seven hundred volunteers of the community reproduce more than 60 famous paintings with living models, each authentically costumed and skillfully made up by Max Factor of Hollywood. All of the models are Lagunans who spend uncounted hours preparing to pose in a background identical to that of the original painting, which is enclosed in a great frame of gold. Here are some of the living pictures and the masterpieces from which they are reproduced at the Laguna Beach Pageant.

Meet Japan's Beautiful 'Mouse'

TOKYO.

IF YOU THINK Washington, D. C., got something in 1912 when the Japanese gave that city some cherry trees, then wait until you have a look at the gift which Long Beach is going to receive in mid-July! This latest present from the Land of the Rising Sun is not a tree, but she has prettier limbs than anything Joyce Kilmer ever wrote about.

To be more specific, Long Beach's gift is a young lady named Mieko Kondo, Miss Japan of 1954, who will arrive in Long Beach July 15 to compete in the Miss Universe contest.

We were lucky enough to witness a preview of Miss Japan when the newspaper, Sangyo Keizai Shimbun, sponsors of the contest in this country, held a "Welcome to Tokyo" party at the Tokyo Keikan Hotel. For a guy whose interviewing previously has been confined to such subjects as "Jumbo Joe" Stydahr, Tank Younger, Porky Oliver and Baron Leone, this parley was indeed a treat.

Mieko Kondo, Miss Japan of 1954, poses in the traditional kimono, centuries-old garb of Japanese.

By Jack Teele

Ed. Note—Jack Teele, now stationed in Japan with the armed forces, formerly was employed in the sports department of The Independent.

After the Japanese and foreign correspondents had been assembled in a small room, Miss Kondo made her entrance with her mother. Formal introductions followed with at least 50 bows on the part of Miss Kondo and the Japanese writers. When the questioning began, we realized that it takes two to interview as well as to tango.

OUR LANGUAGE barrier was hurdled, however, when Susie Muto, secretary to an official of the Sangyo Keizai, came up with, "Do you need an interpreter, Mr. Teele?" From that point on things were fine, or as the Japanese say, "Daijobu."

Susie introduced me again to Miss Kondo, sat down between us, and made English into Japanese and vice versa for approximately 40 minutes without missing a word.

First of all, Susie described, as only another woman could, Miss Kondo's apparel and appearance. "She is wearing a white kimono with maroon, blue and green designs," Susie began. "Her obi (belt or sash) is white and canary yellow with matching geta (sandals). Her earrings are miniature five-story pagodas. The only make-up she is wearing is her lipstick, but she does wear light pink nail polish."

Miss Mieko, or Mieko-san to us old Japan hands, is tall for a Japanese girl. She towers 5 feet and 5 inches above those canary yellow geta. Her trim figure, a mystery when camouflaged by the colorful kimono,

Little Gibbon Is a Popular Guy

By Eleanor A. Price

ALTHOUGH he is quite scarce and therefore fairly expensive, the little Gibbon ape is enjoying a popularity in the western world unequalled by any other anthropoid.

There are several reasons for his desirableness, chief among them being his even disposition, his high intelligence, and his affectionate disposition. He will throw his arms around his owner and love him like a child. In Siam, his name even means "half-human."

The Gibbon ape is found in all parts of the East Indies where he inhabits the forests. In his native lands, he lives almost entirely in the trees and can travel with great rapidity through the tangled growth. At night he sleeps curled up in a ball in the branches of a tree or a crudely erected platform. In the home he likes a comfortable platform made especially for him in his cage.

The Gibbon ape has a strong family life. The parents and children live together for years, playing and greatly enjoying one another's company.

This little fellow's natural food consists of fruits and nuts and occasionally a small bird. In captivity, he soon acquires a taste for cooked foods, although he should not be fed fatty food. He likes cereal either dry or softened with milk. Flowers, especially roses, are special treats for dessert.

WHEN THIRSTY, the Gibbon will drink from a hose or make a cup of his hands and drink from that.

Bath time is a great event. He should be dried thoroughly with a soft towel and then brushed. The more brushing the more beautiful his coat.

In his native haunts, the Gibbon is noisy and chatters incessantly, especially in the morning when he greets daylight with long drawn-out "wa-hoos." In the home, he is more subdued and is easily tamed. He is mischievous, however, and must be caged or chained when not watched. He is extremely imitative and therefore a lot of fun as a pet.

Gibbon apes belong to the group which includes gorillas, chimpanzees and orangutans.

The golden Gibbon pictured on this page is three years old and is the pet of Mrs. C. M. Gibboney, 3195 Santa Fe Ave.

ANYONE wishing to enter his dog in the Orange Empire Dog Club Unbench Show and Obedience Trial to be held in John Galvin Park, Ontario, Sunday, July 18, must have his entry received in the office of the superintendent not later than midnight, Monday, July 5. The superintendent is Jack Bradshaw, P. O. Box 15416, Los Angeles 15. (Phone PRospect 7432.) Dogs need be present only one hour prior to the judging. Show and obedience trial hours are 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.

THE 26TH ANNUAL all-breed benched dog show and obedience trial of the Santa Barbara Kennel Club will be held from 9 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. Sunday, Aug. 1, at Hope Ranch, Santa Barbara. The superintendent is Jack Bradshaw

FLIES can be great pests around the ears of dogs. The hair in or on the dog's ears should not be clipped or cut, for it affords some protection against flies. There are several preparations to help ward off flies. A mixture of oil of sassafras and petroleum jelly (vaseline) is one of the best and can be applied every other day.

OUT OF FAIRNESS to your pets, your family, and the neighbors, keep the dog's yard clean so flies cannot breed. It is very discouraging to live alongside a dog yard that is bad odored and crawling with flies.

Pan American World Airways Photos

Sternwheeler steamboats still ply regular Yukon River routes, a feature of interest to tourists. Alaska is a land of many interests for visitors.

ALASKA OFFERS SOMETHING for every kind of visitor—from just plain sightseeing of glaciers and fjords to big-game hunting, sports fishing and mountain climbing.

Alaska is a huge territory. If placed squarely atop the United States the Aleutians would touch the coast of California, southeastern Alaska would reach Georgia. North to south, Alaska would stretch from Texas to the Canadian border. And the entire population of the territory is less than 200,000.

Alaska is busy expanding and improving its system of surfaced highways available to tourists, according to a survey by Pan American World Airways, thus making it vastly easier to get around to the sights and the hunting and fishing grounds.

Many travelers report that the only thing they can find out about Alaska that is consistent is the warmth of welcome for guests. The tradition of the leather latching on the outside of the cabin door continues strong today in the open-hearted hospitality of people who love their wide, spacious country and are eager to show it off to visitors.

The scenery is inconsistent. The coastal ranges, with their high, steep cliffs are reminiscent of Scotland or Scandinavia; the land stretching northward to the rim of the frozen Arctic Ocean bears a strong reminder of the plains of Illinois or Indiana. The old and the new—log cabins that might have been built by the earliest settlers, and in some cases were built by them, are within hailing distance of modern office and apartment buildings.

Alaska boasts the highest point on the North American continent—20,300-foot Mount McKinley—which stands head and shoulders above scores of other snow-capped mountains.

In the inland regions, the climate may be compared to the northern United States and the prairie provinces of Canada. Summer temperatures range from 50 to 80 degrees. In winter it may go down as far as 40 below.

RESORTS AND TRAVEL

Friendly Alaska Offers Much to Vacationist

SEVERAL DISCOVERY TOURS of Alaska have been scheduled for this year by the Arctic Alaska Tours, and details of these are available from any authorized travel agent or from a Pan American World Airways office. Costs range from $396 for an 11-day trip up to $633.50, including all transportation, hotel or lodge accommodations, and meals en route. For those who wish to travel independently, about $20 a day should be set aside for meals and lodging each day.

Alaska offers exceptional opportunities to the sportsman. Hunting trophies may be taken out of Alaska free, and the license fee for visitors from the United States is $50 for big game, such as moose, elk, bear and mountain sheep, and $10 for game birds. All hunters, however, must have a competent, licensed guide, and their fees range upward from $25 a day.

Fishing is open all year, and with no limits on the catch. Fishing licenses cost $2.50. Fish are plentiful and large. Lake trout as large as 60 pounds have been taken, and 35 pounders are not uncommon. Salt water fishermen may go after the tough, hard-hitting King Salmon with assurances of getting 40 and 50 pounders.

Round-trip fare from Seattle to Juneau is $118.80, to Fairbanks, $162, and to Nome, Alaska's westernmost city, $234.

Annual Ski Tour to Lofty Andes

NO LONGER will skiers have to give up their skiing pleasures simply because the snow has melted and summer is here. At least, that's the opinion of Panagra (Pan American-Grace Airways), which announces a second annual ski tour to the lofty Andes of Chile, where winter weather is just setting in.

The 21-day, all-expense tour, prepared by the Haley Corporation Travel Service to take advantage of the reversal of seasons below the equator, will convene in Panama for Panagra's DC-6B "El Pacifico" flight to Santiago, capital of Chile, at the end of July. Vivacious Jacques Bolling, the tour conductor and an avid skier, will lead the group to the world famous resorts of Portillo, the fashionable winter playground known as the Sun Valley of South America; Llaima to the south of Chile, where several volcanoes provide vertical drops of 5000 feet, and Farelones and LaParva, situated high in the Colorado Mountain range among a cluster of Alpine-like "refugios" or lodges.

The tour is described as "an adventure in skiing," with all the comforts of a well organized itinerary, which provides for twin-bedded rooms in every place visited, an unlimited use of ski lifts and complete arrangements for surface transportation. There will be ample opportunity for ski touring, ski jumping and competing in special racing events such as the "Copa Emile Allais," named after Portillo's French ski instructor, a former Olympic champion.

Sightseeing will highlight the en route itinerary at historic Panama City, often referred to as the "crossroads of the world," and skiers will be given leisure time for shopping and entertainment both here and at charming Santiago.

Priced at $635 from Panama City, the tour allows members of the party to arrange their own transportation to that city and gives them a choice of return by way of glamorous Buenos Aires, Montevideo and Rio de Janeiro at a small additional cost.

Germany Builds Her First Motel

Germany's first modern motel is built with all rooms facing inner court, away from the noise.

THE FIRST MODERN MOTEL in Germany—and perhaps in Europe — has been opened at Tuebingen, famous old university town near Stuttgart, according to the German Tourist Information Office. Inspired by the success of American motels, this first German motel is expected to be followed by others.

Called "Touring Motel," the modern structure is built in atrium style, with all rooms facing an inner court away from the noise of the highway, and each room above its garage. In construction it is reminiscent of American motels. Facilities include showers and telephones with each room, modern furnishings, a restaurant with terrace, and a bierstube (beer room). Cuisine is of the finest, and an excellent wine cellar is attached to the establishment.

Motorists may be attracted to the motel because of its convenient location on the first-class road near Stuttgart and on the way to Lake Constance. However, the visitor interested in lovely old medieval towns will do well to pay a visit to Tuebingen for its own sake. Idyllically located in the winding Neckar Valley, Tuebingen rivals Heidelberg for picturesque old buildings and streets and romantic vistas of the river.

The Touring Motel Tuebingen is equipped not only with all comforts for the traveler, but for the welfare of his automobile as well, located as it is beside a completely-equipped gasoline service station.

Meet Miss Japan, Beautiful 'Mouse'

(Continued From Page 6.) has its 95 pounds distributed fairly. When she walks under the spotlight at Long Beach's Municipal Auditorium next week, the man with the tape measure will find that a yard-long tape will have only two inches to spare after the first vital statistic is checked.

BORN 18 YEARS AGO, in the Year of the Mouse (one of the 12 recurring phases of the Japanese zodiac), Miekko had no thought of entering a beauty contest until three weeks ago. In her silk-soft South Japan accent, she explained that "Mouse People" are supposed to be quiet, shy and gentle like their tiny annual patrons.

The project of competing for the Miss Japan title came into being after Miekko's teacher read the newspaper announcements and persuaded her to enter. She represented Nagoya, her hometown and Japan's fourth largest city, in the finals at Kyoto, where she won the crown and the hearts of the judges and a huge audience.

Miekko is a typical home girl. She lives in a five-room house with her grandfather, mother and a younger brother and sister. "My family," she purred, "is the most important part of my life."

Like many young Japanese girls, Miekko has been influenced by both Japanese customs and those of the western world.

SHE PREFERS western style clothing to the Japanese kimono because "it is so much easier to wear." But adds that she also loves to wear the kimono because of its beauty and grace. Her favorite foods are bananas, oranges and "osushi," a Japanese delicacy of raw fish and rice.

When we asked Miekko what she planned to do during the talent part of the Miss Universe contest, she replied that she was going to sing. She added that she likes both jazz and the classics and when we asked her for the name of her favorite singer, she came back promptly with "Bing Crosby."

When we mentioned the movies, Miekko was most emphatic. "Gregory Peck and Ann Blythe are my favorite stars and the movie I liked most was 'Roman Holiday.'" As for a career of her own in Hollywood, Miss Japan wasn't quite so decisive, stating that she will let that idea wait until the contest is over.

But despite all of the influence of the west, Miekko remains typically Japanese in many ways. For instance, her favorite way to spend an evening, she told us, is to "meditate" or to listen to quiet music. How many glamour girls in the United States could make such a statement?

MIEKKO plans to marry before she is 23 years old, but, as Susie explained, she is "much too young to make such a decision yet." Miss Japan's specifications for a husband are simple and direct. "He must be tall and be able to support me, but he need not be handsome," she said.

What does Miss Japan want most to see in the United States? "I would like to visit big American stores and look at the clothes," she said. "I hope to get some ideas which I can bring back to my school in Nagoya."

Last July, we watched the Miss Universe contest on our TV set in Long Beach to the exclusion of most other shows. If all of the 1954 contestants are as beautiful and charming as Miss Japan, we predict that Milton Berle and Ed Sullivan are about to suffer great setbacks in their Hooper ratings.

Filmy, Frothy, Tasty Chiffon Pie!

One of dessert-time's special treats is pie—and lemon chiffon is a foremost variation of the popular sweet.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

CHIFFON, says Webster, is "any ornamental addition—something fluffy."

And when could there be a better time than summer in which to serve a big piece of filmy, frothy, tasty chiffon pie? There's one man in town who'll agree — Al Davis, 4300 Myrtle Ave., for he thinks there's nothing quite like those pies which Mrs. Davis bakes, especially the one she calls Lemon Chiffon. Her recipe is featured today.

You may be sure that particular pie isn't her only specialty. Her pie repertoire runs the gamut of the following:

Peach Strawberry Angel Pie

Meringue Shell:

- 4 egg whites
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 cup granulated sugar

Filling:

- ½ cup whipping cream
- 7 canned cling peach halves
- 1 cup sliced sweetened strawberries

Meringue Shell: Beat egg whites with salt and cream of tartar until stiff. Gradually beat in sugar. When very stiff, pile into well-greased 9-inch pie pan, making depression in center. Bake in very slow oven (275 F.) 1 hour. Cool thoroughly. Chill overnight in refrigerator.

Filling: Whip cream until stiff and spread in bottom of meringue shell. Arrange well drained peach halves on top of cream, and top with strawberries. Serves 6.

Black Bottom Pie

One 9-inch baked pie shell.

- 1½ tablespoons cornstarch
- ½ cup sugar
- 4 egg yolks
- 2 cups milk, scalded
- 1 package Semi-sweet Chocolate Morsels
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 1 tablespoon gelatin, plain
- ¾ cup water
- 4 egg whites
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar

Combine cornstarch and sugar.

Beat egg yolks and slowly add scalded milk. Add sugar mixture and cook in aluminum double boiler until custard coats spoon. Remove 1 cup custard and add to it ½ package of chocolate morsels. Beat well. Cool, add 1 teaspoon vanilla extract and pour into pie shell. Add gelatin softened in water to remaining custard and cool but do not allow to stiffen. Beat egg whites until foamy, add cream of tartar and beat until almost stiff. Slowly add sugar and continue beating until stiff. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, and blend into custard. Cover chocolate layer of custard with vanilla custard and chill until set. Sprinkle with other half of chocolate morsels, which have been finely chopped, and serve.

Party Ice Cream Pie

- 1 teaspoon butter
- ½ cup marshmallow creme
- 2 cups oven-popped rice cereal

Strawberry ice cream

Melt butter in sauce pan. Add marshmallow creme and stir until well blended. Remove from heat. Add rice cereal and stir until coated with syrup. Press into pie pan to form shell. Chill. When ready to serve, fill with ice cream and top with strawberry halves, if desired.

Yield: One 9-inch pie.

Meringue Pie

- 1½ cups granulated sugar
- ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
- 4 egg whites
- 3 tablespoons toasted, chopped almonds
- 4 egg yolks
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind

Kitchen Tip:

Mrs. Davis' Kitchen Tip: Never sift bran or corn meal or whole wheat flour when baking muffins.

Mrs. Davis' Lemon Chiffon Pie:

- |                               |                              |
|-------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 1 tablespoon gelatine (level) | ½ cup lemon juice            |
| ¼ cup cold water              | ½ teaspoon salt              |
| 4 eggs                        | 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind |
| 1 cup sugar                   |                              |

Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes. Separate white and yolks of eggs. Add ½ cup sugar and ½ cup lemon juice to beaten yolks. Cook over boiling water until thick. Add gelatine to hot custard, add grated lemon rind and cool. Beat egg whites until stiff and dry. Add remaining ½ cup sugar to whites carefully. Fold egg whites into cooled custard. Fill pie shell and place in refrigerator. Also delicious with graham cracker crust.

- ¼ teaspoon salt

- 1 pint heavy cream

Preheat oven to 275 F. Measure 1 cup of sugar from above amount with the cream of tartar. Beat egg whites until they hold stiff peaks, then slowly add the sugar, beating thoroughly. Spread the meringue in bottom and on sides of a pie pan, which has been well greased. Sprinkle rim with chopped almonds. Bake 1 hour at 275 F. Cool.

To make filling: Beat egg yolks slightly in a double boiler, then stir in ½ cup of sugar, lemon juice and salt. Cook until thick, stirring constantly (8 to 10 minutes). Cool. Whip 1 cup of cream and fold it into the custard. Fill meringue shell. Set pie in refrigerator to chill at least 24 hours. Just before serving, whip second cup of cream and garnish the top.

Cheese Pie

- 1 cup cottage cheese, packed
- 3 tablespoons butter, melted
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- ¾ cup cream or top milk
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Dash of salt
- Cinnamon

Put the cheese through a food press. Add melted butter. Dissolve the cornstarch in the cream. Beat eggs and add sugar. Combine the mixtures and add rind and juice of lemon, salt and cinnamon. Pour into the graham cracker pie crust. Sprinkle with graham cracker crumbs. Bake 35-40 minutes at 350 F.

Happy Home on a Tom Thumb Lot

By Eileen Ball

RESIDENTS of Belmont Shore are a particularly devoted clan. Rarely does one happen across a shore-dweller who will admit that any other part of the city could compare with this beachside locale.

It seems the sentiment prevails in spite of and not because of the abbreviated size of the lots. Consistently small, Belmont Shore lots have been bought and built upon by those who feel that a little site in this spot is worth twice the space further removed from bay and beach.

All of which, however, poses many problems for the architects to whom they go for inspiration. Take the case of the Ernest H. Lockwoods, for example.

The Lockwoods bought a wedge-shaped plot at 21 Ximeno Ave. and then wondered what manner of house could be built upon it. The frontage of the lot is a scant 39 feet. The lot goes back about 60 feet, shrinking across the back to a mere 28 feet — it wasn't a very spacious building site.

But the Lockwoods had the near-beach location they wanted. Devotees of sun and shore, they looked forward to their residence in the resort-like vicinity.

On the debit side, however, was the lot's Lilliputian size and the close proximity of the residence next door.

Thomas J. Russell, A.I.A., was commissioned to plan a house that would take advantage of the location's merits and, at the same time, rise above its distractions. Not an easy task, that!

RUSSELL FIRST had to find out just what was most important in a house as far as the

The Ernest Lockwoods' dining room, situated at front of the house, offsets the lack of view with a mural.

Lockwoods were concerned. His contention is that while a small house cannot include all things, it can — if planned wisely — include everything the owners really want.

Also, Russell explained the fact that the house — any house — should take a cue from the weather and be planned accordingly. The Lockwood house is orientated toward the south with its sunshine, ocean breeze and view. The close proximity of the neighboring house to the north was minimized by the omission of all but absolutely necessary windows. The feeling of the Lockwoods' 1500-square-foot house is one of privacy, spaciousness and delightful informality. And that is a triple salute to good planning!

The entry opens from the side of the house, accessible from the street by a shaded walkway along the north side of the building. This gives the front door a feeling of pleasant removal from the sidewalk close to which the house was built.

Inside, the entry proves to be a little landing elevated two steps from the living room. The entry and its low, diagonal steps have been carpeted in a deep-looped sand-colored rug. The same carpeting leads up the stairway to the second story.

The lower-level living room is a thoroughly cool and inviting

1334 ALAMITOS

spot. Expansive floor-to-ceiling windows overlook the shaded courtyard defined with rustic high grapestake fencing. Taking a color clue from the pine trees and verdant shade plants massed in the little garden, Mrs. Lockwood chose for the living room a velvety deep green carpet. The openness of the windows in combination with the lawn-colored carpet create the delightful sensation of drawing the outdoors right into the house!

RECOGNIZING that many materials can serve in a double capacity for beauty as well as for convenience, Russell specified that the living room walls, the entry and the staircase wall be paneled in combed plywood. Lightly stained, the material is easily maintained, comparatively inexpensive and offers textural interest.

Adding a further note of rustic informality is a rugged fireplace of fieldstone.

Adjoining the living room and separated only by a suggestion of an arch is the dining room. A window of obscure glass solved the problem of lighting the street-side room without loss of privacy. This viewless window has been given interest with the use of vertical and horizontal studding, which has had the effect of scoring off the glass into a series of window boxes for the display of art objects.

It is interesting to see the manner in which the Lockwoods have compensated for the loss of view. Lockwood, an amateur artist, undertook to paint a mural on one wall depicting a quaint waterfront scene. The perspective is so convincing that the apparent size of the dining room is greatly enhanced.

Next to the dining room is the spacious gray and yellow kitchen, which throws its double doors open onto the courtyard, thereby merging the two areas. A cherry yellow dinette set stands just inside the glass doors, and in a second, the whole thing can be rolled out into the sheltered garden for Sunday breakfasts or party lunches.

THE MASTER BEDROOM upstairs was planned with enough space for the inclusion of an intimate reading and study area. Set in a niche apart from the bedroom proper, the sitting room is given further distinction with its sloping ceiling. Immediately beyond this is the high-walled sun deck. This arrangement answers the need for occasional privacy. Russell worked toward a design that would enable the family to "get together" without sacrificing features of necessary seclusion.

Because Mrs. Lockwood indicated a desire to spend much time in this room, Russell provided that the baby's room also converge onto the sun deck. In this manner, the Lockwoods' small daughter can play outdoors without danger under the watchful eye of her mother.

The little girl's room is carried out in pink and powder blue. Her older brother's room abounds in a sturdier cowboy motif. All three sleeping rooms have windows that open wide to the ocean for breeze and view.

Placement of the entry at the side of the house gives measure of seclusion to this home on a tiny location.

Why Taffy Learned to Tease

By Jay King

Taffy O'Neill relies on her eyes while dancing.

TAFFY O'NEILL performs a type of ecstacy which qualifies her as a leading strip-tease artiste at the Lake nightclub.

As Taffy makes her nightly rounds under the blue spotlight on the small stage, the question which occurs to some, but not many of the patrons is:

"How does a stripper learn the odd contortions of her trade?"

And another question: "Why?"

The strip-tease, of course, is as old as Salome.

The unveiled dancer of the Orient learns her art from the sorority of the harem.

But in the West there is no academy of bumps-and-grinds. So where, how and why did the tall, blonde and blue-eyed Miss O'Neill learn her profession?

"In Long Beach I used to go out to the Bomb Shelter quite a bit," she explains. "And when I heard the combo beating out the rhythm I just wanted to get up and dance."

It was almost that simple. Taffy had another reason. Money. "My son, David" (the only child of Taffy's marriage) "has had polio. The National Foundation did a lot, but it couldn't do it all. So I needed the money."

Taffy watched the bumpers at the Bomb Shelter. "Then I got an agent. He taught me enough to start. I learned the rest by experience."

SHE DIDN'T HAVE MUCH of a repertoire at first. "I was awkward and stiff from training as a fashion model."

Taffy relied — and still relies — on her eyes.

"I depend on my eyes to hold attention. I play to some one person on each side of the stage."

It is not the sea blue eyes alone which opened the door to

Her 128 pounds on a tall frame are proportioned 38-24-37.

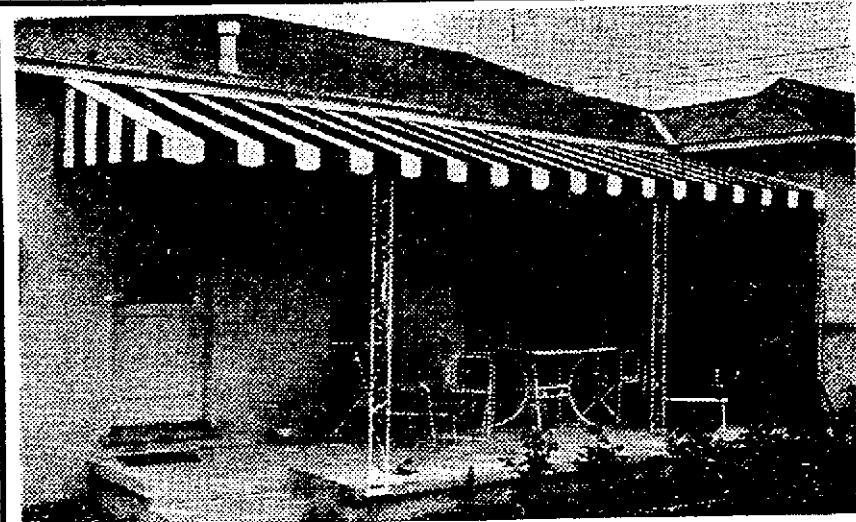

These generous proportions have been affected little by 23-year-old Taffy's acrobatic career.

"I was big for my age at 12 and thoughtlessly created a sensation one day at Banning High in Wilmington. All I did was wear a sweater."

Does a stripper's career conflict with marriage?

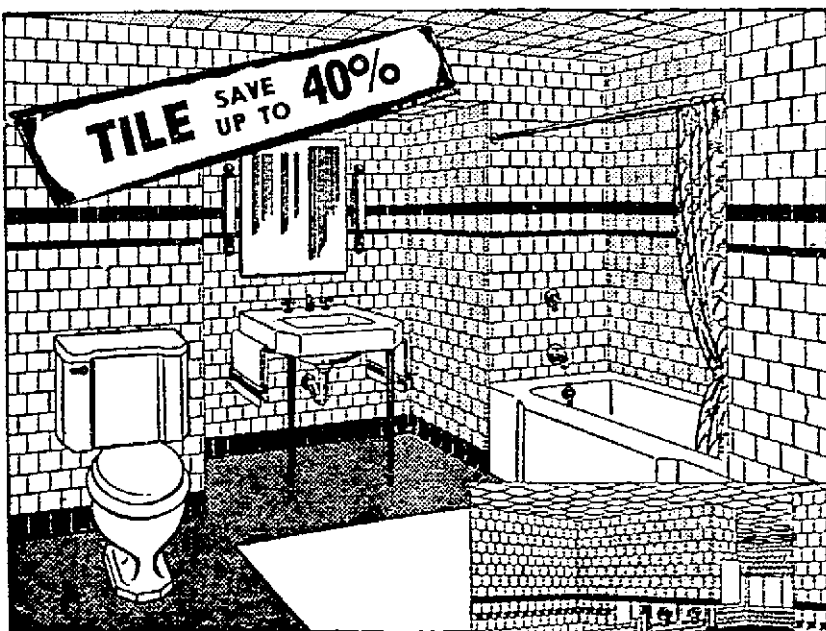

"No," says Taffy, emphatically.

"If more wives would learn a little dance for their husbands, there would be fewer married men in my audience."

Here is a low cost investment in comfort. A recent Lakewood installation by A-I ALUMINUM AWNING CO. Year 'round weather protection is provided by the colorful aluminum awning that immediately transforms a plain rear porch into a beautiful patio. A-I Aluminum Awning Co. are local manufacturers at 3118 South St. For free estimates at factory discounts on aluminum awnings for windows, doors and patios, call ME 3-5197.

has issued a star-studded album to honor its parent.

Memorable numbers such as Gene Kelly's "Singing in the Rain," William Warfield's "O! Man River," and duets such as "Easter Parade" by Fred Astaire and Judy Garland and "No Business Like Show Business" by Betty Hutton and Howard Keel make this a prized lp.

Another fine lp issued by M-G-M shows off the splendor of "Gypsy Music." Each of the 12 numbers is stirring but the "Cembalo Hora" is a thing of exceptional beauty. The cembalo, indeed, is a neglected instrument, much more exotic than the zither.

There is a considerable amount of frenzy, too, in the eight Dixieland Jazz numbers presented by Good Time Jazz Records as "Firehouse Five Goes South." Ward Kimball's trombone plays the clown throughout the Session, giving excellent support to the other sidemen on such classics as "Alabama Jubilee" and "At a Georgia Camp Meeting."

IF YOU BELIEVE everything you hear, Tony Bennett is going to be the busiest singer around. According to reports, he plans to do a Hank Williams memorial album. Williams wrote such hits as "Cold, Cold Heart" and "There'll Be No Teardrops Tonight"—and another album of hot jazz songs. He's also working up some singles with Errol Garner. All this for Columbia, of course, and let's hope, that between these specials, there'll be some regular records.

THE FIRST ORIGINAL cast album ever made before a show opened was cut by Decca. It is Guy Lombardo's "Arabian Nights," at Jones Beach on Long Island. It stars Lauritz Melchior and Helena Scott. The show is booked for the entire summer, so there was no reason to wait for reviews before cutting the record.

GENE KELLY
.. In star-studded album ..

HILLBILLY HIT: "I Hit the Jackpot (When I Won You)," Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys (M-G-M).

IT COSTS MONEY to launch a singing career, especially for a crooner. MGM's 19-year-old Tommy Mara is bidding for the big time, and he's made up picture buttons and membership cards and all sorts of gimmicks. He's hired a full-time secretary and a press agent. All this adds up—but Tommy's dad is fortunately in the chips.

IN THE MONEY—Perry Como's latest, "There Was Never a Night So Beautiful" and "Hit and Run Affair" (RCA); Nat "King" Cole's "Make Her Mine" (Capitol); Ella Fitzgerald's "Who's Afraid" (Decca); Dinah Shore's "Pakistan" (RCA).

ARMCHAIR TRAVELERS will go far as they listen to the following new lps found in the loan collection of the Long Beach Public Library: "Charles Munch Conducts French Music"; Luigini, "Ballet Egyptien" (Weldon conducting City of Birmingham Orchestra); Offenbach, "Gaité Parisienne" (Fiedler conducting the Boston Pops); Ravel, "Bolero" (Koussevitzky conducting the Boston Symphony); Strauss, "Don Quixote" (Munch conducting the Boston Symphony) and Strauss, "Music of Johann Strauss" (Fiedler conducting).

The Good Land and Its People

By John Gartner

THE CONQUEST OF DON PEDRO, by Harvey Fergusson (Morrow, $3.75).

Readers of this new novel by the author of "Grant of Kingdom" are presented with a lead character who is not the usual fiction hero. Leo Mendes is a health refugee from New York in the days following the Civil War who becomes an itinerant peddler in the Southwest. He opens a store in Don Pedro, grows in stature and influence, marries a vital Mexican girl, Magdalena, who is 24 years his junior, and then finally leaves everything because he is a man of peace.

Even if the reader is confused and skeptical as to Leo Mendes, he is enthralled by the picture of the land and its people as painted by the story-telling art of the author. Born in Albuquerque, N. M., of pioneer parents, Fergusson presents the nuances of fact and behavior that make the story seem very real. Each character stands out clearly and distinctly, including Padre Orlando, village priest; Don Augustin, ruling Rico of the town; Robert Coppinger, handsome horseman from Texas who steals Leo's wife; Dolores Pino, the witch, and others.

The book holds interest and pleases tremendously. But upon finishing it the reader will be concerned along with the author, who says, "Although I have shared some of Leo's experiences, it puzzles me that I should have imagined a man so different from myself in many ways, and should have felt such complete sympathy with him." This is the Literary Guild selection for July.

GEORGE DAVIDSON, PIONEER WEST COAST SCIENTIST, by Oscar Lewis (University of California Press, $3.50).

George Davidson is one of the west's most overlooked men of importance. Although remembered best, perhaps, as the man who charted navigational aids for the guidance of Gold Rush ships converging on California, he actually charted every mile of the great coast from Mexico to northern Alaska. His career was a fascinating one, particularly when reviewed in the entertaining style of the man who also wrote such outstanding California historical works as "The Big Four" and "Silver Kings."—F. T. K.

THE COMPLETE GUIDE TO SPINNING TACKLE, by George V. Thommen (Crown, $1.50).

Fishing with spinning reels, a technique that goes back centuries, only recently captured the fancy of Americans and now it is the rage almost everywhere. Devotees of the sport will want this book because it gives all the latest dope about spinning technique and equipment.

OCEAN SAILING AND RACING, by Cuthbert Mason (Macmillan, $4.50).

An unusually readable book for the salt water racing enthusiast. The author is thoroughly experienced in the sport and covers authoritatively and amusingly all phases from tactics and navigation to crew morale and seasickness. A valuable addition to your marine library.—C. R. H.

Explorers Honored

THE LEWIS AND CLARK EXPEDITION a century and a half ago, which resulted in the opening of the vast northwest to the United States, is the subject of a 3-cent commemorative stamp which will be first placed on sale at Sioux City, Iowa, July 28. Sioux City was picked because it was there that Charles Floyd, a member of the expedition, died. Collectors should send their addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Sioux City, with money order remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, prior to July 28. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers."

Tuna Canning

they climb another conveyor belt that takes them to a can washer. Next they go to retorts for additional cooking that sterilizes the contents so that it will keep indefinitely.

STAR-KIST even utilizes an automatic method to insure that all the batches of tuna cans receive this second cooking. Each batch, in a large metal cart, has a cardboard tag on the front. Before it is cooked, the tag is red. Heat of the cooking turns it green. A worker can tell at a glance whether the batch has been sterilized and thus prevent the possibility of a batch bypassing the retorts.

From the retorts, the cans go to another battery of machines that label them, stack them in cardboard cases, and seal them without human aid.

One of the most unusual mechanical developments in canning, which was patented by Star-Kist, is a device that turns all the empty cans right side up before they are fed into the canning machines.

The automatic lift that puts the empty cans on the conveyor belt used to dump them on helter-skelter with half of them upside down, and the cans had to be righted by hand. They now are righted by a device that would delight Rube Goldberg.

THE CANS are machine-fed onto a narrow track down which they roll on their sides past two magnets that face each other. Each magnet attracts the cans whose bottoms face the magnet, but has no effect on the can whose open tops face the magnets. The magnets tilt the cans into two separate runways, one to the left, one to the right, so that they all slide onto the conveyor belt right side up.

It hasn't missed yet.

The mechanization that pervades the Star-Kist cannery has also stepped up the efficiency of the fish-catching process. The boats, which range as far south as Chile in following the seasonal movement of tuna, are equipped with such devices as radar, sonar, and helicopters to aid them in locating the tuna schools. Sonar, which was used in World War II to locate enemy submarines, can search out tuna beneath a boat by the distinctive sound they make.

A new electronics device, the Fish Loop, developed in Germany, recently has been installed on one tuna clipper. It is an improvement over sonar, which works only on fish beneath the boat. The Fish Loop can spot them in an area up to 3000 feet away from the boat.

ONE ODD PROBLEM that the tuna industry solved long ago, however, required the genius of man rather than the efficiency of the machine.

When canned tuna was first introduced to the American housewife, it ran into unexpected consumer resistance. Mrs. America was accustomed to the pink color of salmon, and shied away from the white-and-tan color of tuna.

This resistance was overcome by a high-priced Manhattan public relations expert, who at the same time took a subtle whack at the familiar salmon by implying that there was something wrong with a fish that had a reddish hue. He advised tuna canners to print a simple slogan on their product:

"GUARANTEED NOT TO TURN PINK IN THE CAN."

To date, no one has developed a machine that can come up with ideas like that.

metric forms and structures from natural forms are illustrated as well as scenes from the painting workshop.

In an introduction prepared for the exhibition, George Boas writes: "Design is order. It may be found in nature, in plants, animals and rocks. It may be created by geometry and illuminated by the other sciences. It may be brought into the light of day either by the intellect or by the spontaneous action of the artist's insight. It may exist in its own right as a pattern of beauty or applied to the satisfaction of human needs. It is the enemy of obscurity and links the philosopher, the scientist and the artist in the achievement of a common purpose. These panels illustrate its birth and its life in the artist's mind."

HOW TO Polish With Power Tools

FLOOR POLISHER results when sander-polisher is equipped with a handle. Bristle brush and a wet paste of fine-grit cleanser remove scuff marks and dirt from asphalt tile floor. A spreader pad, as pictured, applies wax;
 then buffing pad does polishing.

METAL OBJECTS that have been scratched or scorched can be buffed into beauty again with a fine-wire wheel, here used on a sander-polisher. Use care so the lines from buffing all flow in the same direction, and don't press the wheel into soft metals so hard it digs pits.

GLASSY FINISH for surfaces such as this heater reflector is attained with a fabric buffing wheel and rouge abrasive. A high polish increases heater's efficiency. Rouge can be bought in stick form, to be laid evenly on fabric wheel while it is spinning on polisher.

FLEXIBLE SHAFT is not an abrasive tool in itself, but it can be used to carry powder from a heavy motor to inaccessible places. Grindstones, abrasive discs, wire wheels, and fabric buffers can be fastened to the shaft end. Here, a wire wheel is used to remove rust from scooter in need of paint.

IT'S THIS EASY TO DO! Just sprinkle—or spray—a diluted solution of ORTHO-KLOR 44 Chlordane Spray around the foundation—under porches, along runways, around the garbage container. This special ORTHO formulation serves as an "invisible barrier" through which ants and carwigs just won't pass. Easy to mix and extra thrifty. By following easy label directions you dilute Chlordane to the dosage recommended by experts. At this effective strength, ORTHO-KLOR makes one gallon of diluted spray for about 16¢.

The Exotic Flower of Passion

By Vera Williams

WOULD YOU LIKE something exotic and distinctly different for your garden?

Try the passion flower — the Passiflora Incarnata, so named by Spanish explorers because they envisioned a religious symbolism in its geometric delight of circles, triangles and pyramids, perfectly balanced to produce the rare and exotic bloom.

The corona, with its delicate blue tipped filaments, denoted the crown of thorns, they thought; the three prominent purple styles represented the Trinity, also the three nails which held the Savior to the cross. The five antlers denoted the five wounds, they thought, and the pointed leaves resembled the spearhead and the tendrils the scourges or cords. Two perfect five pointed stars are formed by the sepals and petals. Added they give 10 points, the number of perfection and completion.

The passion flower, an exotic, tropical tendril-climbing vine, grows rapidly on fence or trellis. It blooms profusely and produces edible orange, yellow or purple fruit called maypop, a corruption of the American Indian word maracock. The plant is indigenous to South and Central America, and flower lovers say there are at least 300 varieties. The passion flower is built in tiers, beginning with the creamy green petals. Next the corona, like two close fitting discs, rests lightly on the petals. The corona gives the flower its color, as it is a hyacinth blue at the edges with a center circle of white and an inner circle of deep maroon attached to the green stem. Above this rise the five green antlers and topping it all three almost black styles.

Just one word of warning: Caterpillars love the passion flower. You must spray early and often.

Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . Many weeds are now maturing and will shortly reach the seeding stage. The time to eradicate this type of vegetation is before the seeds have a chance to form. You have your choice of several different kinds of weed killers: some are selective and others actually sterilize the soil against all plant growth.

Zinnias can still be started from seed, some varieties flowering in less than two months. These plants want a sunny spot. One of the amazing zinnias of recent introduction is the Lucky Strike; it has tremendous size and produces certain pastel shades rarely seen in this group.

When petunias are through flowering they should be pruned back. This will encourage the plants to carry through the winter season and flower again next spring.

Spanish explorers named it the passion flower because they envisioned religious symbolism in it.

Carpet Your Garden With Color

By Bob Gilmore

IT IS POSSIBLE to carpet your outdoor living room with a rug of living flowers. Those varieties selected should have a low-growing habit of growth and the capacity for producing bright-toned flowers for a long period of time. In addition, they should be hardy and able to tolerate an open exposure.

Petunias are certainly one of our best summer-flowering plants. For ground-cover purposes it is best to choose the low-growing varieties. Petunias make few demands on the caretaker. They must have a sunny spot. In the hybrida nana compacta group — those recommended for low growth — you have your choice of the following: Blue Bedder, Rosy Morn, Silver Blue, Snow White, White Perfection and Peach Red.

Another splendid flower for this purpose is the gazania, a native of South Africa that thrives throughout the Southland. Variety uniflora is perhaps the best known in this area. The flowers are yellow, set off by black spots toward the center of the bloom. The foliage curls inward at night, revealing a white underside.

Gazanias rarely ever grow taller than about six or seven inches. The plants react favorably to regular applications of plant food. Sunny skies are a must for top production; overcast skies will prevent the flowers from opening. Usually you will note blooms from April through December.

Pansies enjoy a cool, moist atmosphere but they will do well along the coast during the summer if supplied with plenty of moisture. Possibly some shady or partial-shady spot in your garden will need color and here pansies will fill the bill well. A mulch will aid in conserving moisture.

THE MESEMBRYANTHEMUM, answer to the poor man's garden dream, is very much at home in this area. It has won much fame as a ground cover on hilly sites and is used extensively for this purpose all over Southern California. The leaves are succulent and thus capable of storing up great quantities of moisture. Plants may be started either from seed or divisions, the latter being the preferred method. The following colors are available: Crimson, copper, ruby-red, lavender, pink, yellow, buff and white.

Although the verbena is classified as a perennial it is usually grown in this district as an annual. The flowers are colorful, including shades of red, pink, crimson, purple, lilac and white. The Verbena is not extremely particular concerning soil preferences; the plants apparently thrive in every garden location. Some pruning during the season may be required as the plants unfortunately have a rather sloppy habit of growth. Cut the stems back from time to time as they grow out of bounds.

ALYSSUM GROWS RAPIDLY from seed and is a plant that literally hugs the ground. The Royal Carpet is one of the most-talked-about introductions of recent years. It has a spreading, compact habit and is marvelous for carpet bedding. The plants possess a uniform habit, growing three inches tall with a 12-inch spread. In addition, it is an All-America Winner.

If you wish to carpet your outdoor living room with a covering of cool-appearing, sombre tones, then turn to the ivy family. One of the most attractive foliage plants for ground cover purposes is the Algerian ivy. The leaves are larger than those of English ivy and the plants grow faster. Also, the coloring is a beautiful clear green. Hahn's ivy is a small-leaved ivy, grows slowly but fits in nicely between stepping stone areas.

- She's Queen of Atlantis
- (Continued From Page 3.)
- ver, copper and pearl-oyster beds.
- HISTORY of the strangely assorted island group is fascinating. The isles were discovered by Leif Erikson, Viking explorer, in 1001 A. D., according to Mrs. Meeker. Erikson's brother died on Flamingo Island and is entombed there. It was recognized as a Danish possession until 1917, when Denmark found it inconvenient and unprofitable to provide protection for such a small and far-flung territory and thereupon relinquished all claim to King Christiano I, native ruler of mixed Indian and Danish blood. Christiano was succeeded by his son, Alfredo I, who died in 1938 after previously turning over the governmental reins to Adm. John L. Mott, Danish sailor and soldier-of-fortune, who became the first governor general with kingly powers. Mott died in 1944 and was succeeded in turn by Jeremias Sonneveld van Boelzaraer, another Dane. Van Boelzaraer was Don Juan Hua Eiderscol's immediate predecessor. Mrs. Meeker becomes the fourth non-native ruler and first woman to head the empire's government.
- The 25,000 total population is made up of about 18,000 dark-skinned Indians, of probable Inca ancestry; 6500 mixed Indian-Danish descent natives — some of whom claim forebears in Leif Erikson's party; 500 or so Cubans, Panamanians, Virgin Islanders, and a scattering of Europeans and Americans who live by trading and fishing.
- Mrs. Meeker will make her first visit to her new realm early in the fall, at which time she will be inducted formally into office.
- A NATIVE Californian who traces her ancestry back to early western pioneers, Mrs. Meeker has no thought of relinquishing her U. S. citizenship. She plans to spend but a few months each year in Flamingo, where she'll
- discharge her designated sovereign duties — consisting largely of signing documents, proclamations and appearing at a few informal and minor diplomatic functions. Remainder of her time will be spent in residence at her present California beach home.
- No change in governmental policy is planned. Legislative and judicial matters are ably handled by a 15-member elected parliament, whose powers are precisely stated in the empire's 45-article constitution, based primarily on the Ten Commandments. There is no capital punishment and no income taxes. Mrs. Meeker, as governor general, is constitutionally entitled to a 26 per cent personal levy on all inter-island trade and foreign export business, but her first imperial proclamation from Flamingo Castle probably will make her the most popular monarch ever to rule the empire of Atlantis and Lemuria.
- "Just to be queen of a real tropical kingdom is reward enough for me," the motherly Queen Gertrude I declares. "I'll immediately renounce all forms of tribute as my first decree. After all, I'm an experienced resort operator, among other things, and I'm sure that we 'Lemurians' can get our share of the Yankee dollar without exploiting each other!"

PETER G. STATHIS

PETER G. STATHIS, Long Beach restaurateur and raconteur who recently outwitted Groucho Marx, has a very low opinion of housewives' cooking abilities.

In fact, he is plain disgusted with women who complain about the high prices of meat and have not got sense enough to do something about it.

Stathis, part owner of the Sea Food Grotto at 701 E. Ocean Blvd., appeared on Groucho Marx's radio and TV shows a few weeks ago and achieved everlasting fame in the restaurant world by slyly slipping in a big free plug for his restaurant. Then, when the show went off the air, he wowed Groucho's studio audience by insulting the cooking abilities of America's housewives in a number of well-chosen ad libs.

Stathis' story is really quite simple. He says that housewives themselves keep the prices of meat high because they keep on buying the higher priced cuts and ignore the cheaper cuts which require more work and culinary skill before they can be made highly palatable.

"The trouble with American housewives," says Stathis, "is that they're can-opener crazy. They want to fix all their meals in a hurry without any bother. And as long as they keep on buying steaks and choice cuts of meat, those high prices are going to stay up."

Stathis, who has been in the restaurant business 42 years, advises the modern wife and mother to return to the cooking techniques of her mother and grandmother. He advises them to cook such things as chucks, stews, shoulder of lamb, macaroni, etc.—but with a difference. And that difference is the sauce which accompanies each dish.

"Prepared with loving care," says Stathis, "the right sauce can turn an ordinary cheap meat into a delicious dish."

Is there a secret to these fine sauces? Nope, says Stathis. And if any Long Beach area housewife wants the recipe for one of Stathis' sauces, he can be contacted at the Grotto daily from 10:30 a. m. to midnight.

French Chief and Molotov in Long Talk

"Hopeful Progress" Toward Indochina Armistice Reported

GENEVA (UP)—France and Russia have made "very useful and hopeful" progress towards an Indochina cease-fire in private talks, French sources said Saturday night.

The "progress" was made at a face-to-face dinner conference between French Premier Pierre Mendes-France and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Mendes-France rushed to the meeting with Molotov and his top aides shortly after a French military plane flew him here from Paris for the final phase of the Far Eastern peace conference.

The session lasted more than 2½ hours and broke up shortly before midnight as the French statesman sought to win a "peace with honor" by July 20.

The effort came as the United States appeared to be boycotting the final and most crucial stage of the conference, fearing that France would have to pay the Communists too high a price for peace in Indochina.

British and French officials have made several appeals to the United States within the past 24 hours to have Secretary of State John Foster Dulles return to Geneva. The appeals have been turned down thus far.

But, even as Mendes-France and Molotov talked here, Communist Premier Chou En-lai arrived in Moscow on his way back to the conference from Peking.

Significantly, with Red China expected to make a big pitch for admission to the United Nations in the fall, Chou was met by the Soviet's permanent delegate to the U. N., Andrei Vishinski, as well as by Trade Minister A. I. Mikoyan.

The Mendes-France meeting with Molotov was described as "cordial and full of hope."

The French sources said they agreed to confer together "as often as possible." They added the two top ministers chatted about night subjects during dinner at Molotov's lakeside.

L.B. Sailor Saves Two From Lake

A Long Beach-based Navy man rescued two drowning persons in Crystal Lake near San Dimas Saturday and gave artificial respiration to one until she regained consciousness.

Gunner's Mate George Kidd dove to the rescue of Don Bothell, a lake resident, who had become exhausted when he tried to save 18-year-old Winona Conklin, of Baldwin Park.

Pulling Bothell to shore, Kidd went back in after the girl, Miss Conklin suffered a cramp when she went for an early morning swim in the San Gabriel Mountains lake with three teenage friends.

Swimming to the bottom, Kidd located the unconscious girl and dragged her onto the beach, where he started giving her artificial respiration.

Kidd was relieved from time to time by Forest Ranger L. W. Cammack. After nearly an hour, the girl revived.

When an ambulance carrying her to the hospital broke an axle, Miss Conklin was transferred to a sheriff's car for the ride to Covina Hospital.

She was reported in good condition later Saturday.

L.A.C. SAYS:

Going It Alone

If the United States should withdraw from the United Nations because two-thirds of the 60 nations voted to seat Red China, it would place us in the position of complete isolationism. We should do all we can to keep the Reds from being seated. We should use the veto to do so. But as long as we are in the United Nations, we should abide by the rules and the vote of that organization. To act otherwise would, in our opinion, make us weak and autocratic in our attitude.

When Sen. Knowland and Congressman Craig Hosmer rush bills before Congress calling for our withdrawal from the U. N. should Red China be approved, they are attempting to usurp the prerogatives of the President and Secretary of State. It is being said the President welcomes the demonstration. But his statement does not bear out that fact. He and Mr. Dulles do

CIO Ends Paducah A-Strike

WASHINGTON (UP)—A strike threatening production of atomic and hydrogen bombs was called off Saturday and a "gratified" President Eisenhower discarded plans to seek a Taft-Hartley law injunction against it.

CIO atomic workers voted 329-96 to return to work immediately at the atomic energy project near Paducah, Ky., reversing a decision Friday night to continue the walkout.

In accepting a back-to-the-job plan worked out by Secretary of Labor Mitchell and CIO President Walter Reuther, the Paducah employees followed the example of strikers at Oak Ridge, Tenn., who voted early Saturday to end their walkout.

The peace plan calls for a government review of health, housing and community problems of all the nation's atomic workers.

In all, 1000 workers were involved in the Paducah strike and 3500 at Oak Ridge.

When word was flashed to the White House that the Paducah employees had accepted the peace plan, the President's press secretary, James C. Hagerly said:

"The President has just been informed by the Secretary of Labor that the work stoppage at the Paducah atomic energy plant has been ended and that the CIO workers have voted to return to their jobs."

"The President desires to give special public tribute to those AFL workers at Oak Ridge and supervisory personnel at both locations who recognized the importance of the national security aspects of their jobs and who did not leave them."

"He is also gratified that the CIO members returned voluntarily to work and that the plants will soon be restored to normal operation."

"The return to work now makes it unnecessary for the federal government to seek an injunction under the terms of the Labor Management Act of 1947 (Taft-Hartley Act)."

Miss Greece Lands, Lauds Barred Girl

The substitute Miss Greece of 1954, bound for Long Beach and the Miss Universe contest, arrived in New York Saturday and had nothing but kind words for the girl who had to stay behind.

One of a multitude of international beauties heading here for the huge pageant, which begins Thursday, Effie Androulakis, 18-year-old law student, said it was her first trip away from home.

But she showed herself well able to cope with reporters' questions.

She was chosen to represent Greece here after her country's contest winner, Rika Dailas, 21, was barred from the United States under the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act because she once drew an illustration for a book written by a Communist.

Brown-haired Effie said that she was very sorry for Rika and for that reason wasn't too pleased about coming here.

"I wasn't enthusiastic because I was so sorry for her," Effie said, "but of course, now that I'm here, I'm pleased about it from my own point of view."

She was asked if she thought she would do well in the contest.

"No!" she replied emphatically. "I'll try, but for her to be selected first, she must have been better than I."

And when a photographer asked her to lift her dress to show her knees, she refused.

"I'm not cheesecake," she said. Other Miss Universe entrants arriving Saturday at New York's Idlewild International Airport included representatives of Germany, France, Belgium, Italy and Sweden.

Miss Germany, 18-year-old Regina Ernst, also refused to display her calves on advice from her chaperone, Christel Shaack, Miss Germany of 1953.

However, Jacqueline Beer, 21-year-old Miss France, gladly cooperated with photographers and

Israel Plans to Draft Arab Men for Army

JERUSALEM, Israeli Section (AP)—Drafting of Israel's Arabs into the Israeli army was fore-shadowed by an official announcement Saturday night that registration is about to begin among all Israeli minorities.

Israel's compulsory service law requires 2½ years service for all men and two years for women. But so far, in practice, only Jews and members of the Druse sectarian community actually have been enlisted.

Saturday night's announcement indicates the intention now is to enforce this law by including Moslem and Christian Arabs who comprise about 10 per cent of the population.

A spokesman said a mobilization order is about to be published requiring all 18 to 20-year-olds to register.

Residents of Hanoi in Flight

HANOI, Indochina (UP)—The people of this northern Indochina metropolis have begun the rush to get out ahead of the Reds and Americans without urgent business were told Saturday to leave at once.

The anti-Communist Vietnamese are leaving by hundreds daily for the less-menaced south rather than face the keen possibility of life under the Vietnam here.

Those leaving are fearful that the French may hand over this great industrial city to Ho Chi Minh, the Red leader of the Vietnam.

U.S. Consul Turner Cameron told American correspondents the situation in Hanoi is very serious and that he told Americans who have no urgent business here to leave while commercial planes still are available.

The Americans here include 15 to 22 U.S. government officials and agency personnel, eight to 12 news correspondents, a teacher, a student and four to six missionaries. The number varies with travel movements.

Cameron said he had given the advice to get out to about 20 Filipino musicians playing in Hanoi night clubs. They are under American diplomatic care.

Plans have been made for evacuation of all Americans if it becomes necessary. All might have to fly because other transport is either stopped or too risky.

Cameron said his warning was based on "all the information available to us" and not on anything especially new.

Europe Flood Toll 12; Loss $45 Million

50,000 Homeless; Reds Link Disaster to U.S. H-Blasts

MUNICH, Germany (UP)—Broken dam and a flash flood created new dangers Saturday on the upper reaches of the Danube River system, where raging waters already have killed at least 12 persons and caused damage estimated at 45 million dollars.

In Austria and Germany, an estimated 50,000 persons are homeless.

Seven Germans and five Austrians were known dead in the worst floods of the century, and the toll was expected to rise as reports arrive from isolated areas.

No figures have been received from flooded zones in Soviet Germany and Red Czechoslovakia.

Communist propagandists were quick to blame the floods on "U. S. hydrogen bomb tests."

Floodwaters ravaged many famous Alpine resort towns but no American or other foreign tourists were known to be in danger.

Heavy rains and melting snows swelled the Danube itself and some 20 tributary streams, washing out scores of bridges, flooding cities, towns and villages and inundating 380 square miles of farmland.

U. S. armed forces in Europe swung into action immediately, sending thousands of engineers troops and a swarm of helicopters to aid flood sufferers.

The most critical situation was in the German city of Passau, where the Danube, Inn and Ilz Rivers swirled together into a 38-foot flood crest, trapping some 600 residents in the upper floors of buildings.

Two thousand United States soldiers from Germany and Austria, with amphibious "ducks," and a score of airmen in helicopters helped to check the floodwaters at Passau and rescue stranded survivors.

A new threat to Passau was reported Saturday night when a dam burst at Neuotting, 45 miles southwest of the city.

Bigamist's Life Ended by Poison

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Eugene P. Rockledge, 43, who married his second wife without divorcing his first, drank a cyanide cocktail Saturday and died almost instantly, police reported.

Rockledge's first wife, Patricia, of Manhattan Beach, appeared to claim his body, and his second, Vivian, of Hollywood, arrived at the coroner's office to identify it.

Police said Rockledge separated from his first wife two years ago and married Vivian in Las Vegas, Nev., April 2 this year without divorcing Patricia. Patricia filed for an interlocutory decree last month but the case had not come to court.

Officers said Rockledge filled a thermos bottle cap with water and then added cyanide. A passerby found his body in a parked car.

Rockledge lived with his second wife in an apartment in Hollywood.

She refused to believe he was dead and finally went to the coroner's office in Los Angeles and identified his body.

The body later was claimed by Rockledge's first wife, who engaged a North Hollywood mortuary to handle funeral arrangements.

"I just didn't believe it," Vivian said. "We were happy together. We went to the races Friday afternoon. He loved me very much and I loved him."

A note left by Rockledge read: "Vivian, I love you. I didn't go with another woman. Vivian, I love you. You are beautiful. All my belongings go to Vivian. Mitchell O'Keefe I love her. I keep my word, Viv, I love you. I did not go out with another woman I love you."

Nesher said he recognized the husky 6-foot Rothlingshofer as the man who cashed a $70-dividend check in his store last year. This later was found to be a forgery.

Nesher told police that Rothlingshofer came to the market Saturday afternoon and asked him to cash an allotment check. He said he recognized the man and called Seal Beach police.

Long Beach Detective Arthur E. Perle said Rothlingshofer told him that he "thought" he had taken the second check Thursday from a mail box at 545 Linden Ave.

"I don't know why I did it," Rothlingshofer reportedly told Perle.

Perle said the allotment check Saturday amounted to $91.30, was dated June 30, 1954, and payable to Agnes E. Kohles. The check was drawn against the Navy Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

Officers William Holman and Thomas E. Terry handled the Seal Beach investigation.

Nike Installation at L.A. Delayed

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) said Saturday the Army will delay plans to install a Nike anti-aircraft unit at Los Angeles International Airport while it tries to find another site.

Kuchel said the Army told him it offered to join the Civil Aeronautics Administration in tests to determine if a Nike battery would interfere with the planned range guided landing facility.

will before getting down to serious business after the meal. The French leader was optimistic the conference would reach agreement on Indochina, but concerned that the apparent U. S. boycott of the closing sessions of the meeting would cause the Reds to raise their price for peace.

The 47-year-old Frenchman said before leaving Paris that he would "enlighten" the tough Soviet foreign minister on "the French position" on peace in Indochina.

Mendes-France, in a speech recorded before he left Paris, said he would confer with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and India's roving Ambassador V. K. Krishna Menon, Monday.

Following these "preparatory steps" he would be ready to open final negotiations, the premier said. He said no one could say what the outcome would be but that he is convinced France has taken all necessary steps to win peace.

The Communist price for a cease-fire remains the great question as the decisive stage of the nine-nation conference opens. The latest indication is that the Reds will ask a dividing line in the state of Vietnam between the 16th and 18th parallels. With all of the Red River delta to be turned over to the Reds except the capital of Hanoi, and port of Haiphong.

The U. S. administration apparently is not prepared to associate itself with a settlement based on such demands—which American diplomats feel leave the door open for Red control of all Indochina.

Mendes-France probably will meet the Communist Chinese premier as soon as Chou returns to Geneva.

Communist Vietnam sources here hinted their leader, Ho Chi Minh, might come to Geneva shortly to build up even further the top-drawer Communist contingent at the talks where the U. S. so far is represented by its diplomatic second team.

Mendes-France has only 10 days left before the July 20 deadline he set when he took office promising to bring peace to Indochina or resign.

The French premier told a three-hour-and-15-minute meeting of his cabinet before leaving Paris that he had done "everything possible" to persuade the U. S. to play a full role at the Geneva talks or risk the loss of millions of Asians to the Communists.

At the same time, a British Foreign Office spokesman in showed off a pair of shapely legs.

Maria Teresa Pallani, 18-year-old Miss Italy, told reporters she keeps thin on a diet of spaghetti.

Daughter of actress Giovanna Bonacci Pallani and movie "bit" player herself, Miss Pallani wore a white dress under a Roman tunic and cape fashioned of the Italian national colors—red, white and green.

Christine Darney, 19, Miss Belgium, also wore the costume of her native land.

Auburn-haired Miss Sweden, 19-year-old Ragnhild Olsson, said she would rather be a dress designer than an actress, but she would accept a movie contract if one were offered.

Most of the girls were asked how they felt about marrying Americans.

Said Miss Italy: "If I find an American man that I love very much and who loves me, well then, maybe, I would marry him."

Miss Sweden: "I should like to work—but not at getting a husband—while I'm in the United States."

Miss Belgium said she was engaged to a Belgian leather merchant, whom she expected to marry, but added:

"We all have aspirations."

She didn't explain. The first group of beauties is expected to arrive in Long Beach late tonight.

Martha Rocha, Miss Brazil, and Marian McKeown, Miss Costa Rica, will be escorted from Los Angeles International Airport to the Wilton Hotel. Bessie O'Campo, Miss Philippines, will be taken to the Lafayette Hotel.

Next scheduled arrival here is Isbell Danouart, Miss Peru, who will register at the Lafayette Hotel.

Misses Greece, France, Italy and others who arrived in New York Saturday will appear today on CBS television, "Toasts of the Town," to be seen here at 8 p.m. on Channel 2.

They will fly west Friday morning on a special plane.

Boat Sinks, One Lost

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP)—A pleasure boat carrying 11 men on a Hudson River moonlight stag cruise crashed into a barge and sank early Saturday 10 miles north of here. One man was reported drowned and two were injured.

London announced that Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden have asked Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to return to the Geneva conference.

Reluctant Sec. Dulles Ponders Hop to Geneva

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles Saturday pondered long and hard the question whether he should fly back to Geneva to join in showdown talks on an Indochina peace settlement.

He was understood to be disposed not to go. There was doubt that he would serve a positive purpose by doing so, as he might by staying here and pressing forward the creation of an anti-Communist united front for Southeast Asia.

Yet his advisers and Dulles himself were well aware that delicate relationships with America's allies and other difficult considerations involving U. S. interests would depend on his final decision.

Dulles told a news conference Thursday he had no present plans for going back to Geneva peace negotiations which he left two months ago in the belief that they would accomplish little. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith carried on until three weeks ago when he left the American delegation in the hands of Ambassador U. Alexis Johnston.

But this week end Soviet Minister Molotov, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Premier Mendes-France were returning to the Swiss conference center to try to carry through a final round of negotiations on peace in Indochina.

France's Ambassador Henri Bonnet appeared to Dulles Friday to join the group himself or send Undersecretary Smith in order to raise the diplomatic rank of the U. S. delegation. The British have taken a similar line.

Dulles was clearly in a difficult spot. His disposition against going apparently rested on several points:

1. Neither Dulles nor anybody else here knew what kind of deal Mendes-France might make with the Reds about Indochina peace. If it is too much of a "surrender" settlement, such as Washington has feared, the U. S. will refuse to approve it. Such refusal could be more delicately and less spectacularly handled if Dulles were in Washington instead of Geneva.

2. The terms of a settlement are beyond the control of the United States. Mendes-France has pledged himself to get peace or resign by July 20. His negotiation position is weak. The United States tried to strengthen the French position by creating a united front and a strong threat of intervention in Indochina before the Geneva conference opened but Allied nations declined to go along at that time.

3. The major objective on U. S. policy for Southeast Asia now is the creation of a coalition or alliance which would establish some kind of line against further Communist aggression. Talks on this were resumed in Washington this week. The belief is that this cause can be better served by Dulles in Washington than in Geneva, as things now stand.

4. The Eisenhower administration has to be very sensitive to congressional attitudes on the whole Southeast Asian problem. While Dulles could please some allies by returning to Geneva, he could incur additional difficulties in his relations with Congress, where any Geneva settlement is very likely to be subject to cries of "appeasement."

On the other side of the problem stands the fact that the British and French governments would like to have Dulles or Smith share directly in the responsibility as negotiations enter the final critical stage.

American officials must consider the possibility that if Dulles and Smith stay away the claim may be made, especially by French spokesmen, that France had to make a worse deal than it otherwise would. U. S. officials figure they may be in for a certain amount of blame-flicking controversy anyway.

Other considerations include the questions of allied unity—an American secretary letting his British and French counterparts stand alone at such a time—and of the identification of the United States in many areas of the world with the cause of peace. The question here is whether a failure to have a high level representative at Geneva would be construed abroad as meaning that the United States was less interested in peace than Russia.

Finn Twins in 20th Day of 'Win or Die' Fasting

The fighting Finn twins will go into the 20th day of their self-imposed fast today, still determined to "win or die" in their stubborn battle with the U. S. government.

The 40-year-old brothers, George and Charles, lay in their bunk at the Terminal Island Medical Facility all day Saturday, awaiting the outcome of their bail hearing Monday before three judges.

The pair started their fast in protest of one-year jail sentences stemming from their "citizens' arrest" of U. S. Attorney Laughlin Waters. They said they felt he violated their rights in withholding possession of a surplus government airplane they had bought.

After nearly three weeks without food, the two reportedly were "increasing in weakness" Saturday but apparently were not near collapse.

Fair Today, Maximum of 78 Forecast

Fair weather is in store for the long Beach area today and Monday, according to the weatherman, with a high of 78 predicted for this afternoon.

Saturday's peak of 78 and water temperature of 69 drew a beach crowd of 65,000, according to lifeguards' estimates.

The guards reported eight rescues Saturday in Colorado Lagoon, one in Alamitos Bay, all described as routine, and none along the ocean beach.

The weather forecast indicated fog and low clouds on the coast spreading inland in the night and early morning hours today and Monday.

But, weathermen added, both days will be mostly sunny and warm.

Saturday afternoon, two Compton men in a 16-foot inboard boat were pulled safely away from threatening breakers off Sunset Beach by the Coast Guard after the craft's engine stopped and they went adrift.

Owner Ed Williams, 12601 Cookacre, Compton, and his companion, George Highland, of the same address, were rescued by a cutter.

Their runabout "By-now" ran out of gasoline off the beach community and began drifting toward the foaming surf. The men tried paddling with their hands but were losing ground when the Coast Guard arrived.

Graves Torn, Israel Calls for U.N. Help

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Israel complained to the United Nations Saturday that the 1,000-year old Jewish cemetery on the Mount of Olives had been plundered, tombstones broken and the cemetery desecrated.

A letter from Mordecai Kidron, Israel deputy representative, carried the complaint to U. N. secretary general Dag Hammarskjöld. It was accompanied by photographs made with a distance lens from the Israeli section of Jerusalem, intending to show the toppled stones. No U. N. action was asked.

The cemetery has been in the hands of Jordan troops since the 1948 Arab-Israel war.

ENOUGH FOR 15 DAYS

Guatemalan Tells Red-Sent Arsenal

GUATEMALA (AP)—The overthrown Communist-infested Arbenz regime had obtained enough weapons from behind the Iron Curtain to fight a red-hot revolution for about 15 days, an army officer said Saturday. This was the arms shipment from Stettin, Poland, which the U. S. State Department disclosed on May 17 and which set off a Western Hemisphere furor that finally led to the revolt and invasion by Col. Carlos Castillo Armas.

The ruling junta now headed by Castillo Armas announced Saturday it is starting an investigation to find out how the Arbenz government bought the arms, and whether it ever paid the bill.

Although the shipment was estimated in Washington to be worth around 10 million dollars, the Guatemalan army colonel in charge of ordnance purposes said today that figure was "exceedingly high." Some officers said two million dollars would be a more likely figure.

The army claims it did not know about the purchase until the shipload of arms arrived at Puerto Barrios.

Both defense and finance ministry officials said they did not know whether the shipment ever was paid for, or where the money came from if payment was made.

The finance ministry said there was no record of an appropriation to cover the arms import, but said it might be disguised among other entries.

The army general staff allowed the Associated Press correspondent to take a look at some of the equipment Saturday, about a third of which was stored at Guardia de Honor armory south of Guatemala City. The remainder was stored at Matamoros fort and at the air base, but about a third of that at Matamoros was destroyed or damaged when one of Castillo Armas' planes scored a direct bomb hit on the fort setting off a lot of ammunition and hand grenades.

The colonel in charge of ordnance purchases said the equipment was mostly German-made, and had nearly all seen use but was still serviceable. He said this was what Guatemala received from behind the Iron Curtain:

- 1,000,000 hand grenades.
- 1,000 submachineguns, .45 caliber.
- 3,000 semi-automatic rifles.
- 8,900 German Mauser pistols.
- 1,000 machineguns, 7.90 caliber.
- 100 howitzers, 75 mm.
- 23 antitank guns, .37 caliber.
- 10,000 antitank mines, pancake type.

There also were about 20 Italian Redra 12.7 caliber and 7.7 caliber demountable guns usable against troops or aircraft and a dozen 20 mm. Oerlikon antiaircraft guns.

However, Guatemala had no ammunition for the Italian and Oerlikon guns, for the shells were shipped one way and the States is believed to have intercepted the ammunition when an attempt was made to load it at Hamburg, Germany.

"Arms without ammunition are not arms," the colonel said succinctly.

He added: "All this is quite good for a revolution, not for an army. There was 35 days supply of ammunition at regular rate of fire. That would be enough for a hot revolution rate."

As to the usefulness of the guns, he continued, "no matter what they look like and even if they are well worn they will all kill."

The antitank guns, however, were not of much use against revolutionists who had no tanks.

Fast Life by PETRONIUS JR.

CITY COUNCIL WOMAN BACH deserves support in her questioning the Auditorium Annex project.

Actually that project cannot properly be advised until it is known whether or not we are going to drill for oil near it.

THE ENGINEERING REPORT showed definitely there is greater subsidence danger in that area than we have already had.

That report suggested a more detailed report on subsidence, which is now being prepared.

BUT SUCH A REPORT will be meaningless unless we know if we are going to drill east of Pine Ave.

That should only be known after the people have a chance to vote on the issue, and after more details on subsidence are presented to the people.

THAT MAKES THE REMARKS by Mrs. Bach and Councilman Toby Wick important.

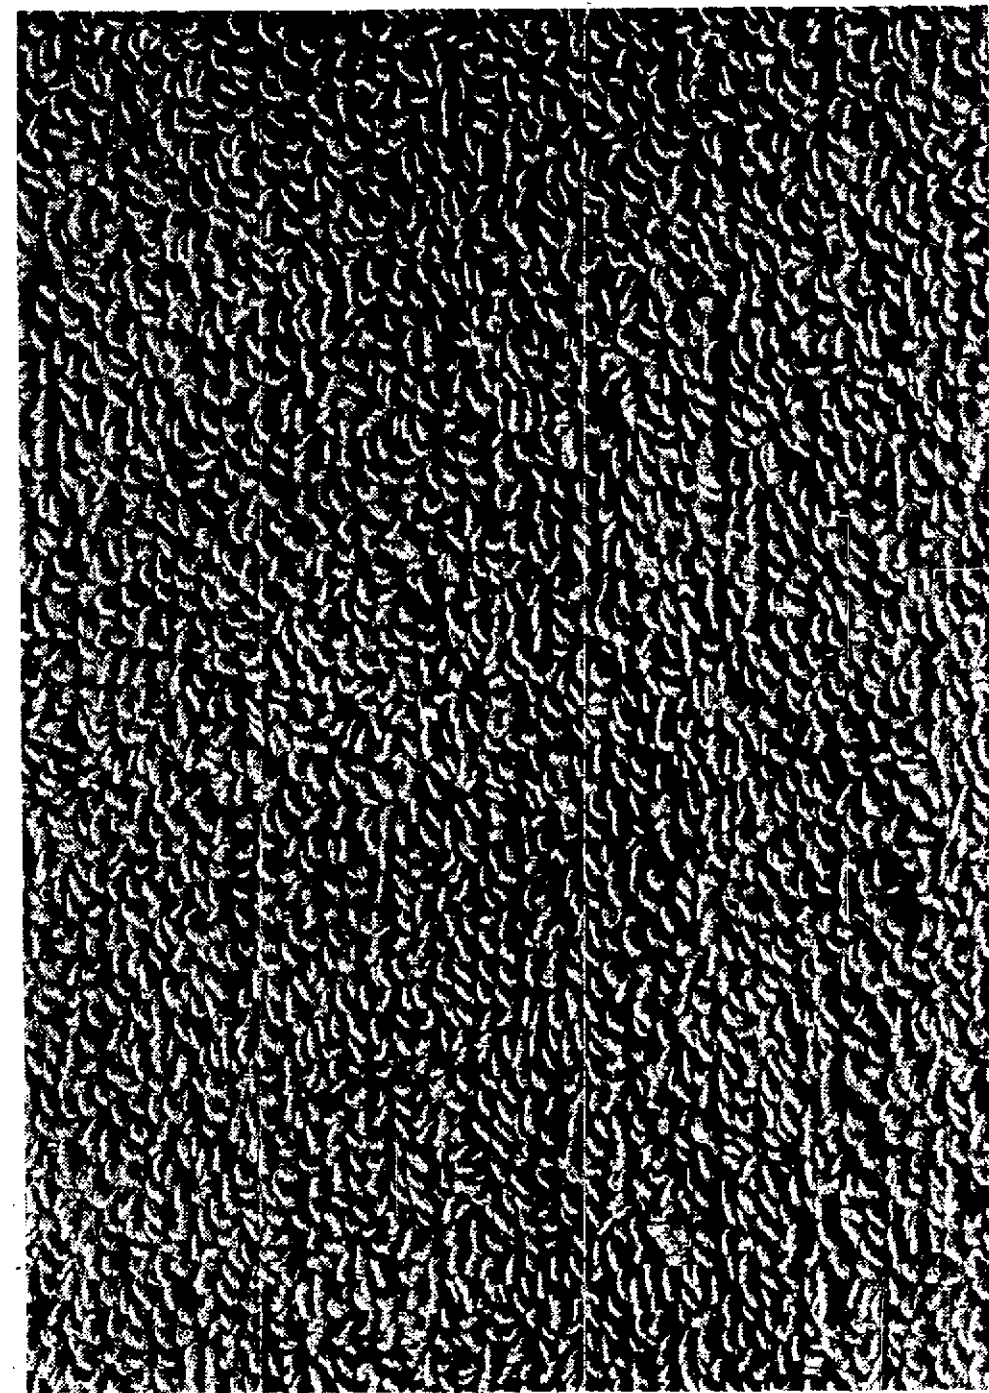

The project was so messed up by being put on the ballot without a Citizens Committee report, it deserves a complete study, and possibly reimbursement to the voters with adequate information.

Sen. Lehman Raps Johnson's Stand on U.N., Red China

WASHINGTON (AP). Sen. Herbert H. Lehman (D-NY) said Saturday night that Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) was not speaking for the Democratic party in suggesting the United States should quit the United Nations if Red China is admitted.

Taking issue with Johnson, Lehman said U. S. withdrawal would have a disastrous effect on relations with U. S. allies and "completely destroy the effectiveness of the United Nations." Lehman, in an interview on the NBC television program, "Youth Wants to Know," said he personally is "strongly opposed" to admission of Red China until she has "unmistakably shown" a wholehearted desire to "work for lasting peace and security in the world."

Two L.B. Men Due Legion Honors Today

Two Long Beach members of the Army and Navy Legion of Valor are among men being honored today at the organization's convention in Los Angeles.

Henry F. Schroeder, 5267 Vista St., who received the Congressional Medal of Honor, and James W. Hanbery, who holds the Distinguished Service Cross, will have copies of their citations placed in the Legion's "Heroes' Hall of Fame" display at the Statler Hotel.

Members in the organization must hold either Army or Navy Medal of Honor, Navy Cross or Distinguished Service Cross.

Schroeder, who retired from the Army as a major, received his medal for heroic action as a sergeant in the Philippine Islands on Sept. 14, 1900.

The Long Beach man led a detachment of 22 men who defeated 400 insurgents, killing 36 and wounding 90. Only two men in the American group were killed. Schroeder was wounded during the action and spent more than a year in the hospital afterwards.

Hanbery, who retired from the Army as a captain, was given his medal "for extraordinary heroism in action at Chateau-Thierry, France, July 19, 1918."

A first lieutenant with the 59th Infantry, Fourth Division, he led the attacking unit of the assault company from his battalion in an advance through heavy machine-gun and artillery fire. The unit successfully gained its objective.

When the battalion on his left was held up by enemy machine-gun nests, Hanbery's battalion was exposed to a grazing and flanking fire which threatened the destruction of the entire battalion.

Hanbery, although wounded, reorganized the attacking line and led a successful attack against the machine gunners. In the process, he was wounded again.

The Legion convention will continue through Wednesday. Peter Paul Martinek Jr., vice commander of the organization, has invited all holders of the four highest medals to attend the convocation and apply for membership.

Man Knifed Fatally, Then Hit by Auto

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — A wandering farm worker stabbed to death a man who gave him a ride Saturday, and the victim later was run over by a hit-run driver, Sheriff J. Peery Francis said.

The victim, E. H. Hays, 24, of Bakersfield, Calif., staggered under U. S. Highway 66 after the stabbing. His body was run over five minutes later.

Ted W. Phillips, 31, of Nashville, Tenn., was charged with first-degree murder and, after waiving preliminary hearing, was ordered held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

A coroner's inquest, held at near-by Williams, unraveled the mystery.

The jury heard Dr. John H. Calley, a Williams physician, say death had been caused by a chest wound. Highway Patrolman Charles Hartup of Seligman, who investigated, said he believed Hays had been killed by the car until he turned the body over and saw the knife wound.

After viewing the body, the coroner's jury noticed a man hitchhiking on the road. Sheriff Francis was notified, and Phillips was arrested.

Francis said the suspect admitted the stabbing and showed deputies where the knife had been hidden in a tree near Hays' parked car. A woman hitchhiker, Leona May, 31, of Elsie, Mich., was found in the car and held under $2,000 bond as a material witness.

The May woman told officers that both men had been drinking wine and had decided to stop by the highway to sleep. Soon they began to argue, she said, and Phillips suddenly attacked Hays.

Phillips told deputies that he and Hays had been working together in the Bakersfield, Calif., area picking fruit the past two months. They decided to go east in search of work.

Both Phillips and the woman were taken to Williams for the inquest and later were brought to Coccino County jail here.

U.S. Funds Due Military Camps in L.B. Area

Three Long Beach area military installations were named to receive funds in an $837 million military construction bill passed by the Senate Saturday and sent on to conference in the House.

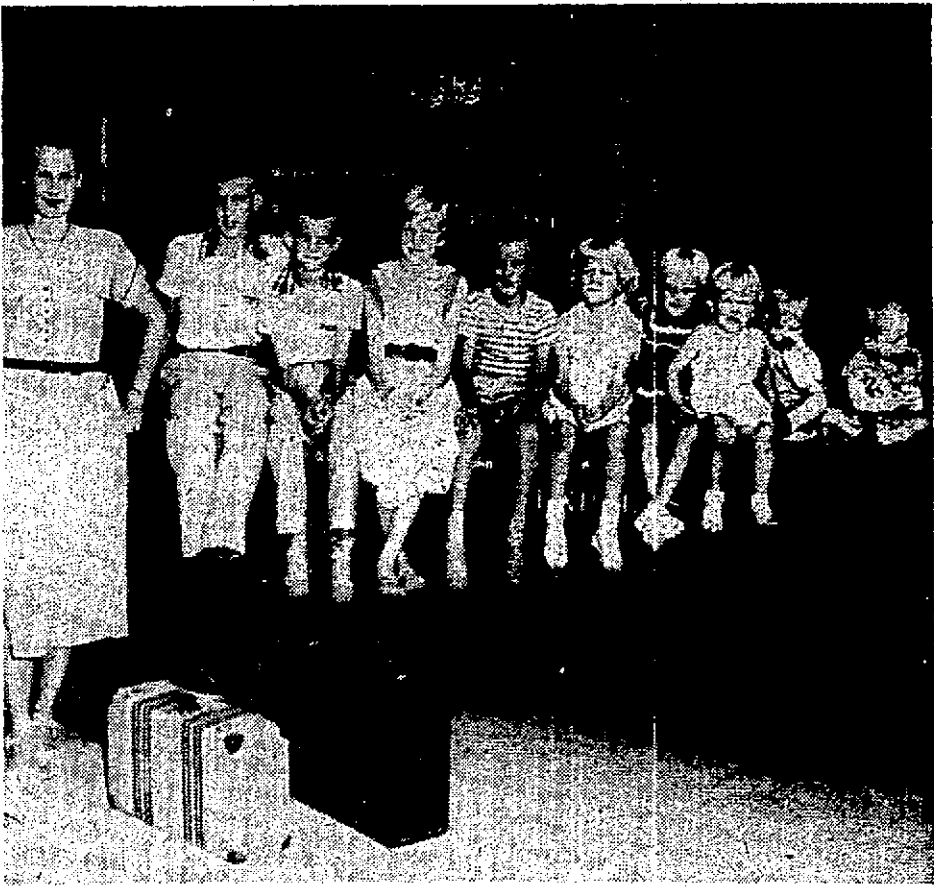

In passing the measure, the Senate voted down a proposed cut of more than $44½ million. The authorization bill will have to be followed by an appropriation measure before work can start.

Included in the allocations were El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, $1,675,000; Norwalk Air Force Tank Farm No. 1, $156,000; and the Norwalk Air Force Tank Farm No. 2, $737,000.

M'Clellan Starts Drive, Omits M'Carthy Issue

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, ranking Democrat on the McCarthy investigations subcommittee, omitted any reference to the recent Army-McCarthy hearings when he opened his campaign for re-election Saturday night.

One of McClellan's opponents in the July 27 Democratic primary is former Gov. Sid McMath, who charged Thursday that the hearings were "an international spectacle" and "a discredit to the United States Senate."

McClellan devoted most of his speech before several thousand persons here to a resume of his voting record in the Senate.

He revealed earlier today that he will use a helicopter in whirlwind air tours of Arkansas that will involve campaign speeches in 8 to 10 towns per day.

The senator's son, Jim, an air veteran of World War II, will use a conventional aircraft to fly McClellan to a new section of the state each day where the senator then will hop from town to town in the "whirligig."

McClellan mentioned only two of his opponent's charges in making his opening address—that he has a Republican voting record and that his legal representation of some large oil companies was responsible for his vote in favor of the tidelands oil bill.

"I did not go to the Senate to rob or take away from any sovereign state of this nation any of its territory, property or minerals," McClellan said. "I believe in state rights and state ownership of its natural resources."

The tidelands bill gives coastal states title to offshore oil properties.

McClellan said he has never voted for a Republican, but that he has placed general welfare above partisan politics in his Senate voting record on issues. He said that 44 Democratic members of the Senate recently wrote him personal letters of commendation for "services rendered to our party."

Aid Given Man Drifting in Boat for Three Days

A San Pedro commercial fishing boat Saturday went to the aid of a fisherman who had been drifting without food or fuel in his 22-foot boat for three days 83 miles southwest of San Diego.

The Coast Guard reported that Albert Kemp, of San Diego, was found safe but hungry on his small vessel by the crew of the San Pedro-based vessel Light.

An air-sea search was instigated when Kemp was reported overdue from a three-day fishing trip out of San Diego.

The Light stood by until a Coast Guard cutter was sent to take Kemp's boat, the Evelyn K, in tow.

Housing Witness Flying to Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Norman K. Winston of New York City sent word Saturday he will cut short a European vacation and return to this country next week to testify in a Senate investigation of housing scandals.

Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) had announced Thursday he was asking the State Department to withdraw Winston's passport privileges. Capehart alleged then that Winston "flew to France at the height of our investigation and under circumstances which make it appear he was trying to avoid being questioned" by the Senate Banking Committee in the housing investigation.

3 More License Racket Suspects

LOS ANGELES — (AP) Gov. Knight said Saturday that "at least three more persons on the public payroll" are suspected of liquor license racketeering.

He gave no names, but he ordered "the full resources of the state's law enforcement agencies" into the investigation and prosecution of the liquor license racket in Southern California.

He said in a press statement released just before flying to Lake George, N. Y., for a national governors' conference that he will do everything in his power to bring the three and their confederates to justice, if reports prove correct.

Knight issued his statement nine days after Assemblyman Charles W. Lyon (R-Beverly Hills) was indicted by a San Diego grand jury for bribery and grand theft. It charged he tried to collect $6,500 from Harry Patterson of San Diego, an applicant for a liquor license, and did collect $1,000. Lyon, once speaker of the Assembly, said he is innocent. He is free on bail.

"I am determined," said the governor, "that the nefarious practices which have been disclosed be uncovered in their entirety and that those responsible be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

"It is unthinkable that such a situation be allowed to exist."

He said he has information "that the traffic in liquor licenses is much more extensive than we first believed" and "will leave no stone unturned until this unsavory liquor license mess is cleaned up."

The state issues the licenses at nominal fees, but since they are limited according to population, their value goes up, and the law permits their sale, even at many times their cost. There have been instances of licenses being sold by persons who never went into business.

Lyon was the fifth person to be arrested in connection with San Diego County liquor license dealings. Charles E. Berry, San Diego and Imperial County liquor control administrator for the Board of Equalization, which enforces liquor laws, was among them. He was suspended by the board, despite objections by Southern California member William C. Bonelli, of Los Angeles, who complained of "strange goings on" of a political nature. Ugo Rossi, was sentenced to four months in jail and fined $2,500 in San Diego last Wednesday. He was charged with lying to a legislative committee about a license he got for a vacant lot across the street from a cemetery.

San Diego County Dist. Atty. Don Keller confirmed Knight's statement that three more public officials are suspect and predicted the governor's action will shift the investigation toward Los Angeles.

Survivors of the 'Lex' Get Together to Toast Heroic 'Queen of Fleet'

By PAUL WALLACE
Simply because upon thousands of tons of expensive American steel disappeared in the Pacific Ocean one clear May night 12 years ago, a bunch of guys got together Saturday in Long Beach for a beer.

They thought it was good and sufficient reason to quaff a few. And without doubt, elbows have been bent on less provocation. For these were men with a bond — crewmen off the old "Lex," the proud Navy aircraft carrier, USS Lexington, Queen of the Fleet in those early days of World War II.

They had all served aboard her. Three of them had jumped from her listing deck into a calm, blue ocean called the Coral Sea late the afternoon of a bright May 8 in the dark year of 1942.

They had jumped along with nearly 3,000 shipmates to be picked up later by the heavy cruisers New Orleans and Astoria and two destroyers.

Saturday, three of those 3,000 along with several other sailors who had done duty earlier on the "Lex" met with their wives for a social afternoon on the shaded patio of the home of Tallie James at 2651 Cedar Ave.

James, now retired, was chief commissary steward on the carrier when she went down. One of his men, then a baker first class, Steve Ehrhart, now of Chula Vista, showed up Saturday.

So did retired chief water-tender, T. C. Copeland of 2398 Termino, another veteran of the Lexington's last engagement.

They talked some of the old ship, and how she steamed into the battle of the Coral Sea—that body of blue water between Australia and New Guinea—with the USS Yorktown and their escort vessels bent on heading off a Japanese task force trying to attack Australia.

The American fleet accomplished its mission. The Lexington, with a loss of some 200 men, paid the tab. She suffered three torpedo hits and two direct hits from big bombs.

Abandoned and burned out, she refused to go down and was finally sunk by American torpedoes the night of May 8. Besides the talk of the big carriers, the men discussed a proposed reunion of the Lexington's old crew.

They want to spark a get-together of as many of their former shipmates off the "Lex" as are available—maybe make it an annual affair.

They want anybody who served on the big ship to contact Chief James at his home here or by phone—4-8921.

They think it could be quite a party.

Police Say Actress Admits Driving Hit-Run Death Car

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Film Actress Lynne Baggett sobbingly admitted she fled from the scene of an accident where the car she was driving killed a 9-year-old boy, police said Saturday.

The beautiful 27-year-old blonde actress was released on $5,000 bond after her arrest and arraignment Friday on a felony charge of hit-and-run manslaughter.

She was charged with driving a sedan which crashed into the rear of a station wagon loaded with children last Wednesday, killing young Joel Watnick and injuring another boy and an adult.

"I went back and saw the boy lying there," police said the actress told them. "I knew he was dead. You don't know what something like that does to you."

"I haven't slept in 48 hours. I wish I had been killed instead of the boy."

Miss Baggett, the estranged wife of Samuel Spiegel, wealthy movie producer, was ordered to appear in court July 15 for preliminary hearing. The boy's mother, Mrs. Lillian Watnick, expressed pity for Miss Baggett, but demanded that her son's death be avenged. The actress was arrested Friday in downtown Los Angeles where she protested she was on her way to confer with an attorney before surrendering to police.

Congress Pushed Ike Into Power Deal, Bureau Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The budget bureau said Saturday that Congress itself forced President Eisenhower to make his disputed decision to order new private power facilities at West Memphis, Ark.

Several Democratic senators and congressmen say they will continue sharp attacks this week on the proposal for the Atomic Energy Commission to conclude a 25-year contract with a southern utility group for a new $107-million steam plant to supply power to the Memphis, Tenn., area.

The budget bureau said in a statement this is "the best possible solution" for a prospective power shortage in the Tennessee Valley Authority area, despite "attempts to distort the purposes and effect" of the proposed contract.

"The alternative of construction of a steam plant by TVA has consistently been rejected by the Congress" on four separate occasions—the bureau said.

Stevenson Scores Resources Policy

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, launching the 1954 congressional campaign in the West, said Saturday the administration's natural resources program was a throwback to the Hoover policy of 1931.

Addressing a state Democratic rally here, Stevenson said administration policies have resulted in a "drastic change in what has been virtually a bipartisan natural resources policy."

Stevenson criticized secretary of interior Douglas McKay and Sen. Guy Gordon (R-Ore), newly elected chairman of the Senate interior and insular affairs committee.

"By legislation managed in the senate by your senator Gordon the 'boundless oil wealth of the tidelands is already gone,' he said.

new safe All-in-One capsule discovery for easy reducing

science now helps you take off your fat while you eat the foods you choose

Do you like sweets, candy, cake, butter, gravy, potatoes? Have you tried one thing after another to reduce, spent dollar after dollar for pills and tablets and in spite of everything you've tried you're still too fat? Well, be as skeptical as you like, but NOW, right NOW, there's a wonderful new kind of capsule that helps you take off pounds and inches of ugly fat safely, quickly and so much easier you hardly know what's happening. You don't suffer starvation dieting hunger, you take no drugs, you don't exercise. In fact, you don't even diet one bit more than you want to, because you automatically eat less and here's why...

counteracts hunger

Just recently a well known scientist perfected a new tiny capsule that combines not one but ALL THE RECOGNIZED proven aids to reducing. It combines the vitamins and minerals often lost when cutting off fattening foods containing these needed vitamins and minerals. It combines the vegetable cellulose that has no calories yet expands when it absorbs water thereby helping give the feeling of a full contented stomach. In fact these tiny capsules are so packed with vitamins and minerals, protein and non-caloric filling food, they actually equal and exceed many a meal.

fat goes fast

You'll be surprised at the fat you lose the first week, the inches that disappear the first month. No hunger, no strict dieting, no drugs, no exercise. And the cost is absolutely nothing unless you grow slim, more youthful looking, more active and enjoy better health.

Provisional Division of Trieste Near

BY JAMES M. LONG

ROME (AP)—A so-called "provisional" division of the long-disputed Trieste Free Territory between Yugoslavia and Italy is expected within a few days, possibly early this week.

Immediate results will be: 1. Italy probably will be invited to join Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey in their projected Balkan military alliance. This would knock down the last barrier to linking Communist but anti-Communist Yugoslavia with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

2. Italy probably would rush her ratification of the European Defense Community (EDC) by the end of August, leaving France as the last holdout nation against a West European Army.

3. This nation's thin-majority center bloc government would face its "test in blood" against the powerful communist left and rising fascist right. Both threaten strikes and riots over any compromise on Trieste.

4. Trieste itself, losing its tax-free international status, would face an economic crisis after nine years of dollar-padded prosperity.

A settlement would write a new leaf in the troubled, conqueror-studded 2,132-year history of this strategic upper Adriatic port.

In brief, the compromise provides: Italy will take over Zone A of Trieste, 86 square miles with a population of 300,000, including the port of Trieste, guarded for nine years since the World War II peace treaty by a United States regiment—4,000 men—and three British battalions—3,000 men.

Yugoslavia will finalize her control over Zone B, a farming hinterland south and east of the port city, with 75,000 population and 119 square miles, which her troops have guarded for nine years.

The compromise reportedly calls for minor adjustments of the zonal frontier, mostly in favor of Yugoslavia, and for an undisclosed number of millions of American dollars to help Yugoslavia develop her own port at Capodistria, south of Trieste.

A BROKEN HEART

Brownie, a forlorn mongrel, keeps a lonely vigil Saturday beside the grave of his master, Raymond Sobleski Jr., 7, at Petoskey, Mich.—(UP Telephoto.)

Dead Boy's Dog Guards Grave, Inconsolable

BOYNE CITY, Mich. (AP)—But the best Brownie ever managed was a feeble wag of his tail.

The dog's vigil was discovered by Gerrin. He said Brownie left the grave only when he saw boys nearby. He said Brownie then would run to the boys, inspect them closely, and limp back to the grave.

Gerrin thought Brownie was a stray. He tried to chase him unsuccessfully, then turned his own dog on Brownie.

"But I couldn't get my dog to drive him off," he said. "Somehow, he knew something and wouldn't chase him."

The dog disappeared from the Sobleski home this week after waiting for more than two weeks for Raymond to come riding up on his bicycle again. He was found three days later, lying on the boy's grave.

Lyle Gerrin, who operates a boarding house near St. Francis Cemetery in Petoskey, where the boy was buried after drowning in Deer Lake three weeks ago, said the dog had kept a vigil on the grave for two days.

Brownie's paws were bruised and badly cut from the long journey. A veterinarian patched up the paws, but the boy's father, Raymond Sr., said no one has been able to cheer up the dog.

"What can a vet or anybody do for a broken heart?" the father asked.

Brownie had been to the cemetery twice before his journey this week. He had attended the boy's funeral and had visited the grave once with the family. Each time they had a hard time getting the dog to leave.

He and Raymond had been inseparable ever since Raymond got the dog when Brownie was weaned 14 months ago. They were a familiar sight in the neighborhood. Raymond rode his bike and Brownie loped alongside.

After the funeral, Brownie sat and waited for more than two weeks for Raymond to return home before he traveled to the grave.

The family tried to interest Brownie in the younger children in the family, a boy and a girl.

Senate Group Urges France, Italy Aid Be Cut Off Unless They Join EDC in 1954

WASHINGTON (AP)—An abrupt end of all foreign aid to France and Italy unless those two countries ratify the long-stalled European Army or an acceptable substitute by Dec. 31 was recommended Saturday by the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

The decision was made a tentative part of the big foreign aid bill and Acting Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said it would be sent on to the Senate floor Monday unless the State Department protests that it would cause "some dire trouble."

If approved by Congress and President Eisenhower, the threatened cutoff of U. S. aid funds and supplies would be the most drastic step taken thus far in efforts to end the stalemate over the European Army.

In another action, the foreign relations committee hammered a "keep Red China out of the United Nations" notice onto the global aid bill.

The notice, with a request for instructions from President Eisenhower if it is ignored, was put there for all the world to see at the instance of Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican Senate floor leader.

It was a modified version of the "or else we quit" sign which Knowland first proposed as an integral part of the bill authorizing more than three billion dollars in U. S. aid to Western allies during the 12 months that started July 1.

Knowland, in announcing the committee's acceptance of his proposal, declared he has not swerved "one iota" from his determination to resign his Senate leadership post and devote all of his energies to pulling this country and its financial support out of the U. N. if Red China is admitted.

The GOP leader said he felt "much encouraged" however by recent statements of the President and Secretary of State Dulles opposing admittance of the Chinese Communists to the U. N.

Asked if he is moving "counter to Eisenhower," Knowland replied "No, sir," and went on to say he thought Eisenhower "has made it clear" that he believes a reappraisal would have to be made if the Peiping regime were admitted.

The European Defense Community (EDC) has been ratified by Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg and West Germany. Only France and Italy have not given it parliamentary approval in the two years it has been hanging fire.

France's new premier, Pierre Mendes-France, has set up a two-man committee to study widely divergent opinions in the French National Assembly, where chief opposition stems from the proposal to include re-armed West Germany in a two-million-man defense army.

Sen. Smith called the Foreign Relations Committee's recommendation more stringent than one already adopted by the House because it would halt the delivery of goods "in the pipeline" to France and Italy.

Only one other controversial issue remains before the group, Smith said—a demand by Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) that Congress abolish the foreign aid under the direction of Harold E. Stassen, and turn its work over to the State and Defense Departments. The State Department opposes this.

EDC and Red China are two red hot issues coming up for Senate debate when the bill reaches the floor next week.

The U. S. Civil Service loyalty board was due here from previous hearings in Italy, the source said.

$50 Million New Federal Buildings Due

Final congressional action on a lease-purchase bill has paved the way for a possible 50 million dollars worth of new federal facilities in Southern California, Sen. Thomas Kuchel announced Saturday through his Los Angeles office.

He said structures needed in the Southland, and to be considered for the construction program, include 70 post office buildings in Los Angeles County, 20 in Orange County, 20 in San Diego County, 18 in San Bernardino County and 15 in Riverside County.

Buildings needed in the Los Angeles area include a government office building, custom house, postal garage, hospital and a health service dispensary at San Pedro, the senator said.

The bill, awaiting the President's signature, permits the government to acquire structures on the installment plan on a lease basis, with full title being acquired in 25 to 30 years. The construction program would be administered by the Post Office Department and General Services Administration.

Postmaster George J. McMillin said Long Beach would not be affected directly by the bill. He reported, however, that he made a survey of local facilities in March and sent in a report recommending establishment of a "working annex" in the northern area of the city.

The annex would provide large floor space where mail would be broken down and sent to the various branches in the city. It would be combined with a postal garage.

The recommendation was not a part of the lease-purchase plan, but on a regular lease basis, McMillin said.

Capital Capers

By WALTER T. RIDDER, WESLEY PEYTON and ROBERT E. LEE
(Independent Press-Telegram Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON—When President Eisenhower strides into his press conferences, he knows for certain that the following things will transpire:

1. A reporter from a Tennessee newspaper will ask him a question pertaining to the TVA. This one comes up as surely as the sun rises each morn.

2. A lady reporter from a Negro newspaper will ask a question about segregation or integration. This is a sure-fire question at every conference.

3. Another lady reporter from a Texas paper will ask a question pertaining usually to nothing. She seems to feel that no conference is official without a question from her.

Still another lady reporter will ask a question so long, so involved and so editorialized that it isn't clear whether she is posing a query or making a speech. We were going to add one other perennial but, praise be, we got through a whole press conference on Wednesday without one question about — Sen. McCarthy.

Now that Congress is hitting the home stretch, we are inclined to wonder whatever happened to:

That bill to prohibit sale of coffee in Congressional restaurants until the price of java dropped?

That measure authorizing construction of a second Statue of Liberty on the West Coast?

That bill to make obligatory the holding of the Army-Navy game in each state, rotating annually through the 48 states in alphabetical order?

All the bills designed to prevent a repetition of the shootings in the House of Representatives and to make more safe the floor of the House?

In trying to get their work

Robeson Asks Passport for Singing Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Paul Robeson, whose passport was canceled four years ago for his pro-Russia speeches, has applied to the State Department for permission to leave the country for six months of engagements in Israel, England and "other European countries."

Robeson, in his application for a new passport, said he had been "blacklisted for political non-conformity" by the American stage, movie, radio and television.

He made no reference to any plans to visit Russia where he frequently has praised Communists and their aims.

The State Department refused to allow Robeson to go to Moscow last year to accept the $25,000 Stalin peace prize. It finally was presented to him here in Harlem.

Iranian Burglar Gangs Who Loot US Homes Nipped

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Police said Saturday they have smashed eight gangs of Iranian thugs who specialized in looting American homes in and around this capital.

Burglars have stripped American homes of around $20,000 worth of valuables since the emergency curfew was lifted last May 14.

American Gen. Robert McClure, chief military adviser of the Iranian government, said the thugs operated with almost military precision in the city's quiet outer suburbs.

Most of the loot has been recovered, police said.

American military men were the hardest hit as a group, McClure said, but some of the biggest individual takings came from Point Four program personnel and embassy employees.

Gifts for China's Captives Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—An official said Saturday the government has approved a plan whereby gift packages soon may be sent to American prisoners in Red China.

The plan required government sanction because of the present policy which forbids shipment of practically all goods to the Chinese Communist area. Restrictions on shipments to Red China have been stiffer than on exports to Soviet Russia or Soviet satellite nations.

The official, who asked that his name not be used, said some announcement on the proposal to allow shipment of packages to prisoners may be expected within the next few days.

KEY WHITTAKER LETS SELF OUT OF JAIL, FLEES

HUGO, Okla. (AP)—A key-carving jailbird whittled his way to freedom Friday night and still was at large.

Undersheriff Bert Bush said that Tommy Eugene Cosby, 23, carved a makeshift wooden key from a mop handle and used it to open two doors.

The prisoner, being held on a charge of burglary, painstakingly whittled at the handle with a piece of broken glass and a razor blade.

He had been jailed two weeks.

The area involved in the switch is bounded on the north by Long Beach shoeing strip; Downey Ave. on the west; San Gabriel River on the east and South St. on the south.

Plunkett led the campaign with a personal letter to Washington. Other letters, in addition to the petition, are scheduled to be mailed this week.

The dispute concerns an order from Washington transferring

Churchill to Clarify like Chat

By WALTER RIDDER
(Press-Telegram Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON — Prime Minister Churchill is expected to make a statement to the House of Commons Monday, clarifying Britain's position on the matter of Red China recognition and attempting to smooth out the row which arose in the wake of his recent meeting with President Eisenhower.

The row arose over reports that the British were pressing the U. S. to agree to the admission of Red China into the United Nations. These reports were met by head-on congressional opposition and by demands that the U. S. quit the U. N. should Red China be admitted.

The British have flatly denied the reports and have admitted to "some astonishment" at the violent American reaction.

Generally speaking, the attitude of the British government on the matter of Red China might be summed up as follows:

The Communists have control of the Chinese mainland and it is utterly impossible to ignore that fact. Whether or not the regime is the kind of which one approves, the harsh fact remains that it is a major force in the world and must therefore in one way or another be dealt with.

The British feel that sooner or later recognition of Red China is inevitable, but do not say that admission into the U. N. should be consummated this year. They prefer to keep their foreign policy flexible and are adamant against taking a position far in advance of events. Thus, the British will not either support or reject the proposition of Red China recognition until such time as it is actually proposed. At that time, and not until then, will they decide upon their course of action.

In order to maintain flexibility, the British will not agree now to oppose a recognition motion should it be offered. They feel that all of the matters affecting the Far East are of vital concern and must be handled delicately and without taking too many pre-emptive positions.

The British government is unhappy over the uproar in the U. S. which followed the Churchill-Eisenhower meetings, and Sir Winston will undoubtedly try to pour some oil on the troubled waters when he appears before Parliament, presumably Monday.

The unhappiness stems from the fact that the British are keenly aware that U. S.-Great Britain friendship and understanding is the key arch of the western world alliance. They fear arguments and disagreements tend only to drive the U. S. into a form of isolation which in turn will only succeed in isolating Great Britain, thus in effect dividing the world into three parts—the U. S. and its followers, Great Britain and its allies, and the Russians and their satellites. This, the British consider, would be disastrous.

The whole western world position in the Far East is now in its most critical stage. The French government is trying to settle the Indochina war and how it is settled will have a marked and lasting effect on southeast Asia. The British want very much to work in concert with the U. S. in order to throw the utmost of influence on the French to effectuate a "reasonable" solution to the Indochina affair.

All of the foregoing is expected to be reviewed by Churchill in an effort to clear up what the British feel has been a bad misunderstanding of their position, arising out of what they say were somewhat garbled reports of the Eisenhower-Churchill conversations.

L. B. Woman Seeks Aid for Orphans

When Mrs. Eva L. Taylor, 120 Redondo Ave., starts a project she keeps it up.

Five years ago she read in the Press-Telegram about the Sarah Murphy home for orphan Negro children at Rockmart, Ga.

Since then, she has gathered $1,000 in cash and "dozens and dozens" of boxes of clothing, shoes and toys which she has sent to the children.

Last year when the orphanage burned, she renewed her efforts. A new $46,000 brick and concrete building has been erected, but to date it is without plumbing, lights or furniture, she says.

"Fifty-one little Negro children need help," says Mrs. Taylor. She will receive clothing, shoes and toys for the children. She asks that checks, made out to the Sarah Murphy Orphanage, be sent to M. A. Perry, cashier of the Rockmart, Ga., bank, who handles funds for the home.

Plan Identification in School Tot Clothing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—This city's 400,000 school children may soon be wearing identification tags sewed into their clothing under a program being set up by the Board of Education and civil defense officials.

Col. Richard F. Lynch, local civil defense director, said that metal "dog tags" would not be practical since children might trade them, and he and the school board are looking into the cloth type.

More than 500 delegates are expected at the five-day meet.

The discussion will occur Tuesday at 1 p. m. in the auditorium in one of two section meetings scheduled. ### Ex-Convict Says He Saw Judy Killed

ATLANTA (AP)—A 44-year-old ex-convict claimed Saturday he saw the rape-slaying of little Judith Ann Roberts in Miami Wednesday, but police were inclined to discount his story. After questioning him for nearly an hour, Atlanta Det. Sgt. Louis Hause said the man's statement in which he named a companion as the slayer was "cock and bull story."

Marietta Det. A. L. Bagley Jr. listed the man as Walter Lee Yow of High Point, N. C. He said he was arrested in Marietta, 20 miles north of here, on suspicion of passing a bad check. During questioning, Bagley said, Yow told of being with another man when the Roberts child was slain.

Mrs. Milton Eisenhower, President's Relative, Dies

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (UP)—Mrs. Helen Eakin Eisenhower, wife of the president of Pennsylvania State University and sister-in-law of President Eisenhower, died at her home here Saturday after a long illness. She was 49.

A native of Manhattan, Kan., she met her future husband, Milton S. Eisenhower, when she was 19 and a sophomore at Kansas State College.

Eisenhower spent the next two years as vice consul in Edinburgh, Scotland, and she transferred to George Washington University when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy E. Eakin, moved to Washington, D. C.

She and Eisenhower were married Oct. 12, 1927, after she received as a graduation gift a four-month tour of Europe. Mrs. Eisenhower had been confined to her home for the past two months. She was eating a late lunch in her bedroom when she was fatally stricken. Dr. John H. Light attributed death to a blood clot.

With her at the time of death was her husband and a son, Lt. Milton S. Eisenhower Jr., a member of the Army Reserve now on active duty. A daughter, Ruth, who was attending summer camp at Brown Ledge, Vt., was en route home.

Eisenhower has been president of Penn State since 1950. Prior to that he was president of Kansas State.

In addition to her husband and two children, Mrs. Eisenhower is survived by her parents, who reside in Washington.

Funeral service will be Tuesday in St. Andrews Episcopal Church here and burial will be in Centre County Memorial Park on the outskirts of State College.

Lady Toreador, Inspired by Ava's Boy Friend, Tackles Two Bulls Today

INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM—A-9

Demo Anderson Rips Farm Bloc Senate Bill

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Anderson (D-NM), Secretary of Agriculture in the Truman administration, denounced the Senate's new farm bill Saturday as "impossible and miserable." He predicted its defeat unless it is modified.

Meantime, President Eisenhower signed into law a bill providing for the disposal overseas in the next three years of one billion dollars worth of surplus food. Of the total, 300 million dollars would be an outright gift. The remainder would be paid for in foreign currencies. These, in turn, would be used to buy strategic materials for the United States.

Anderson and Sen. Williams (R-De) tried to kill the Senate Bill Saturday before the Agriculture Committee cleared it for floor action.

Both favor the flexible farm price supports requested by Eisenhower but opposed by the Senate farm bloc which favors present high supports.

"I predict it will be rejected as it stands," Anderson told a reporter Saturday. "If it is modified, the Senate may pass it, but it is a miserable bill."

The measure calls for a continuation of high price supports on most basic crops and would raise dairy price supports so high that department of agriculture economists said it would cost the taxpayers $200,000,000 a year.

Eisenhower asked for a "flexible" support program, ranging from 75 to 90 percent of parity, and is depending on Senate leaders to scuttle the committee's bill.

Chairman Aiken (R-Vt) opposed the committee's version but permitted it to go to the floor in the belief it would be modified.

The House-passed farm bill, described as acceptable to the President, calls for supports ranging from 82 1/2 to 90 percent. It pegs dairy supports at 80 percent as against the Senate figure of 85 percent.

Parity is a standard calculated to give the farmer a fair return for his crops in relation to the things he must buy.

Sen. Young (R-ND), a senior member of the Agriculture committee, called for Senate support of the bill as "it is in line with the needs of agriculture and with the commitments of the Republican party," Young said.

An amendment will be offered to provide wool price supports to JUAREZ, Mexico — (UP) A shapely New York model and actress, inspired to become a bullfighter by movie star Ava Gardner's new swain, will face the second and third bulls of her new career today in the ancient Juarez bullring.

The model is Bette Ford, a 23-year-old brunette. She said she went to Mexico City to try modeling in a Latin atmosphere and there saw bullfighter Luis Dominguin in action. Dominguin has recently been courting Miss Gardner. "He was my inspiration and I decided to follow his profession," she said Saturday.

Miss Ford is five feet, five inches tall in her costume. She has a remarkable figure for a bullfighter: a 36-inch bosom, 23-inch waist and 33-inch hips. She had her first fight in Matamoros, Mexico. The fans there liked her performance so much she was awarded an ear from the bull, which is regarded as a high honor.

"I was scared nervous," she said. "But I lost that feeling after meeting the first bull." She will fight two bulls today on a five-bull program. Two male bullfighters will try to dispatch the other three beasts between them.

It was a year ago that Miss Ford was inspired by Dominguin. She has been studying for her career in the ring ever since. She was backed by Alfonso Gaona, promoter-in-charge of the Mexico City bullring.

Miss Ford said her acting career included parts in "Pal Joey" and "First Lady" on Broadway. She said she was understudy for the lead in "The Coo Coo."

Her home town is McKeesport, Pa. She has never been married and said she doesn't intend to in the foreseeable future.

"But I love to cook," she said. Miss Ford never drinks and smokes only occasionally. But she said she has a peculiar desire to smoke a cigarette while fighting a bull.

55 Smith College Girls Sing for Tito, Win Praise

BRIONI, YUGOSLAVIA—(AP) Fifty-five blue-gowned Smith College girls sang Saturday night for President-Marshall Tito on this Adriatic Island where Tito spends the summer. Tito said it was wonderful.

"He just thrilled everyone," said singer Dail Cameron in describing Tito after the performance.

once in the island's little theater, Miss Cameron, from Scarsdale, N. Y., added: "He was wonderful and very friendly. He put everyone at ease."

Tito, wearing a grey field marshal's uniform, was equally pleased with the girls, reported Miss Cameron. "He told us he thought our music was wonderful," and spoke to each girl.

Pope Hits Young Moderns' Trend Away From Home

VATICAN CITY (UP)—Pope Pius XII Saturday criticized what he said is the modern tendency of people to "live too much" outside their homes.

The pontiff's criticism was contained in a letter sent through the Vatican secretary of State's office to Spain's Catholic Social Problems Meeting, now being held at Burgos. The letter underlined the problem of providing homes and urged that costs of construction be reduced.

AND NOBODY GOT HURT

No one was injured Saturday when this car overturned at Fourth St. and Alamitos Ave. after colliding with another. Driver of the upset auto, Clarence William Wood, of 1111 Appleton Ave., discusses crash with Mrs. Myrtle Belle Carson, of 1831 Elmfield, driver of the other car, and Officer R. L. Itson.

Auto Crashes Injure 10 in L.B. Vicinity

Five persons—four of them women—were injured in Long Beach traffic accidents Friday night and Saturday, police reported.

In other traffic mishaps near Long Beach, three persons were injured, two seriously, in a head-on collision Saturday in Artesia and two others suffered major injuries in a Compton accident.

Mrs. Lucille Serviss, 38, of 351 Wisconsin Ave., suffered leg and arm hurts when the car in which she was riding rammed a parked auto early Saturday at Fourth St. and Temple Ave. Donald F. Serviss, driver, was not hurt.

A 79-year-old pedestrian, Furst Belnal, 123 W. Anaheim St., was treated for cuts and bruises on his arms and legs after he was struck by a car as he walked across Cedar Ave. at W. Anaheim St. Saturday noon. Constantine V. Riccardi, 63, of Alhambra, driver of the car, was not cited.

Edith L. McDale, 241 E. 69th St., was not injured but a traffic signal control box was knocked out of commission when she drove her car into the box at Long Beach Blvd. and Wardlaw Rd. Saturday.

The woman told police she drove her car into the device in order to stop the auto because she was afraid her brakes would fail.

In two Friday night accidents here, Mrs. Rosalie Gabriel, 24, of 327 Golden Ave.; Mrs. Edna Joyce Britt, 21, of 644 W. First St.; and Mrs. Mary Morfoot, 46, of 2735 Easy Ave., were injured.

Mrs. Morfoot, whose injuries were four broken ribs and a possible fractured shoulder, was riding with Howard M. Morfoot, 48, whose car was in a collision with another car at Fifth St. and Chestnut Ave.

Slain Woman Found in L.A. Central Area

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A woman identified as Betty Jo Marshall, 52, was found strangled to death Saturday in a vacant lot on E. Pico Blvd.

Detectives were attempting to trace the woman's movements Friday night.

The body was discovered by night watchman Burnis Bolden, 35, who told police he saw a light-colored car leave the area and then drive back past the lot about the time he saw the dead woman.

Dollar in May at Lowest Value

NEW YORK (UP)—A dollar bill was worth less last May than it ever has been in its 160-year history, the National Industrial Conference Board reported Saturday.

The purchasing value of the dollar in May was down to 53.9 cents, while the board's consumer price index hit a new all-time high of 185.5, the board reported.

The dollar value in May, 1953, was 55.5 cents, the board said. The May mark this year indicated a decline of 2.9 per cent in buying power over the year, the board said.

All dollar values were based on the January 1939 dollar equaling 100 cents.

Lions of 58 Nations Wind Up Convention

NEW YORK (UP)—The largest convention in the 37-year history of the International Association of Lions Clubs ended Saturday with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by more than 35,000 delegates from 58 nations.

Delegates to the four-day convention adjourned their meeting after hearing a speech from the new Lions president, Monroe L. Nute, Kennett Square, Pa.

U.S. Steel Plans Fertilizer Made From Coal Smoke

PITTSBURGH (UP)—U.S. Steel Corp., for years a big producer of chemical products made from coke-oven gases, soon may be selling farms a fertilizer made from coal smoke.

The corporation, biggest steel producer in the nation, is studying plans to market anhydrous ammonia—a chemical used to help keep America's farmlands fertile.

U. S. Steel would produce anhydrous, or synthetic, ammonia from coke-oven gases—already the source of a variety of other chemical products.

The bulk of anhydrous ammonia now used in the nation is made from natural gas and is distributed by oil-refining companies. U. S. Steel could increase the supply considerably.

Costa Rica Calm

SAN JOSE, COSTA RICA (UP)—This capital returned to normal Saturday as the government of president Jose Figueres relaxed security measures against a rumored Guatemala-style invasion by exile leaders.

Governors Told Farm Aid Fight Due

BOLTON LANDING, N. Y. (UP)

The chairman of the annual governors' conference opening here today said that $2 wheat can't be justified, and flexible farm price supports will be "the No. 1 domestic issue in the coming political campaign."

Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado said he thinks President Eisenhower still is "extremely popular" in Colorado, but "there is doubt in the minds of the people, about the Republican party. A Republican himself, he didn't amplify on that."

The President had been scheduled to address the conference Monday night, but canceled his plans because of the death of his sister-in-law.

Turks' Harmony Meet

ANKARA, Turkey (UP)—A conference of top Turkish diplomatic representatives in the Middle East will open Monday. The talks are aimed at better understanding with all Arab nations, particularly with Egypt, and a more active policy for organization of Middle East defense.

Vice President Richard Nixon will substitute for President Eisenhower, arriving here at 10:50 a. m. (EDT) Monday morning and following the same itinerary worked out for the President.

Thornton sounded this political note at a news conference in advance of a meeting which the state executives always say is nonpolitical and non-partisan.

Thornton said he has a farm plan of his own—to put a floor against disaster under farm prices, based on average cost of production.

"If you guarantee profits for farmers," he said, "then you are going to have to do it for the corner druggist, the filling station operator, and even newspaper reporters." The result, he said, will be socialism.

CERAMIC 'HAWG LEG'

Jimmie Hawkins finds this Colt .45 "Peacemaker," made in ceramics as a tie rack by Gladys Workman, so realistic he's drawing a bead on the California Ceramic Hobby and Gift Show.

L.A. Woman Molds Old Guns in Clay

Most women are "scared to death" of firearms, but not Mrs. Gladys Workman of Los Angeles. She's reproducing a whole series of antique guns in clay for the California Ceramic Hobby and Gift Show to be held July 28 to Aug. 1 in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium.

Included will be muzzle-loaders, four-barreled pistols and the famous Colt .45 that became famous as "the peacemaker that tamed the West."

It all began when Mrs. Workman was asked to reproduce in ceramics guns in the collection of Gus Peret, big game hunter.

Instead of fashioning useless pieces, Mrs. Workman has made them up as ash trays, tie racks, lamps, book ends, cigar and cigarette boxes and other articles as gifts for friends.

Fred de Liden, general manager of the Ceramic Show, has commissioned her to make up a complete set for the exhibit, which will attract hobbyists from all parts of the country.

Messy People Keep Him on Job

By BEN ZINZER

Street sweeper Herby D. Miles paused behind his push broom in the streaked sunlight of the early morning hours, lit up a long cigar and observed:

"There's nothing in this world that can take the place of a man or a mule."

Elaborating on this analysis of his job, Miles, 54-year-old city employee of 1019 E. 21st St., added:

"When it comes to anything tedious, it has to be a man. Machinery has its place, yes, but man and the mule play an important part in this good old America in which we live."

Daily, Tuesday through Saturday, Miles pushes a broom and tows a two-wheeled trash cart down Pine Ave. from 7th St. to Ocean Blvd. from Cedar to Locust Aves. on Ocean and then back up Pine.

He starts out early—at 6 a. m. People are careless with rubbish, Miles concludes, but he's not kicking.

"It's their messiness that gives me my job, so you won't hear any squawks from me," he said.

You won't hear any squawks from the public either. Just three weeks ago Miles found a $250 check which he returned to the bank on which it was drawn.

And once he came across $300 in bonds in the gutter, and these were returned to their owner.

Miles, a city employee since 1946, said that "anyone can push a broom—but to be a city employee a man has to be able to advise people."

Miles said he always is being asked for advice.

There was the time an old woman asked for directions.

"She was really mixed up," Miles recalled. "She couldn't even remember her name. I told her, 'Lady, you are in a predicament, and I suggested she check in at City Hall and ask for information. But she wouldn't go for that.'"

Miles, who said, "I just live from day to day and have a smile for everyone," also has these observations on life:

"A man who thinks only of himself is probably a good guy but is really in a bad way."

"Everyone has to rely on someone else for something. Man can never make it by himself."

"People should try to practice the Golden Rule... It's hard to do, though, don't think it ain't."

"If a man gets his mind too high above his means, he can't make it. A fellow who pretends to be what he ain't really has a comedown when others find out he ain't what he says he is."

"Take things as they are. You'll do better."

House, Senate Ponder Fish Boat Protection

By WESLEY PEYTON
(of The I. F. T. Washington Bureau)

WASHINGTON—Considerable effort is being expended in both House and Senate during these closing weeks of the 83rd Congress to come up with an act to protect American fishing boats from foreign seizure.

Bills to this end are under consideration in committees of both houses, and the expectation is some such measure will be enacted into law before next month.

The problem they seek to correct is far from an academic one. Several times in recent years disputes have arisen about the extent of so-called "territorial waters"—normally considered to jut three miles out from any coast.

With the result that American fishermen have been fined and their boats confiscated by countries bordering the Pacific, the Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.), co-author of a Senate fisherman's protective bill, wrote late last week to Sen. James H. Duff (R-Pa.), chairman of the Senate subcommittee on fisheries, urging immediate approval of the measure.

Kuchel's bill, together with one introduced earlier in the House by Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach), call for automatic intervention by United States embassies in cases where American boats are seized. The State Department would be empowered to pay any fines involved and obtain release of the vessel.

The measures are considered a "must" by coastal fishing industries because fishermen and boat owners, as individuals, have no rights but enjoy the use of the high seas through rights possessed under international law by the United States. Since 1945 these rights under international law have become increasingly hazy.

Unless fishermen and their boats are given protection, Kuchel fears they may forego the exercise of their rights to the open sea, with the result that foreign claims will "harden" into firm power of jurisdiction.

452nd Wing Chief to Speak to AFA

Brig. Gen. Joe S. Marriott, commander of the 452nd Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, will discuss the critical reserve and personnel problems of the Air Force when he addresses the first Reserve squadron of Long Beach.

October. Plans for attending the AFA national convention in Omaha in August also will be discussed.

Final Contract Bid

A spokesman for the contractors said the offer was for a 10-cent-an-hour boost plus health and welfare benefits, effective July 19.

BOMBER TAKES ALONG ITS 'BODYGUARD'

Air-Borne Carrier Plucks Jet Fighter Out of the Sky

By VERN HAUGHLAND

CARSWELL AIR FORCE BASE, Tex. (AP)—The jet fighter roared into view beneath our big plane and then began climbing—its nose pointed directly at our belly.

An observer on the ground would swear he was about to see a spectacular aerial collision. In a way, he would be right. The F84F jet kept closing on our plane, but as it neared it began slowing down. Finally it was only eight feet away, then four feet, then barely a foot.

Seconds later it gently touched its blunt nose against a steel boom jutting down from the forward end of our open bomb bay. A nose latch clicked and the jet was hooked on to our B36 heavy bomber, swaying back and forth in the turbulent air.

The fighter pilot lowered his wing flaps to make the rear part of his plane rise.

A hydraulic mechanism began retrieving the steel boom and drew the fighter closer to our fuselage until side latches on a "trapeze" locked and held it steady. Then the fighter was raised with the "trapeze" into our bomb bay.

Release and recovery of a "parasite" F84 by a B36 in flight has been carried out hundreds of times as the air research and development command continues to work out improvements.

If a fighter can be carried aboard a long-range bomber, and even be refueled from the mother ship, it gains almost limitless range.

This would make possible the protection of bombers engaged on long missions and perhaps make feasible fighter attacks on distant targets.

I boarded a "mother" B36 at this airbase, near Fort Worth.

First newsmen to watch a launching-retrieving demonstration at close hand.

Pilot of the F84 was Air Force Maj. Clyde E. Good, from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio.

Good said he had made more than 100 B36 mid-air hookups—and as many as 16 in a single day.

"You ought to see this plane when we're working at night," he continued.

"We've had the trapeze framed in lights—maybe that gave rise to some of those flying saucer reports."

"But I found the most effective way was just to have one spotlight in the bomb bay focused on the forward latch. It stood out clearly. So long as I could see that I could bring my plane right into position."

Good soon became bored with his B36 ride.

"This is an awful slow way to travel," he complained.

He pulled out a mystery-story magazine and was still reading when Fitzgerald sent back word to get ready.

Fitzgerald asked Good by radio where he wished to be launched.

The fighter pilot brushed frost from his windshield and replied: "No preference. Over the field, I guess."

A switch turned. The fighter dropped free of the bomb-bay and disappeared beneath our wing.

AERIAL HITCHHIKE... A nose latch clicked.

I'LL SAVE YOU MONEY AND GIVE YOU ALL THE CREDIT YOU NEED AT THE SAME TIME

You cannot afford to take chances with your health at anytime by putting off needed dentistry

Long Beach, July 11, 1954—You can save on all dental plates and at the same time know that your work will be the very best Dr. Beauchamp and his large staff can render. "While it's true my tremendous volume is due largely to my low price policy," Dr. Beauchamp says, "I also attribute a great deal of this volume to my pay later credit plan that makes it easy for everyone to get all their dental work attended to when they need it. Regardless of how little you pay," Dr. Beauchamp continued, "I'll always give you the best work it is within my ability to render. I point with pride to the fact that most of my patients come to me recommended by others previously served in my offices, so I can honestly say, 'You don't have to fear my low prices.'"

DR. BEAUCHAMP

FIRST Small Credit PAYMENT SEPT. 1st

NO NEED TO DELAY
"In my offices your dental needs come first, that is why I make my credit so easy, friendly and inviting to you. My prices are kept low by a large volume and I would like to point out that most of my patients come to me through the recommendation of former patients (about 3 out of every 4.)"

"Closing of Bite" Dangerous
Dr. Beauchamp wishes to point out the dental plate policy in all of his offices including adjustments of your dentures at any time, checking your bite and the fit so as not to impair your health by improper fitting dentures. Sometimes your bite can change through the constant wear and grinding of teeth thus causing pressure that may impair your hearing. This dentists call "closing the bite." For your own good health this condition should be carefully watched. Dr. Beauchamp points out.

Dr. Beauchamp Advises Yearly Check-up for Plate Wearers
"In many cases after dental plates have been worn for a period of time," Dr. Beauchamp said, "the gum tissues change, causing loose plates and an incorrect bite."

"This," Dr. Beauchamp stated "can be a very serious problem because if you damage your gums and ridges it might be extremely difficult to get a proper fit. If you are faced with this problem see your dentist. It takes only a few minutes of your time for an examination. Go into any of my offices and have this attended to immediately. I'll be happy to serve you."

Female Ape Talks Male Out of Freedom

CHICAGO (AP)—A small gray ape from San Gabriel, Calif., made a determined effort to escape here but was lured back into captivity by a female.

The ape broke out of his cage and kept air line employees on the run for hours as he swung from the rafters of a hangar. Finally a pet monkey in an open cage was placed on a beam. The ape flirted cautiously for a few minutes, then walked into the cage. The door was quickly closed.

Handlers sent the ape on his way to the Masker Park Zoo at Evansville, Ind. He was shipped by air from the Tropical Fish House at San Gabriel.

CHECK BAD

Identification Wasn't Forged

The local market manager insisted on proper identification before cashing the $15 check.

The man showed him a document bearing the heading "Long Beach Police Department."

But the check bounced. Detective Jud Drake interviewed the manager Friday, then informed him that the identification was not so proper.

The impressive document was an ex-convict's registration form.

Some Interesting Facts!

New Fluidless CONTACT LENSES

Perfected after 25 years research by Optical Scientist Dr. A. Mueller Weir.

CONTACT LENS QUIZ:

- Q. What are contact lenses?
A. Contact lenses are small plastic discs, which replace the old type of spectacles. While in use, contact lenses are invisible.
- Q. Can I see as well with contact lenses?
A. Yes. You will see as well if not better with contact lenses. Many cases of impaired vision, contact lenses offer better sight and more comfort than ordinary eye glasses. Many whose lack of normal vision even with ordinary spectacles, have had their vision improved to the point where they can meet sight requirements for certain positions and secure driving licenses.
- Q. I wear extremely thick glasses. Will this affect contact lenses for me?
A. No. The discs are virtually the same for any strength of correction.
- Q. Can contact lenses injure my eyes?
A. No. There is no record of injury to an eye caused by wearing contact lenses. On the contrary, being unbreakable, they are known to have prevented serious eye injuries.
- Q. Do contact lenses "steam up" in cold weather?
A. No. Contact lenses do not steam up in cold weather. Rain does not affect them.
- Q. Would it take me long to get fitted with contacts?
A. No. In but a few training periods, you should be ready for steady use of the lenses.
- Q. Would I have much trouble handling contact lenses?
A. You should have no trouble. The average person learns to handle the lenses with about fifteen minutes of instruction. Instruction takes but a few seconds.
- Q. Are the lenses hard to keep clean?
A. No. The lenses will not collect steam, sweat, dust or grease. The natural function of the eyelids keeps them clean.
- Q. Would I have any discomfort while wearing the lenses?
A. There is no discomfort while wearing contact lenses as they rest on the part of the eye that is insensitive. (The center of the lens arches over the sensitive colored part of the eye.)
- Q. My thick glasses give a "pinpoint appearance" to my eyes and look distorted. Would contact lenses help?
A. Yes, definitely. These lenses are a boon to wearers of extreme correction. Your eyes would appear the same as if no glasses were worn. Remember, contacts are invisible.
- Q. Would I need to have the contact lenses changed often?
A. Once contact lenses are properly fitted, it is seldom if ever that they need to be replaced. The reason for this permanence is simple. Most defects in sight are due to irregularities of the front surface of the eye and the contact lens with its accompanying liquid makes up for these defects.

Dollar Purchase Value Lowest in History

NEW YORK (AP)—The purchasing value of the dollar fell to 53.9 cents in May—the lowest point in its 169-year history, the National Industrial Conference Board has reported.

This compared with 55.5 cents in May 1933, based on the January 1939 dollar equalling 100 cents. It marked a decline of 2.9 per cent in buying power over the year. The board's consumer price index rose 0.5 per cent from April to May, reaching a new all-time high of 185.5 (January 1939 equals 100).

EARLY-DAY POLITICAL DUEL RECALLED

Burr Slew Hamilton 150 Years Ago

WEEHAWKEN, N. J. (AP)—The Hudson River was shrouded in heat haze that quiet summer morning.

On a grassy shelf on the Jersey shore opposite the Island of Manhattan, a group of men talked in stiff, formal tones. After a few moments they separated, ominously.

Then came a barked command: "Fire!"

Two shots shattered the morning stillness. One man jerked in a spasm of pain and slumped to the ground. His opponent started forward in a gesture of regret. But companions hastened him to a waiting boat. The shot was fired 150 years ago today.

Each man left a vivid mark on the history of the United States. Their lives in some ways were closely parallel, in others harshly divergent.

Hamilton, 47, history shows, was born illegitimately in the West Indies of Scotch heritage. Burr, 48, born in Newark, N. J., was the son of a Calvinist minister who was the second president of the College of New Jersey—now Princeton.

Both were politically ambitious, although Hamilton enjoyed greater success. It was politics which directly led them to the meeting on the "bloody ground."

Hamilton, confidant of George Washington and his first secretary of the treasury, was the guiding light of the Federalist Party.

Burr was vice president under Thomas Jefferson at the time of the duel, and an anti-Federalist. He is considered by many as the father of machine politics. He organized Tammany Hall into a potent vote-getting factor in New York.

TWO SHOTS ON A QUIET MORNING

In 1800 Burr, a power among the Democratic-Republicans of the North, was placed on the presidential ticket with Jefferson. It had been intended that Burr should be vice president, but through a blunder his name received as many electoral votes as Jefferson's.

In accordance with the law at that time, the decision was thus thrown into the House of Representatives. Hamilton's opposition to Burr by a friend.

The letters somehow found their way into the columns of the Albany Register. Burr was defeated.

Hamilton finally accepted Burr's challenge to settle their differences in a duel.

Controversy still exists among historians whether Hamilton actually fired when Burr did—or whether Hamilton pulled the trigger involuntarily when Burr's pistol hall entered his body.

Hamilton's death the next day caused great public indignation. Crowds paid him tribute.

After the duel, an enraged crowd threatened to burn down Burr's New York home. He fled to Philadelphia.

Finally he made his way south and west only to reappear later as the guiding light of a scheme which put the finishing touches to his career.

He purchased land in Louisiana, apparently intending to profit by leading a colony of settlers to it and perhaps establishing a new state. At the time, war with Spain seemed certain and Burr also considered leading an expedition into Mexico to win that country for the United States—or for himself, nobody was quite sure.

Eventually Jefferson was told Burr was raising an army to separate the western states from the Union. The President had Burr arrested on a charge of treason. A spectacular trial in Richmond, Va., in 1807 found him innocent, but the verdict was not accepted by the general public.

Ostracized in many quarters, and embittered, Burr went to Europe in 1808.

On his return to the United States in 1812, he resumed his law practice in New York. In 1833, when he was 77 and a widower, he married for a second time. He bride was a wealthy 58-year-old widow, Mrs. Eliza Jumel.

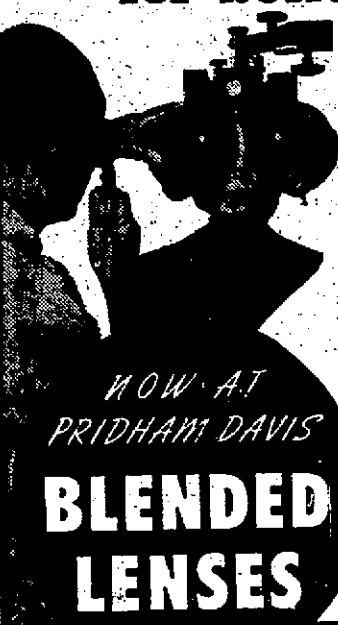

Burr died Sept. 14, 1836, the day his wife won final decree of divorce.

Says Gas Refineries Started Price War

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A spokesman for independent gasoline stations in the Los Angeles area has accused gasoline refineries of creating a surplus, thus indirectly promoting gas-price wars.

Dan Lundberg, executive secretary of Serve-Yourself & Multiple Pump Associations, Inc., said the gas price war in Burbank is caused by a small but critical surplus. He said, however, the surplus partly was due to lessened gas consumption for war purposes. In Burbank, some independent gas stations have been selling regular fuel at 20.9 cents.

No Compromise This Time!

It was over twenty years ago that he took title to his first motor car—and, since that time, he has owned and driven almost a dozen different automobiles.

And yet, every time he accepted the keys to a new car, he knew in his heart that it was a compromise.

For—like so many millions of his fellow men—he had his heart set on a Cadillac!

Well, there's no compromise this time! The magic moment has arrived. The papers are all in order... the keys are in his hand... and the car of his dreams is waiting for him to take the wheel.

It's his! And, if you could ride with him on that first journey, you'd know what it means to have a motoring dream come true.

You'd see excitement in his eyes as he rolls majestically through the city's traffic—and puts his Cadillac through its thrilling paces on the open road.

You'd see honest pride in his face as he sits, calmly and serenely in the driver's seat, and catches the admiring glances of his fellow motorists.

And you'd sense the joy in his heart as he turns down that familiar street and heads for the happiest homecoming of the year!

In short, you'd witness a motorist in his finest hour—living out an experience that has no counterpart in the world of transportation. It is a thrill and an inspiration and an education—all rolled into one.

A friend of ours put it this way, after taking his inaugural ride in his first Cadillac. "There are two kinds of automobiles," he told us. "There are Cadillacs—and there are all the others."

Whether or not you've driven "all the others," we can't say. But of one thing we are certain: Until you've spent an hour in the driver's seat of a 1934 Cadillac, your motoring education is not complete.

Why not come in soon and do so? It would be a joy and a privilege to put you behind the wheel.

Our Civic Eyesores

WHILE WAITING for a comprehensive program of beautification and park development for Long Beach, there are plenty of things the citizens of this community can do to make this a more attractive city.

By and large the folk who live here take pride in keeping their property "ship-shape." Visitors constantly comment on the neatness of lawns and shrubbery around Long Beach homes and business firms.

But they comment, also, on some of the eyesores that spoil the general effect.

One such eyesore we have in mind is a shabby, neglected area of several blocks on each side of one of our principal north-south thoroughfares.

From either direction the motorist comes out of a neat, clean, well-kept stretch and finds his gaze abused by something that can be described only as a mess.

On each side of the street are clutters of billboards, standing above scummy pools of oil and water. Trash of various descriptions is scattered down the sides of oil-soaked banks of dirt. An automobile that appears to have pitched from the street lies in a hollow wrecked and rusty—and the wreckage has been there for months.

Unless given a general cleanup, a trashy area such as that tends to invite more trash. Passersby hunting for a place to discard something find it an invitation.

And it is apparent in many cases that the passerby starts the trash heap himself. Why boxes and sacks of rubbish should be strewn along ditches and in vacant lots when this city offers free rubbish disposal service is pretty hard to understand.

In saying this we don't intend to penalize the great majority who dispose of their trash in the conventional manner and strive to keep their surroundings presentable.

But it's obvious there is a need among some of our citizens for greater awareness of their responsibility for the looks of the city.

We could tear down all the wooden oil derricks and build a dozen new beautiful parks throughout Long Beach, but if individual citizens neglect to do their part, city beautification will be incomplete.

Just a thought for the homefolk, as the tourist season in one of America's great resort cities progresses.

Let Red China In?

SEVERAL READERS have asked if the cause of world peace might not be advanced by admitting Red China to the United Nations.

The short and ready reply at this time is "No."

But, a few years hence and barring a third World War, the answer might well be "Yes," including full diplomatic recognition of Red China by the United States government.

The reasons why Communist China should not be admitted to U. N. membership were well stated by President Eisenhower last Wednesday when he said:

"Red China is today at war with the United Nations. They were declared an aggressor by the United Nations in the Assembly. That situation has never changed."

"Now, how can the United States, as a self-respecting nation, doing its best and in conformity with the moral standards as we understand them; how can we possibly say this country should be admitted or this government should be admitted to the United Nations?"

Our ambassador to the U. N., Henry Cabot Lodge, put it more succinctly months ago when he stated that we cannot allow Red China "to shoot its way into the United Nations."

While the President's stand is sound and coincides with popular opinion in this country, the question is by no means a dead issue.

It will be revived many times by the bloc of nations, led by Great Britain, which believe that the "effective government" of Red China cannot forever be denied recognition.

For adequate background, it should be recalled that the United States was actually considering recognition of the Peking government when the Angus Ward affair occurred late in 1949.

Ward was the American consul in Mukden who, together with his staff, was incarcerated in the consulate and brought to trial on charges of spying. Later, he was expelled from Red China.

The recognition problem was further complicated when the Chinese Communists seized several foreign diplomatic properties, thus abrogating old treaties in existence since the Boxer rebellion.

According to Albert Ravenholt, Far Eastern correspondent for the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service, the Red Chinese seemingly provoked incidents of this kind to forestall recognition by the United States.

In view of repeated warnings by our government that such outrages would not be tolerated, one must conclude that early recognition by the United States was not an immediate Communist objective.

Prior to the "new diplomacy" of modern times, it was traditional policy to accord diplomatic recognition to governments actually in power. But Soviet Russia went unrecognized from 1917 to 1933, when Roosevelt completed a diplomatic treaty. Under FDR, however, the United States refused to recognize the Russian dictatorship in Spain because it was "fascist" in character.

A few years ago, this objection was waived because of the practical consideration that the United States needed air bases in Spain to help defend Western Europe against possible Soviet aggression.

"The London Times reminds us, in writing of Red China, that 'recognition of one government by another is usually seen here as part of the mechanics of diplomacy, and not as a gesture of approval. In the same way, the United Nations is regarded as a forum for the peaceful settlement of disputes, not as a club of kindred spirits.'"

Speaking broadly, the Times is right when it says "the status of Communist China cannot be ignored" in any Asian settlement.

No one can question the fact that the Communists actually represent China and govern it effectively—the major test for recognition.

Without doubt, Red China meets the requirements needed to start the "mechanics of diplomacy."

But what the British fail to understand, or chose to disregard, is that the American people are not yet ready to grasp the bloody hand that put their boys to death in Korea.

Such recognition, in view of past events and Red China's aggressive measures in Southeast Asia, can not and should not be given now as a reward for aggression.

But ultimately, if war is avoided, the free nations and the Communist nations must find the "peaceful coexistence" mentioned by Winston Churchill and President Eisenhower or admit frankly that the world is permanently and irrevocably split in two.

N. J. Candidate Says He'd Try to Ban McCarthy From Senate Committee

WASHINGTON—The first Republican nominee for a seat in the U. S. Senate to stick his neck out on the McCarthy issue is Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, formerly a member of the House of Representatives.

Mr. Case says in a prepared statement that if elected he will not only vote against continuing the Wisconsin senator as chairman of the Senate committee on government operations, but he will vote to ban him from being a member.

This sounds like a bold and courageous step because it could conceivably cost Mr. Case the election, but it really isn't as courageous as it sounds. For, if the indictment made by Mr. Case is in his judgment supportable, he logically should have advocated that Sen. McCarthy be removed from the Senate altogether.

If Mr. McCarthy isn't eligible to be a member of one Senate committee on account of the reasons given by Mr. Case, then he isn't eligible to sit in the Senate at all. This means that Mr. Case is saying to the people of Wisconsin that the man they elected in 1952 with full knowledge of his views and course of action in public office is to be debarred from serving them on important committees of the majority party as a consequence of the vote of the people of New Jersey, and any other states which concur in that procedure.

This is but another way of punishing a man for the views expressed by him in the performance of what he believes to be his duty to the people of his own state. Mr. Case is classed as a "liberal" but it is illogical to attempt to remove a man from a senate committee because he holds a viewpoint on public affairs different from the views of a majority of his colleagues in his party.

Mr. Case says that congressional investigations are sometimes worth while, but that Sen. McCarthy should be punished because his "participation" in the work of the committee in question has produced a "distracting and divisive effect." This assumes that there must be conformity of thought—if not thought control—in the United States Senate, and that any chairman or member of a committee with a tendency to produce "distracting or divisive" effects will be threatened with removal from membership on any committee in which he has previously served. This is an odd proposal.

It is no news that McCarthy has been taking a beating from his fellow Republicans and resents it. Sen. Ralph Flanders, the Vermont Yankee, has openly called for stripping McCarthy of his powers. The GOP National Committee will no longer book speeches for him. President Eisenhower, himself, has taken several indirect cuffs at McCarthy. Even Joe's old pal, Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, has invited him to stay out of Michigan.

Smarting from these GOP attacks, Joe barged up to Morse on the Senate floor, wrapped a husky arm around his shoulders, and boomed: "Wayne, you are about to get another member for your party!"

"Joe," replied Morse dryly, "that is the worst news I have heard all year."

"I didn't come over to get insulted," snapped McCarthy, his brow darkening. "But if that's the way you feel about it, I'll form my own party."

"Joe, you've already got it," retorted the Oregon independent.

OWL VS. MACKEREL
It was censured out of the public record, but two southern Democrats traded picturesque insults the other day on the House floor. Congressman James P. Proleaux of South Carolina was striving vainly to explain the merits of foreign aid to his colleague, Congressman John Bell Williams of Mississippi.

Finally, Richards snorted in disgust: "I would like to say to be offered in a republic which boasts about freedom of expression by the members of its national legislature.

"It is obvious," says Mr. Case, "that our government simply could not function if the executive departments and their personnel were subjected to constant and unjustified harassment and attack by congressional committees."

But all through the Truman administration that happened. The Democratic administration called the inquiries on tax-fixing and RFC scandals "harassment" and Mr. Truman called the Hiss inquiry a "red herring," which was distracting attention from Republican "errors." Mr. Case cannot give any assurance that if he helps to elect a Democrat to the United States Senate from New Jersey by causing thousands of Republicans to stay at home next autumn he will be restraining the Democrats, if they control the next congress, from harassment of the executive departments. That would be their meat in the next two years in order to provide campaign food for the 1956 campaign, and anyone with the slightest experience with behavior of congressional committees in the last 40 years can testify that there have been many members of both houses who have ridden roughshod over executive department officials and employees, though Mr. Case says "until recently this was not a matter of general concern." Martin Dies of Texas, who headed up the House Un-American activities committee 20 years ago, and every chairman since has been criticized for efforts to get deceitful persons to tell the truth to their own government and to help it get rid of subversive influences.

ADMITTS FUNCTION
Mr. Case admits that there is a function, however, for the congressional committees. He says: "Yet, where there is reason to suspect existence of serious dereliction which cannot be, or is not being, remedied by the executive branch itself, the most searching scrutiny by congress is not only proper but mandatory. On this point the lesson of the Hiss case will not be forgotten."

But the grant of an honorable discharge to an officer in the army who was declared by an undercover agent of the New York Police Department to be a Communist and who refused to tell the Army or the Senate Committee whether or not the accusation was true is an instance of dereliction of duty in the executive branch which initiated the whole McCarthy-Stevens controversy.

There is pessimism among Republicans in Congress about the outlook for the election of a Republican Senator in New Jersey this autumn. For there are many thousands of Democrats who came over to the Republican party on the anti-Communist issue in 1952, especially in Hudson county, who will be wondering whether they should stay home, or vote Democratic next time.

for the benefit of the gentleman from Mississippi that he reminds me very much of the old swamp owl down in one of those Mississippi swamps. The more light you shine in his eyes the blinder he gets."

"And you remind me of a dead mackerel lying on the beach in the sun," shouted Williams of Mississippi.

ROCKEFELLERS
Real story behind the dramatic shutdown of the Congressional investigation of "foundations" was that Republican leaders ordered chairman Carroll Reece of Tennessee to call a halt, because of embarrassing publicity against some of the best friends of the Republican party—the Fords and the Rockefellers.

Also, the GOP leaders were chafing under the merciless ridicule of Democratic Congressman Wayne Hays of Ohio.

Hays had insisted from the start that the probe of the Fords, Rockefellers, and other foundations because of alleged "pro-Communist" or "socialistic" leanings was nonsensical, and a waste of the taxpayers' money. Reece, a dyed-in-the-wool anti-Eisenhower Republican and former pro-Taft chairman of the national committee, was reported still nursing a grudge against the Fords, the Rockefellers, and other heavy backers of Eisenhower.

Actually the investigating committee contributed to its own downfall when a precocious staff assistant described as "pro-Communist" an encyclical of Pope Leo XIII.

Behind closed doors, Reece exploded violently, charging that Hays had "trapped" the staff assistant, Thomas McNiece, into making the faux pas. Hays had quoted the encyclical to McNiece without telling him that it was or saying that Pope Leo had written it.

"I know it embarrassed you," shot back Hays, "but I'm not responsible for the people you hire around here."

That substitute steno can outspell and outtype me. Bill will likely drop in and date her—

THE ALSOPS

Benson's Sitting on Top

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

EZRA TAFT BENSON is one of the few really confident and cheerful key figures in Washington, D. C., where confidence and good cheer are growing increasingly rare.

Maybe the reason is that the Secretary of Agriculture has the guts to fight for his cause, and has been doing pretty well in the fighting so far. Not nearly enough has been made of the important House vote, giving Benson and the administration the victory in the battle about flexible farm subsidies.

Instead of guaranteeing the farmer a rigid 90 per cent of the mythical parity, and thus accumulating ever vaster and less disposable surpluses, Benson wants the guarantee to the farmer to move up and down with the prices of the market-places.

As everyone knows, he proposed flexing the farm payments between 75 per cent and 90 per cent of parity. The House split the difference, and set the minimum guarantee at 82 1/2 per cent of parity.

"Once any large voting group acquires a government-guaranteed featherbed, it is always inordinately difficult to diminish the featherbed, and harder still to take it away. That is the significance, of course, of the House vote, which was only obtained, it must be said, by offering a little extra to the Representatives from the wool states and threatening that the wool-growers would get nothing at all unless they deserted the rest of the farm bloc."

HARD TO ANSWER
Secretary Benson's case against the party featherbed, at least in its present dimensions, is pretty hard to answer. He will have nearly 2,000,000,000 bushels, or more than two years supply of wheat already in storage by the end of this year. Both wheat and corn are now selling in the marketplace well below the government-guaranteed price, because market storage is available, and government "loans" at the guaranteed price are not made when the crops cannot be stored.

The cost of production of wheat is around a dollar-a-bushel," Benson said. "The government-guaranteed price is $2.21. As long as that's the situation, no wonder all sorts of farmers are planting wheat, and millions of acres are being plowed that ought to be left in grass. This thing is unbalancing our agriculture, and it can't go on."

This large, solid, quiet-spoken, intensely serious man is perfectly aware that he has been playing with political fire in the farm districts. But he believes more and more farmers are seeing the problem his way. "There are no more sensible and patriotic men than our farmers," he says, "and I think more and more of them favor the Administration program because it's the right program."

This Benson theory is powerfully disputed by the formidable team that leads the opposition to the program in the Senate. Sen. Richard Russell, who carries as much weight as any single Senator, and Sen. Milton Young, a typical farm-belt Republican, are entirely convinced the farmers are on their side.

PAY TRIBUTE
All the same lot of them pay tribute to the effectiveness of Benson's fight thus far. Until a month ago, they had the vote to rout him absolutely, but there have been ten or more defections.

All of which suggests that want of other fighters as determined as Benson has something to do with the Administration's frequent frustrations on Capitol Hill. For it is an old Washington saying that if you beat the farm bloc, you can beat anybody.

L.A.C. SAYS

Going It Alone

not go so far as to say we should withdraw from the U. N. should we be outvoted on this issue.

This writer is not an admirer of the United Nations. In our opinion we have many sound reasons for withdrawing from that organization. One is the dismal support by that organization in Korea. Another is the Russian domination, or stagnation of policy by use of the veto. We are paying a third of the total cost although we are but one of 60 members. But we are a member and supposed to set an example. In our opinion it would be a poor example for us to "pick up our marbles and quit just because we didn't like the way the game was going."

The above is the way one person put it, and we are inclined to agree. We believe our leadership in the world is harmed by such actions as those by Knowland and Hooper. That action was agreed to by leading Democrats, so it is not a partisan affair. But is it a question whether we are going to accept the will of 40 nations in this issue, or are going to draw behind our own "Iron Curtain" and become isolationists. It is very probable the seating of Red China may not become an issue. If it does not, we have displayed bad leadership by saying we would quit if it did not go our way. If it is kept from coming up by our threats, we have lost much of the prestige we have built up by our co-operation and acceptance of majority rule.

The British recognized Red China six months before we entered the Korean war. Its recognition was based on policy that recognition of a government should be based on whether or not that government ruled over the country involved. Since the Chinese Reds did, and do, control all of the Chinese mainland, Britain's attitude is that it is the logical government to recognize. It is the policy always followed by this country in the past. But our losses in Korea have so embittered this country toward the Chinese Reds we cannot bring ourselves to accepting them. But we have and do accept the Russians and others who have been equally bad. It is probable we should drop recognition of all Communists. But before we do, we should decide if we are ready to go it alone in a world that is sitting on a powder keg.

It is a very involved subject. This writer does not presume to have the right answer. But he feels sure it is not right to threaten to pull out of the United Nations if we are outvoted. That seems to us to be too close to the attitude of the Communists. When we are ready to get out, we should do so based upon what has occurred. Threatening such action before seems like poor leadership on our part. It means telling the world we are ready to go it alone. If we are ready to follow that policy we should be sure we are ready to accept the consequences.—L. A. C.

TOWN MEETING

Eight Reasons

TO THE EDITOR:

The Committee for One Million Against the Admission of Communist China to the United Nations gives eight reasons why the group oppose Red China. In brief they are:

1. Such admission would betray the letter and violate the spirit of the U. N.

2. Nationalist China would have to be expelled.

3. Red China has disregarded every rule.

4. Red China is sure to be an aggressor.

5. Red China's admission would destroy the prestige of the U. N. and the free world in Asia and cause the Asian bloc to turn to Communism.

6. Red China violated the elementary law of humanity, mistreating, torturing and murdering U. N. soldiers who were prisoners of war in an unlawful war which Red China waged against the very organization in which Red Chinese membership has been proposed.

7. At a time when Communist dictatorship seems badly shaken in the U. S. S. R. and its satellite empire, the admission of Red China would restore prestige and authority of the Soviet government.

8. Admission of Red China would encourage subversive totalitarian movements and increase the danger of a new war.

The steering committee consists of Warren Austin, Joseph Grew, Walter Judd, John Sparkman, to name a few.

Among the initial signers are Gen. Wedemeyer, Gen. Hodges, Sen. Margaret Smith, Sen. Knowland, Sen. Gillette, and Adm. Nimitz.

Address of the Committee for One Million is 36 W. 44th St., New York, 36, N. Y.

DORIS E. COLE, Huntington Beach.

Compromise

TO THE EDITOR:

It seems to me that to say, "If Red China is voted into U. N., then U. S. will withdraw," is an immature way to try to solve problems.

The time has come to try to solve problems constructively instead of destructively. The child who can't pitch may take his ball and go home. But that's no way for a nation to act.

Instead of withdrawing because we can't have our own way, why can't we use the occasion for a compromise? We have been so strong for so long we've lost the habit of compromising. We have won so many clear victories that it's hard to give in even a little bit.

One of the reasons we fear the Reds is the power of the veto. If USSR could not veto the constructive steps of the U. N., then it might be possible for the U. N. to abide by the democratic principles that permit the majority to rule.

This could be an opportunity for the U. S. and allies to get the nations of the U. N. to revise the Charter to get rid of the veto clauses.

If the majority of U. N. nations could rule decisions without the handicap of the veto, more good could be done in spite of the Reds than harm by the admission of China.

And if Red China were admitted, there's no reason why Formosa shouldn't remain as a separate nation. It isn't a case of either-or. Why not both?

In our own history, the South also tried to withdraw from the Union. We may lose the freedom issue if we withdraw from the U. N.

ONLY THE TACTICS VARY Wolves? All Alike! Says French Song Star

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP)—Strategically, Lilo was saying, wolves are the same everywhere. Only the tactics vary.

IN FRANCE, CANDY'S DANDY

"In this country, it is all chest, chest, chest," said Lilo, who has no reason to feel inferior. "In France, men like a woman who is attractive but they also like a woman who can dress well and talk well and show an attractive personality."

"In this country, they go for the big bosom and the candied eyes and the sweet pious look so they can say, 'Isn't she cute?'"

"Do the French talk about sex as much as Americans?"

"Oh, yes," said the lady, who has been here 18 months now. "But they don't call it sex. They call it love. I think we French talk about it more, but in a different way."

Lilo said she finds the morals of the American theater confusing.

"It is very mixed up here," she said. "You don't have nudes. We do in Paris. But you have strip-tease and we don't. Your strip-tease are 100 times more shocking than anything in Paris."

"Our showgirl nudes are graceful and more artistic. In France, they don't allow any bumps or grinds. Not even in the cheapest night clubs in Marseilles or Toulon or Brest where the audience is almost all sailors."

"I Love Paris in the Springtime," she returned under a thunder of applause.

"I like American audiences better than French," she said. "I like French critics better. They are kinder. No matter how much they dislike a show, they always find something nice to say about it."

But your audiences are much nicer. The moment they buy a ticket they expect to enjoy themselves. They come in and sit down and you can see them with a big friendly smile, ready to have fun."

French audiences, especially the women in the orchestra, she said, are inclined to be more critical, more catty, more carping. She explained:

"French audiences never like a performer completely. If it's a dancer, they say 'I think she's got falsetto.' When a singer opens his mouth, somebody will find fault because they spot a gold tooth in the back of his mouth."

"If they saw Lily Pons, they say 'Oh, yes, she's a good coloratura, but what else can she do?'"

If they see the world's greatest dancer who has only two lines to speak in the whole show, they say, 'Well, she can dance, but she can't act.'

"And if they saw Marilyn Monroe, they'd say, 'Yes, but can she do Camille?'"

Local Exams for Schools Due Aug. 23

From The F. T. Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Craig Hosmer (R-Long Beach) announced Saturday that qualifying examinations will be held Aug. 23 in the Long Beach Post Office for appointment to the Nation's three service academies.

Hosmer urged interested candidates to apply directly to him, House Office Building, Washington, D.C., for credentials that will enable them to take the examination. He suggested immediate action.

The Long Beach Congressman will appoint two midshipmen to Annapolis and one cadet to West Point as a result of the examinations. Three alternates will be named for each principal appointee.

Under legislation setting up the new Air Force academy, Hosmer can designate 10 young men to take examinations for entry to that school, class of 1955. Of the 300 cadets that will make up the first class, 15 will be from California.

26 L.B. Ships to Join Biggest Fleet Exercise in Pacific Since War II

More than 50 warships, 26 of them based in Long Beach, will take to sea Monday, July 26, for the largest Pacific Fleet training exercises to be conducted on the west coast since World War II. More than 18,000 officers and men will participate in the three-week long exercise.

Participating craft will include cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers and escort vessels, minesweepers and amphibious warfare craft, submarines, and various supporting auxiliaries from Long Beach and San Diego.

Land-based and carrier aircraft from west coast naval stations also will take part. No planes from Los Alamitos Naval Air Station are assigned to the maneuver, however, as its activities primarily are with Naval Reservists.

Rear Adm. Maurice E. Curtis, commander of Cruiser-Destroyer Force, Pacific Fleet, is directing the exercise. He will command Task Force 12, the designation given the group of participating ships.

The three-week operation will cover the west coast from San Diego to Puget Sound. It assumes that total war exists between the United States and a major enemy power and that submarines are operating in shipping lanes off the California coast.

Adm. Curtis will conduct a "vital" Naval convoy from Southern California ports to Seattle and return. The convoy will be opposed by minelaying ships and aircraft, submarines, air-craft, and surface raiders consisting of cruisers and destroyers.

The exercise has primary emphasis on inter-type training, which means various types of ships operating together, in anti-submarine and mine warfare.

Heading the Long Beach ships will be Cruiser Division 3, consisting of the heavy cruisers Helena and Toledo and commanded by Rear Adm. R. E. Wilson, and the heavy cruiser Rochester, flagship of Rear Adm. Thomas C. Ragan, commander of Cruiser Division 5.

Other locally based ships taking part will be the USS Menifee, Mathews and Merrick, all of Transport Division 15; the destroyer tender Bryce Canyon; fleet oiler Passumpsic; LST 735, LST 799, and 16 minesweepers.

The institute, a Catholic women's organization founded in San Francisco in 1887, opened its convention here Saturday on the theme, "Unite for Peace, Charity and Justice."

An estimated 500 delegates are attending. They represent local institutes in California, Washington, Oregon, Nevada and Hawaii.

Host institutes, all of them members of District 17, are Long Beach, Pomona, Anaheim, Santa Ana, Fullerton, Oceanside, Gardens, San Pedro and San Diego. Mrs. Margaret Young of Santa Ana is convention chairman.

This afternoon, the Carrolton Club, a Catholic speech group, will give a special demonstration in the Catholic Youth Center. Members of Regina Coeli Institute of Los Angeles are in charge.

Two section meetings of particular interest will be held Tuesday afternoon. One, sponsored by the Legion of Decency, is entitled "Are Morals in Movies and Literature Old Fashioned?" John Vizard of Hollywood, official of the Motion Picture Production Code Administration, and Monsignor John J. Devlin, director of the Legion of Decency for the Archdiocese of Los Angeles, will speak.

The second section meeting deals with YLI activities for the benefit of patients in state and veterans institutions. Rev. Francis Keane, chaplain of Camarillo, will be principal speaker. Miss Marcella Kukowski of Queen Institute, Seattle, will speak on volunteer programs in VA hospitals.

Third Annual Miss Universe Contest Begins This Week

The annual search for the most beautiful girl in the world starts in Long Beach this week. Beauties from 33 different nations and each of the 48 states begin converging on the city Thursday. The occasion is the third annual Miss Universe Beauty Pageant, sponsored by Catalina Inc., swimsuit manufacturers; Universal-International Studios; and the City of Long Beach.

BARBARA SUE HOLLY
Miss Tennessee

IVANA KISLINGER
Miss Argentina

The beauty contest, which continues to July 25, has attracted entries from Europe, Asia, the Middle East, Africa, the Orient, Latin America and a cross-section of lovelies from the United States.

Finalists will be judged in bathing suit, evening gown and native costume.

Vincent Trotta, who again heads the judges panel, said that "girls will be judged abstractly on the basis of natural beauty as found the world over."

Judging will take place four different nights in Municipal Auditorium. Preliminary judging begins the night of July 20.

Before Miss Universe is chosen, however, the title of Miss United States of America must be determined. Girls from the 48 states will compete in two nights of judging, with the winner advancing to compete for Miss Universe honors.

At each night's event, the girls will parade on stage and down a 100-foot-long runway. Bob Russell, New York theatrical star, again will be master of ceremonies.

Both Miss United States of America and Miss Universe will receive motion picture contracts with Universal-International Studios. In addition, the two victors will receive $4,000 Dodge convertible sports cars.

Other awards will include American Beauty sterling silver compacts, studio makeup kits, cultured pearl bracelets and necklaces and trophies.

Miss Universe also will be adorned with a pearl crown framed in solid gold, valued at more than $100,000.

Contestants will parade through downtown Long Beach next Sunday afternoon, July 18, each entrant riding on an individual float.

You Can Be Miss Universe Judge, Too

Did you think that Miss Panama was prettier than Miss France in last year's Miss Universe Beauty Pageant? Or that Miss Arizona should have been named Miss U. S. A.?

In other words, would you like to judge the world's most beautiful women?

Well, this year you, too, can be a Miss Universe judge!

The Independent Press-Telegram is sponsoring a contest to pick the Most Popular Girl in the Miss Universe Beauty Parade next Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

In today's paper, you will find an advertisement of the contest with a ballot at the bottom. You are invited to watch the International beauties from Alamitos Ave. and Ocean Blvd. east to Pine Ave. and then around Rainbow Pier.

After the parade, pick the girl you think is most popular. Listen to the applause of the spectators and judge the girls on poise, personality and charm. Make out your ballot and mail it or bring it to the Independent Press-Telegram, 6th St. and Pine Ave. Ballots must be received by 10 a. m. Tuesday, July 20.

To the girl your votes name as Most Popular, the Independent Press-Telegram will present a trophy. Presentation will be made at the opening stage spectacle Tuesday night, July 20, in Municipal Auditorium.

His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles, will officiate at Pontifical High Mass this morning in Catholic Community Center, 6th St. and Alamitos Ave., as part of the 51st annual convention of the Young Ladies Institute.

The institute, a Catholic women's organization founded in San Francisco in 1887, opened its convention here Saturday on the theme, "Unite for Peace, Charity and Justice."

An estimated 500 delegates are attending. They represent local institutes in California, Washington, Oregon, Nevada and Hawaii.

John Vizard of Hollywood, official of the Motion Picture Production Code Administration, and Monsignor John J. Devlin, director of the Legion of Decency for the Archdiocese of Los Angeles, will speak.

Rainbow Lagoon Development Plan Will Be Explained

The three-phase development program for the Rainbow Lagoon area as proposed by the City will be explained by Jess Gilkerson, City Engineer, at the Wednesday meeting of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce Breakfast Forum at Wilton Hotel.

Gilkerson will illustrate his talk with the use of a large scale model which incorporates the various stages of development for the Municipal Auditorium and Rainbow Lagoon area.

Elections to select a 1st and 2nd vice-chairman of the Chamber Forum will also be held. Nominees for the offices include Joe Enarson, Ray Dunn and Al Williams.

John Paap, Forum Chairman, will preside.

ADDS UP TO 81

This Oldster Has Hobby for Each Year of Life

By BEN ZINSER

At 81, George Russell is convinced a man has to have a hobby.

Russell, of 3323 California Ave., Signal Hill, is completely sold on this belief. So much so you'll have to get up early in the morning to out-hobby Russell.

Still complaining, "they retired me at 75," Russell gets up at 4 a. m. every day to work at his hobby.

On the two acres of ground behind his home, Russell daily tends to the needs of:

Tootsie, a female raccoon.

Dickie, Tommy, Betty, and Sally, four gray squirrels.

Betsy and Bobby, both red squirrels.

Tabby, a cat squirrel from Oregon.

Eighty-five lovebirds.

One thousand goldfish, distributed in three big ponds.

Seven pair of pheasants, including golden pheasants, ring-neck pheasants, horned Mexican pheasants, Chinese pheasants, silver pheasants and other varieties.

Eight peacocks.

Forty bantam chickens, including the strange-looking feather-legged variety.

Twenty pigeons and turtle doves.

Thirty-two Rhode Island Red chickens.

Twenty-six white guineas.

Sixteen turkeys.

Eighteen white rabbits.

Two geese and two ducks.

Russell is keeping his bantam hens busy either caring for pheasant chicks or sitting on 55 pheasant eggs.

"The bantams take better care of 'em than pheasant hens would," he explains.

In his spare time Russell also cares for:

One solid acre of sweet corn and popcorn. He has five varieties of popcorn—white, red, yellow, blue and rice.

Patches of black-eyed peas, Kentucky wonder beans, tomatoes, cucumbers, rhubarb, lettuce, radishes, beets and onions.

Russell, for 40 years a farmer near Monett, Mo., doesn't waste any space.

In the parking area back of his house along Myrtle Ave., he has 500 sweet potato slips growing.

There also are eight peach trees, three apple trees, an apricot and fig, 26 small black walnut trees and 24 young pecan trees.

Russell, who has been at his hobby for the last five years, likes to keep the place pretty. So he has 260 rose bushes, 100 dahlias and smaller quantities of other flowers growing.

For variety's sake, Russell says he mows 11 lawns on the side.

"They're long-time customers of mine," the 81-year-old hobbyist explains. "I don't want to lose 'em."

JC to Start Safety Group Solicitations

Team captains in the Junior Chamber of Commerce campaign to gain members for the newly formed Long Beach Safety Council will receive their final instructions at a luncheon Monday in the Lafayette Hotel.

Dr. Charles H. Fabish, general solicitations chairman, will preside, and Robert McNulty, council president, and Ralph Cissne, manager, will speak.

Businessmen in 14 different classifications will be contacted. Minimum membership fees have been established at $25 for firms and $1 for individuals.

However, council officials will accept any amount in their initial efforts toward making Long Beach the safest city in the United States.

Financial goal for the overall campaign is $30,000. The council is a non-profit organization.

Business firms and industries may also join the council by mailing membership subscriptions to the Long Beach Safety Council, 601 Pacific Ave.

Junior Farm Show Slated for Meeting

A farm and machinery show, including tractor driving and equipment operating contests for junior farmers, will be held in connection with the 36th annual convention of the California Farm Bureau Federation here in November.

The federation is California's largest farmer organization, numbering more than 60,000 farm families in its membership.

An estimated 2500 delegates are expected at the Nov. 7-11 sessions here. Meetings and exhibits will be in Municipal Auditorium with the machines show in the outside area.

Bleacher stands will be erected adjacent to the auditorium and the public will be invited to view the show and the various exhibits.

Special displays will be staged by the University of California College of Agriculture at Davis, California State Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo, and Future Farmer and 4-H Club teams.

L.B. Bureau Will Install New Officers

Newly elected officers of the Long Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau will be installed Tuesday night by Mayor George H. Vermillion at a banquet in the Supper Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Introductions of the new officials will be made by the outgoing president, Aaron Schultz. Formally taking office as head of the Convention and Visitors Bureau at this time will be R. G. Markworth, president of the National City Bank of Long Beach.

Other new officials include John Carr, first vice president; Mason E. Kight, second vice president; W. J. Dean, treasurer; and Charles Savitz, treasurer. Members of the bureau's new executive committee for the fiscal year of 1954-55, in addition to Schultz, are Ford Montgomery, Don C. Berger, L. V. Bostwick, Larry Collins Jr., Alfred Cornwell, Fred S. Dean, Wayne A. Farrell, Virgil Gillespie, Walter Havekors, Victor K. Hart, W. R. Martin, John L. Metzger, William Becker, Stedman C. Gould, Sam Rowan, Francis Reider and William Wenzel.

Brownell Urges Men of Faith to Strive for Good

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell said Saturday that religion cannot be separated from the great political, economic and social issues of the day.

That being so, he asserted, it is the obligation of all who profess religion "to strive to bring about a better, a more secure, a more satisfying life for all men."

'Blue Blood' of Filmdom to Flow for Blood Bank

By HUBBARD KEAVY
(Bob Thomas is vacationing)

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A man who retains the zeal he had on the football field years ago is spending all of his spare time and considerable of his great energy organizing a party.

At first blush, this fellow, whose name is Paul Schwieger, may seem like a male Elsa Maxwell, but his motivation is high: he's getting up a blood donating party.

Schwieger, all-America tackle in 1931 at the University of Washington and now employed by a film laboratory, got his idea a few weeks ago when a friend became critically ill. The friend, Bob Welch, required 70 transfusions, probably a record number. Paul and 29 friends gave 30 pints and the other 40 came from accounts in the Red Cross blood bank.

"Forty pints is a lot to take out, so I thought we ought to make them up," says Schwieger. "I found out that a lot of fellows don't donate because they've never been asked. I found out also that fellows don't like to go to the blood bank alone, so why not make a party of it?"

On Aug. 30 mobile blood units will roll up to the Scandia Restaurant at noon. Already, 150 of Paul's friends are committed to attend and to donate, and he thinks he might have 200. They'll be mostly movie, radio and TV producers, writers and directors.

The Vikings, a group of Hollywoodites committed to not much more than a monthly eating and drinking session at the Scandia, is the sponsoring organization. "It'll give the Vikings some class," says Schwieger.

Because there'll be some waiting around, Ken Hansen, who owns the Scandia, is donating in his way: free drinks and free lunch or dinner to all donors.

One of the things that will drive people back to television, if they've ever been away, is such a movie as "Sunderin'" starring Hildegarde Neff.

Russ Warcraft Visiting Finland

HELSINKI, Finland (UP)—Three Russian warships arrived Saturday on the Soviet navy's first "good-will visit" since World War II.

Canvas covered every exposed piece of equipment. A handful of newsmen allowed aboard the 10,000-ton cruiser Ordzhonikidze to receive a prepared statement from Rear Adm. G. S. Abashvili were escorted between files of troops to the gunroom where the admiral was waiting. Because of the "canvas curtain," the reporters could see little more than the rails and the decks. They were not allowed to loiter when the press conference was over.

U.N. Will Die if U.S. Quits, British MP Declares

RUGBY, England (UP)—A United States withdrawal from the United Nations will mean the death of the international body, Conservative member of Parliament Cyril Osborne said Saturday.

"If the United States walks out, the United Nations will die because America had provided both the money and strength to keep it alive," Osborne said in a speech here Saturday. "Few people in Britain realize how deeply the American people oppose the admission of Red China into the United Nations," he said.

"America merely asks that China shall cease being an aggressor against the United Nations before being admitted to it. I consider that is a perfectly logical and reasonable attitude."

"Instead of nagging at the Americans, the Chinese sympathizers in this country should get China to stop its indirect war on the United Nations and then everybody would welcome Chinese membership. "There is no animosity toward the Chinese people either here or in America and the Americans are just as anxious as we are ourselves to live with and trade with China," he said.

Ugh! Pale Hose Scalp Injuns, 3-0

CHICAGO (AP)—The revenge-minded Chicago White Sox scored early and in one package behind the shutout pitching of Jack Harshman and reliever Sandy Consuegra Saturday to again squelch the first-place Cleveland Indians, 3-0.

10-DAY REST

Kell Home, Leg in Cast

CHICAGO—(UP). Third baseman George Kell of the Chicago White Sox was released from the hospital with a cast on his right leg Saturday, but said he expected he would begin working out in the next 10 days.

Kell suffered a torn cartilage in his right knee in Cleveland July 2 and has been hospitalized since. He said the swelling was gone from the knee.

"They'll take the cast off next Saturday," he said, "and if it feels all right, I'll begin light workouts right away."

Stars Lick Suds for 5th in Row

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—The Hollywood Stars came from behind with a four-run rally in the sixth inning Saturday and held on to defeat Seattle for the fifth straight time, 7-5, before a crowd of 2637 fans.

Lino Donoso was credited with his 13th victory against only three losses, although he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the big sixth. The loss went to Bob Hall, who was shelled from the mound in the sixth. His record is now 5-11.

Hollywood scored twice in the first inning but the Rainiers rallied for four in the fourth. Donoso, connected for his first home run of the season in the fifth inning to bring the Stars within a run of Seattle.

Then in the sixth, a single and two walks loaded the bases for the Stars. Frank Kelleher batted for Donoso and singled to drive in one run.

An error on Catcher Ray Orteg after Bernier had grounded into a force let two more Hollywood runs in. Dick Smith then singled to bring home Bernier who had gone to third on Orteg's error.

Cleveland Indians, 3-0.

It was the second straight victory in a four-game set for the Pale Hose, who last weekend dropped four straight at Cleveland.

The loss before 23,836 trimmed the Tribe's margin over second-place New York to two games. The third-place Pale Hose now trail Cleveland by five games.

Harshman did a good job protecting a 3-0 lead his mates handed him with a three-run burst off Early Wynn in the second, but it remained for Consuegra to put out a spirited Indian blaze in the seventh when Cleveland had the bases loaded with two out.

Bobby Avila's double and Harshman's sixth and seventh walks brought Consuegra with Wally Westlake at bat and the count two balls and no strikes. When Consuegra came in left-handed hitter Vic Wertz batted for Westlake, but Sandy got him on a fly to center to end the uprising.

It was Harshman's fifth victory against four defeats.

The loser was Wynn, his seventh setback against 10 victories. The Tribe veteran righthander quit after six innings in favor of Dave Hoskins.

All of Cleveland's six hits came off Harshman.

Chicago's three-run splurge in the second nearly wrote the finish of Wynn, right then and there.

Rookie Ron Jackson, still replacing both the ailing Ferris Fairchild No. 2 Sox first sacker, Phil Cavarretta, launched the Sox second with a single.

Padres Fall Back as Seals Win Again, 4-3

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—An old timers game preceding the regular contest highlighted by a 350-foot double by Joe Dimaggio.

Tornay drove in Mike Baxes with the winning run after Baxes had doubled following an error by Dick Sisler on his pop foul.

The Padres had come from behind to tie the game up in the top of the ninth when pinch-hitter Al Lyons singled off Bob Muncie to drive Dick Sisler home from third.

CHATAWAY AIDS AGAIN

British Ex-Paratrooper Smashes 3-Mile Record

LONDON (UP)—Fred Green, a 28-year-old former British paratrooper, wiped out the last of the famed Gunder Haegg's world distance running records Saturday when he ran three miles in 13 minutes, 32.2 seconds.

Green, who works as a clerk in Birmingham, was pushed to the new mark by Britain's Chris Chataway, who paced both Roger Bamister of England and John Landy of Australia to new world mile records—both less than four minutes—within the past nine weeks.

A crowd of approximately 30,000 watched Green stagger across the finish line just inches ahead of Chataway in the amateur athletic championship track meet at White City Stadium.

Green, who made several jumps as a combat paratrooper during World War II and has been running in British meets for the past seven years, said he was surprised at his feat.

"When the bell sounded for the last lap, I waved on Chataway, believing that he had the better finishing speed," Green said after the race. "But I could see that Chris would not do it, so I raced back into the lead and got home by inches."

Rules Debates Enliven Play

By JERRY WYNN

The Mutt and Jeff of the SC-PGA—six foot, two inch, 195-pound Ellsworth Vines and five feet five and one-half inch, 128-pound Ralph Evans—will clash today in the 36-hole finals of the 31st annual championships at Recreation Park.

Tee off time for the morning round is 9:30.

The pair survived a hectic Saturday of quarter-final and semi-final activity, one which highlighted an 18th hole debate over rules that caused a 40-minute delay in announcing the winner of the morning match between Jack Smith and Mortie Dutra.

But there was nothing controversial about the play of the veteran finalists. Both shot sub-par golf during both rounds—Evans, nine under, and Vines, five below the 72-par standard of the Municipal links.

Evans, the clock like, chain-smoking pro from Clock CC played the remarkable total of only 26 holes in downing Howard Schmidt, 7 and 6, and Smith, 5 and 4.

He fired six birdies in the morning, one on a beautiful wood shot around the trees to hit the green on the third hole and set up a 16-foot putt. On the thin negative side, he came up with his only bogey of the tournament of the fifth when he overshot the green.

He was consistently straight and accurate again against Smith, shooting four more birds without a bogey. He has yet to lose a hole during the entire tournament and stands 17 under par.

After experiencing little difficulty in subduing Babe Lazane, 4-3, Vines hooked up with Jimmy E. Thompson in the most exciting match of the day. Eleven of the 18 holes were exchanged.

The battle turned at nine, even with neither able to take more than a 1 up margin. The 10th was halved with extra and then the thrills and golf went into top swing as the next five holes were won on birdies.

Vines took 11 on a 30-foot chip; Thompson sank a 15-footer on 12 and a 6-footer following a pretty pitch to the green on 13; Vines connected on a 4-foot try on 14 and then captured the 15, which proved to be the deciding hole. His second, a 3-wood, reached the edge of the green and he easily went down in two putts.

GET OUT RULE BOOK

The 13th was the scene of another encounter with the rule book. Vines, blasting from a trap, hit and moved Thompson's ball lying on the green. Thompson played both from the original and new lie (two feet closer) and hit on the latter for the bird. According to the rules, his original lie was correct one. However, Vines did not ask for a ruling and allowed the hole to go to Thompson.

The final three were halved with pars—Thompson coming up short on 17 with a 6-footer.

Thompson was carried to the 18th in the morning also before he could gain a hard fought 2 up victory over Bob Tucker.

In the Smith-Dutra contest, the Pale Vardes pro fought back from a 3-down deficit at nine to win 11, 12, 13 and 16 and set the stage for the climatic 18th.

In addition to the championship today, combined consolation medal sweepstakes and seniors tourney will be held for all pros eliminated prior to Friday's third round. A clinic and presentation of prizes will follow the conclusion of the finals.

NEVER MET

The 42-year old Vines and the 36-year old Evans have never met, before in match play. Vines topped Evans by one stroke to win the State Open at Fresno a few months ago. Vines won the SC-PGA Championship once before, in 1951, defeating Ralph Yankee, 2 and 1.

Quarter-Finals—Ralph Evans def. Howard Schmidt, 7-6; Ellsworth Vines def. Jimmy E. Thompson, 4-3; Jack Smith def. Mortie Dutra, 5-4.

Semi-Finals—Evans def. Smith, 5-4; Vines def. Thompson, 1 up.

Predict Crowd of 80,000 for All-Star Classic Tuesday

CLEVELAND (UP)—The major league All-Star game returns to Municipal Stadium after a 19-year absence Tuesday and officials confidently predicted Saturday that new attendance and receipt records would be established.

"We've sold over 60,000 tickets already," Vice President Nate Dolin of the host team said. "Another 10,000 bleacher seats go on sale Tuesday morning," he said, "and we should sell another 10,000 standing room tickets with a break from the weather."

The promise of an 80,000 crowd would surpass by a healthy margin the old mark of 69,812 who viewed the game when it was last played here in 1935. Inasmuch as ticket prices have been hiked since those depression days, receipts will go up correspondingly. The record set a year ago in Cincinnati is $155,654.

The starting lineups for the 21st game will be announced Monday morning by the two managers, Casey Stengel of the Yankees and Walter Alston of the Dodgers. By regulation they must start the top vote getters at each position and play them at least three innings—barring injuries. Only the pitchers were not selected by the fans.

Injuries felled two of the top pitchers from each league. Lefty Harvey Haddix of the Cardinals, who has a 13-4 won and lost record, will not be able to play because of a leg injury. And Allie Reynolds of the Yankees, who has a 9-1 mark, said that he had suffered a recurrence of back trouble, which probably will keep him out of action. He will say definitely on Monday whether he can play but doubted that it would be possible.

Pitcher Jim Wilson of the Milwaukee Braves was named officially Saturday to replace Haddix on the squad. It was not indicated whether Stengel would replace Reynolds but at any rate he will not make a move until Monday. He has eight other pitchers available.

The greatest names in baseball have participated in the event since it was started in 1933 as a sideshow to the Chicago world fair. Of the 40-man squads who participated here in 1935, 13 have gone to the Hall of Fame, Mickey Cochrane, Bill Dickey, Jimmy Foxx, Charley Gehringer, Lou Gehrig, Al Simmons, and Lefty Grove of the American League and Frankie Frisch, Bill Terry, Mel Ott, Paul Waner, Dizzy Dean and Carl Hubbell of the senior circuit.

The list of 1954 fan favorites is sprinkled with the names of veterans and rookies alike. The former includes Stan Musial of

Lions Sign Paul Christman as Part-Time Back Coach

DETROIT (UP)—The Detroit Lions announced Saturday that Paul Christman, former Missouri All-American quarterback who later played six seasons of professional football, has joined the team as a part-time coach.

Detroit General Manager Nick Kerkow said Christman, now 36, would be with the National Football League champions during their first three weeks of training and then be on hand for all the regular-season games.

Coach Buddy Parker said he was "very happy" to have Christman on his staff because he considers him "one of the smartest quarterbacks" ever to play in the NFL.

Christman led the Chicago Cardinals to the NFL championship in 1947 and to their division title the following year. The Lions open drills for the 1954 season at Ypsilanti, Mich., July 23.

with DICK ZEHRM

By JESS MORTENSEN
SC Head Track and Field Coach

Graduation naturally is the goal of the great majority of boys who attend college these days and it does give the boys' coach a solid sense of achievement to have his pupils graduate from college with a good record and go out into one of the professions or into business.

However, it can be pretty discouraging too for a coach to see the shortcomings of his team running their last varsity race or walking down that commencement line. I was extremely proud of the performance of our 1953 Trojan track team back at Lincoln, Neb., in the National Collegiate championship meet when the boys won seven first places and took the team title with 80 points.

But I realized immediately that that impressive victory meant very little as far as our hopes for next year were concerned, since 66 of those 80 points were scored by a fine class of seniors who were competing for the University of Southern California for the last time. Jack Davis, the double hurdler winner; Parry O'Brien, the shot record holder; and Sim Innes, the discus champion, had all set Olympic records as SC undergraduates, but 1953 marked the end of their college careers. Also seniors were the unexpected javelin champ Dick Gether, that consistent high jumper Manie Ronquillo and versatile Verle Sorgen, all of whom had helped in that NCAA victory.

As you may know now, a year later with a new crop of young athletes we were able to stretch those 14 points into 66 and thus win another National Collegiate track title for Southern California. It isn't my intention to go into a discussion here as to how the Trojans can come up with national championship track teams year after year, suffice to say the wonderful weather here in southern California, the fine track program in the secondary schools and the relatively high interest in the sport in this area are all very important factors.

BUT I DID WANT to point out a fact that I just recently realized after my return from the national meets in the Midwest, namely that again the majority of the points were won by seniors who won't be back next year. We can only count on the winners of 26 points returning next spring, the remaining 40 have been won by seniors.

Co-captain Jimmy Lea won the NCAA quarter-mile for the second straight year and was undefeated in the 440 in his senior year. Co-captain Will Wright climaxed a fine career as a student and athlete at SC by taking second in the high in the nationals. Little Joe Gaffio, who was probably one of the most impressive color sprinters in the nation this year, has graduated just when he became a really great sprinter. He was second in the 100 back at Ann Arbor last month.

And Rod Wilger who was a surprise third in the 220 and Des Koch, the discus runner-up, are also seniors.

WITH A NUCLEUS built around our great high jumper Ernie Shelton, we will have to build a new team next spring to again shoot for that national title. But if the boys maintain their fine competitive spirit and their willingness to work and learn, we will be right up there again next June.

Running down a list of hopefuls, I find the following names who should be with us next spring if they all stay in school and retain their interest in track. Sprints—Howard Bugbee, Pat Coyle, Ron Childs and Daryl Ellingsen. Quarter—Mike Larrabee, Howard Smith and Lanny Quigley. Half—Bill Taylor, Ernie Amador, Murray Coburn, Bert Purdie and Buddy Cole. Mile—Fernando Ledesma and Marty Montgomery. Two-mile—Dave Bunyak, Chuck Beaman and Dick Adams. High hurdles—Wayne Bithell and John Morgan. Low hurdles—Jim Decker, Leon Clarke and Ron Loy. High jump—Shelton and Jack Finley. Broad jump—Jon Arnett and Lou Bortolin. Pole vault—Wally Levack, Ron Morris and Dick Richards. Shot—Leon Patterson, Fred Edwards and Carl Self. Discus—Patterson and Howard Smith. Javelin—Doug Maljala. It should be a big, enthusiastic squad out of which will come, we hope, another group of champions.

3rd Place to L.B. Bowlers

A Long Beach team edged a Riverside trio, 17-16, Saturday to win third place in championship three-man competition of the National Lawn Bowling Assn. Tournament which wound up at Arroyo Seco Park, Pasadena.

Paul McCrery, Charles Wolf and Dr. Raymond Cory composed the Long Beach team. The event was won by a trio comprising C. Chase, James Armstrong and Percy Jorgensen, the latter also a local man.

Another Long Beach team, Fred Horwath and Frank Phipps, defeated a Los Angeles duo for third place in secondary doubles. Other results:

Secondary triples—Hippie def. Kenmurt, 22-23; championship doubles—Polman def. Robinson, 22-15; secondary doubles—Hughes def. Pilling, 22-19; championship singles—Folkins def. Armstrong, 21-7; secondary singles—Shumaker def. Reed, 21-9.

WOMEN'S EVENTS

O'Doul Tabs 10 PCL Stars

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lefty O'Doul, the fabled one-time "Man in the Green Suit," predicts major league careers for 10 young Pacific Coast League stars.

O'Doul, who won two National League batting titles, said there is a "fine crop of youngsters" in the PCL this year headed for big time stardom.

"The most surprising of these," said O'Doul, "is Third Baseman Milt Smith of my own San Diego Padres. This kid came to me as a third baseman, but I tried to fit him into the outfield. He didn't go any good out there, so I put him at third and he has been a whiz for the last month. Shows you what a lunk-head I can be."

O'Doul, in 18 years of managing, has sent at least one player to the majors each year. Even when he has had a last-place team, he always developed at least one star for sale to the big time.

Another of his boys who will go up this year for sure is Harry Elliott, Padre outfielder. Elliott is leading the league in hitting. However, O'Doul takes no credit for Elliott, who already has had a whirl in the majors.

The San Diego manager named young Jim Marshall, Oakland first baseman, as one of the finest prospects. Marshall is leading the loop in runs-batted-in and is near the top in home runs.

He liked four youngsters from the San Francisco Seals' "Kiddie Kar Express." They are Shortstop Mike Baxes, First Baseman Jimmy Westlake, Outfielder Dave Melton and Catcher Nini Tornay.

All the boys named are under 25 years of age in this list—young men with a future ahead of them.

"I like that young Russ Rose, Oakland shortstop, too," said O'Doul, "if he continues to hit around that .300 mark. That lad can field with the big leaguers. In other years he never hit like this."

On the Sacramento club, the veteran manager likes Ritchie Myers, the sparkling shortstop who is a six-year veteran, although only 24 years old.

O'Doul also was exceptionally high on Lee Walls, 21-year-old Hollywood outfielder. "This boy Walls is a fine prospect," he said. "He is a very good clutch hitter—especially for so young a lad."

Walls is batting only .285, but has clouted eight home runs and has knocked in 54 runs to be among the leaders in the league.

Ham Upset Finley, Grant in Net Victor Bowl Title Fight

By JERRY HALL

In a desperation attempt that rivals a flying lunge at an inebriated kangaroo, the Wilmington Bowl people are going to try again to put professional boxing on a paying basis.

There is a good chance for temporary success because a state championship will be dangled before the paying customers and promises of great riches will be made to the participants as lures.

Dick Finley and Don Grant will decide during the course of 12 rounds of just who will be the new light-heavyweight champion of California.

This weighty problem will be solved on July 27 and marks the beginning of a planned series of bouts on Tuesday nights—a switch from the former Friday dates. The Wilmington Bowl has been closed for the past month after a brief period of activity.

The Finley-Grant mix has been widely sought since the two emerged atop the slim heap of state light-heavyweights. Actually both are little more than over-weight middleweights, but still they are the class of the 175-pound division.

The title has been vacant since the Athletic Commission evicted Frankie Daniels early this year. Daniels won the crown from Sonny Andrews last September and apparently decided he wanted to retire a champion at the age of 26. At any rate he hasn't fought this year and has forsaken California to chase elusive television pots in the East. To date he hasn't caught any.

Finley is a seven-year resident of Long Beach. He has lost 13 of 34 bouts and been stopped six times. On the other side of the ledger, he has registered 14 knockout victories. He has won a remarkably few decisions. Three to be exact.

Grant has had only 14 bouts, but has won them all without out trouble. Finley will be his toughest opponent. These two have never met.

It marks the return of Finley, too, to boxing after a three-month layoff to recover from a back injury suffered during a Hollywood bout in mid-April. The dislocated vertebrae are healed now and he has returned to regular training.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Young Ham Richardson, playing a hard-smashing overhead game, upset second-seeded Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., Saturday in the Western Tennis semi-finals, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Top-ranked Vic Seixas of Philadelphia had some trouble with veteran Bernard Bartzan of Dallas, Tex., in the other semi-final before winning, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Meanwhile Jaroslav Drobný, the chopping Czech who is riding high in the twilight of his long tennis career, won the Midland Counties lawn tennis championship Saturday when he defeated Roger Becker of Britain, 6-0, 6-3, at Birmingham, England.

At Stockholm, Sweden, Rex Hartwig and Ken Rosewall won the men's doubles title Saturday at Baastad's International Tennis Tournament by defeating Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 12-14, 8-6, 6-1, 6-3.

At Dublin, Hugh Stewart of Pasadena upset favored Mervyn Rose of Australia, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4, 11-14 and 6-4 in men's singles finals of the Irish Open lawn tennis championships. Another Californian, Maureen Connolly, took the women's title over Ginette Bucaille of France, 6-2, 6-1.

Preps Open Drills for Shrine Tilt

An offense-minded South squad opens drills Monday for the third annual Shrine Hi Football Classic July 21 in the Coliseum with a major problem to solve—how to put all its outstanding runners and passers into one four-man backfield.

Coaches Bob Stillwell and Orville Schmitt will call their 25-man squad together Monday morning at Whittier College at the same time that Northern coaches John Giannoni and Rod Franz—minus offensive star Rafer Johnson—gather their team members at Pepperdine College.

Winner of the first two prep all-star clashes, this year the South will have to choose between Hawthorne's Joe Contestabile, national record holder with 32 touchdown passes last season, and Santa Barbara's Ernie Zarn, who accounted for nearly 2,000 yards running and passing, as No. 1 T-formation signal-caller.

Wade, Richter Due Monday

Ram Rookies Report

Bill Wade, the bonus pick quarterback from Vanderbilt and Les (11 for 1) Richter, the former California All-American line-backer, will lead a vanguard of some 40 Los Angeles Rams rookies that will launch pre-season training at University of Redlands on Monday as the powerful pro club prepares for its opening game with the Fort Ord Warriors here at Veterans Memorial Stadium on Saturday night, July 31. Ram veterans will report a week later, Monday July 19.

The squad of first year men will take physical examinations and check out equipment Monday afternoon while Tuesday will be devoted to camera day for the press television and news reels. Morning and afternoon practice sessions start Wednesday.

Wade has served two years in the Navy after being tabbed as the Rams' bonus choice in the 1952 National Football League player draft. Los Angeles acquired the celebrated Richter that same year by trading a football team—11 men—to the former Dallas Texans, who had obtained him as a first draft selection.

The most promising freshmen running backs include Odie Posey, a standout with the Rams during 1951 pre-season training before entering the Navy for three years, Jim (Boxcar) Bailey, former Miami of Ohio sprinter-fullback, who has been in the Army for two years, and Bernie Stephens, of Florida A&M, a brilliant performer in service football at Fort Breckenridge (Kentucky) in 1952.

Other touted rookies include Dewey McConnell, an All-American end at Wyoming in 1951, Jim (Blackie) Kincaid, who was a top defensive back at South Carolina, and a pair of high draft choice linemen—Paul Miller (LSU) and Art Hauser (Xavier). Battles, game scout.

Meanwhile, reports from Fort Ord reveal that the Warriors, 1953 national service champions, will be "loaded" even more this season.

In addition to such greats as Ollie Matson, Pat Cannamela, Ed Henke, Dave Mann and a host of other standouts from the '53 club, a new group of football stars is due to report to Fort Ord this week and among them are reported to be several "name" stars familiar to all grid fans.

Choice reserved seats for the Ram-Fort Ord game can now be obtained by mail. A ticket application box can be found everywhere on the page for the convenience of local fans.

Public ticket sale will begin on July 21. Reserved seats are $3.00. Rookie roster with schools and weights:

SC STAR SEEKS TITLE

Call, Butt in L.B. Net Finals Today

Allan Call, promising young star from SC, and Paul Butt, of the University of New Mexico will battle for the men's singles title in the annual Long Beach Open tennis tourney today at the Lakewood Country Club courts. The match begins at 11 a.m.

Call advanced to the finals by ousting Ted Foster of Lakewood in a blistering three-hour match at the LBCC courts Saturday, while Butt downed former champion Al Bray in straight sets, 7-5, 6-8, 6-3. Butt advanced by a 6-1, 6-4 count.

Defending champion Vi Walker of Eagle Rock advanced to the finals in women's singles and will meet Long Beach's Jane Little for the title. Mrs. Walker won a straight-set thriller from Gertrude Kornfeld, champion of Israel, 9-7, 8-6, and Miss Little eliminated Marlene O'Connor, 6-4, 6-4, in Saturday's semis.

Bob and Fred Lewis gained the men's doubles finals over Call and J. Forrest, 9-7, 3-6, 8-6. They will meet the winner between Foster-Matthews and Bray-Kerbow this afternoon.

In mixed doubles Barbara Pattee and Ted Foster scored a 6-0, 6-0 victory over Gene Lohmuller and Henry Hoquet and will battle Miss O'Connor and Bob Dukelow for the title.

great thrill, but others came after," Cobb revealed not long ago.

In 1912 we played three doubleheaders in three days in Philadelphia before crowds extremely hostile to me because of the Detroit players' strike over my suspension. I made 18 hits in 28 times at bat in the six games.

"Then there was the time we played in Boston in 1920 when we got the word that Carl Mays had killed Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, by hitting him in the head with a pitched ball.

"A reporter called me up and asked whether I didn't think Mays should be barred for life. I told him that since I had not seen the accident I was not in a position to pass judgment. If Mays did it deliberately he probably deserved punishment of some kind.

"The reporter sent out a story that I said Mays should be barred for life and two days later when we opened a series in New York, a crowd of 55,000 was in the stands and no ball players ever took a worse razzing than I did.

"When I appeared on the field all 55,000 of them, it seemed, got to their feet and gave me a—

"I was lucky that afternoon. I never tried harder to hit the ball and I made five hits and stole two bases and when I came to bat for the last time, the 55,000 fans stood up and cheered me. That was truly a memorable thrill.

"Then there was that day in St. Louis in 1925 when I announced that I was going to hit some home runs. I hit three that afternoon and two the next day and I missed two more when the ball struck just below the roof of the right field pavilion. "Those were the highlights of my career!"

Sluggers Williams lived up to his billing in the 1941 spectacle when he blasted a two-out, three-run home run over the roof of Detroit's Briggs Stadium to give the AL a 6-5 victory. And Williams, five years later in Boston, led the junior leaguers to a 12-0 rout by hitting two home runs, the second off "blooper" pitcher Rip Sewell.

The only extra-inning game was played at Chicago's Comiskey Park in 1950. Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals won with a 14th inning home run. Earlier in the contest, Williams fractured his elbow as he smashed into the leftfield wall to make a catch of Ralph Kiner's bid for a hit.

STARS OF TOMORROW

By BOB SKLAR

Dave Dohman didn't get official credit for the Legion Braves' 4-0 triumph over the North Long Beach Lions in the Kid Baseball Association American League crucial Thursday night at Houghton Park, but the chunky star made the difference between the two strong teams from first pitch to last.

This is not to detract from a brilliant three-inning no-hit performance by winning pitcher Jeff King, but let's enumerate the chunky Dohman's contribution to the Braves' fourth consecutive loop win.

After pitching four innings of one-hit, shutout ball, Dohman retired from the mound and went to shortstop. Leading off the sixth inning, he walked, stole second and third bases and then scored the first—and ultimate winning run of the game—on a single by Butler.

Then in the final inning Dohman saved moundmate King's no-hitter, first with a beautiful throw from deep short to nip a runner and then with a running stab of a line drive over second base for the game's final out.

The pitching duel between Dohman and Donny Van Dyken of the Lions may well have been one of the best in Kid Baseball history. Neither team had even sent a man past second base when the opposing pair gave up mound chores after four innings. Van Dyken gave up no walks, two hits and fanned eight Braves with a good change-up pitch.

Second Baseman Ira Howland of the Lions got the only hit off Dohman and later turned in a sparkling pickup on a low-bouncer for one of the week's top fielding plays.

MEL QUEEN JR. hurried four innings of shutout one-hit ball to pace Lakewood's upset 5-2 triumph over Nutrilite in featured Kid Baseball Association action Saturday afternoon at Truman Boyd Field.

After Saturday's games the Legion Braves (5-0) hold a 1½ game lead over North Long Beach Lions and Proctor's Sporting Goods in American League play and Brown's Sporting Goods and H&H Construction are tied for the National League lead with 4-0 marks. Linescores:

DICK SELSOR of the Legion Braves maintained his batting lead in the American League and Bill Maloney of the Police Panthers took over as National League pace-setter in Kid Baseball.

Both clubs go into the contest with 2-0 records. 7-Up also will be seeking its eighth consecutive victory over the full season after setting a new league mark of seven straight with a 7-6 triumph over the Sanchez Champions last week.

Pitching stars of the week were Dave Marshall and Mel Otischoff of Beckley's and Steve Williams and Jimmy Allitto of 7-Up. Victor Grant (Sanchez) and Larry LeGros (Douglas) turned in effective relief jobs in losing causes.

Sparkling fielding plays were turned in by Don Keel, Whitely

Rockets Meet L.A. '9'

Enjoying one of their finest seasons, Bill Feistner's Long Beach Rockets return to action this afternoon at 2:15 to face the Los Angeles All-Stars in a semi-pro feature at Recreation Park.

The Rockets, boasting a record of 13 wins against only three losses, were idle last week. The previous week, Manager Walt Carson's sluggers lambasted the Long Beach All-Stars, 12-3.

With bossman Feistner back on the bench after undergoing minor surgery recently, the Rockets will also be aiming for their third straight triumph in Southern League semipro play.

Larry Jones, mainstay of the Rocket pitching staff the past two seasons, is expected to get the starting call again today. Tim Knorzer will be behind the plate.

The local lineup also includes the veteran Jack Graham, Bob Carter, George Seifridge, Red Meares, Jerry Jeglum, Benny

You save on operating costs. High-compression power in every model saves you money every mile! The "ThriftyMaster 235" engine, the "Loadmaster 235," and the "Jobmaster 261" (optional on 2-ton models at extra cost), deliver greater power and operating economy.

You save extra trips. That's because of the extra load space you get in the new Advance-Design bodies. New pickup bodies are deeper... new stake and platform bodies are wider and longer. Also, they're set lower to the ground to make loading and unloading faster and easier.

You save time on deliveries. With new truck Hydra-Matic transmission, you save valuable time at every delivery stop. And you can forget about clutching and shifting—for good! This proved automatic transmission is optional at extra cost on 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-ton models.

You save with lower upkeep, too. New Chevrolet trucks are built stronger to last longer and save you money on maintenance. For example, there are heavier axle shafts in two-ton models... bigger clutches in light- and heavy-duty models... stronger frames in all models.

You save hours on the road. Thanks to new high-compression engine power, you can maintain faster schedules without driving at higher maximum road speeds. Increased acceleration and hill-climbing ability let you save time where it counts. And you do it with greater safety!

And your savings start the day you buy. In fact, they start with the low price you pay—and they never stop as long as you own a Chevrolet truck. Chevrolet, you know, is America's lowest-priced line of trucks. And it's also the truck that has a traditionally higher trade-in value.

MODEL OPEN IN ANAHEIM

Cliff May homes for no down payment are offered in the Valencia Terrace development in Anaheim just east of the Lincoln-Carson intersection with the Santa Ana Freeway. The Valencia Terrace homes boast all of May's famed indoor-outdoor living features and include fully 1,100 square feet at only $10,650. Artist rendering is of the furnished model open at the Anaheim site this week end.

Central Hall Plan Used in Casas Lindas

Rapid sales activity continues to be the report from Casas Lindas Estates, reveals Walker and Lee, Inc., sales agents for the Garden Grove subdivision. According to Frank Hart, sales manager, the three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes are finding favor with both veterans and nonveterans. Prices are from $12,250, with VA terms of $450 plus costs as down payment and monthly payments from $64.49, principal and interest. FHA terms in the development include down payments from $2750.

Central hall planning is one of the virtues of the dwellings, which have a variety of floor plans as well as a wide choice of exterior elevations. California traditional, with redwood siding and stucco, has been used on exteriors, with decorator color schemes, both interior and exterior, planned by Margaret Hargreaves, color consultant.

Efficiency kitchens draw much praise, with service porches and breakfast nooks incorporated into the plans.

Forced air heat, with thermostat control, a touch-plate wiring system and master control panel, rockwool insulation, double garages, landscaped lots, two bathrooms and 40 to 50-gallon water heaters are other features found at Casas Lindas Estates.

Eastern Builders, Inc., developed the subdivision which has two model homes, done in modern and colonial themes, on display. Reached by driving out Seventh St., from Long Beach, to Ninth St., and making a left turn to the model dwellings, Casas Lindas Estates is open daily for inspection.

"Our Dream Home"

We always longed for a home where we could have plenty of room and this Lloyd S. Whaley's 18th unit of Los Altos was the answer to our dream. There are three bedrooms so we are using this one as a den. Out there is our lovely large lawn. Dollar for dollar we didn't see anything that compared to this home as we shopped around. We are close to the new State College, shopping center, schools and churches. We are in a well planned home in a well planned community. What more could we ask?

New Whaley Unit Appeals by Less-Than-Rent Terms

Attracted by payments of less than rent, visitors to the L. S. Whaley 18th unit of Los Altos established a record July Fourth and sales have reached near the half-way mark on the 560 homes.

Offering three bedrooms, two baths in each home for a total price of $9950, the 18th unit is appealing to both veteran and non-veteran, report salesmen for the Los Altos Realty Co., the sales agency.

Monthly payments are $69.81 for principal and interest, plus taxes and insurance making the total payment monthly under $80.

"Most of our buyers have been paying $100 a month or more for apartments or older houses with far less living area," explained Dick Burdge, president of the sales agency.

"Now they have three bedrooms and two baths plus the latest in home construction for less money and they are investing in the future."

Burdge said the Los Altos development's location adjacent to the campus of the new $25,000, 600 State College is another big factor.

"Buyers know they are making a sound investment in the future with the new college and the new shopping area, plus parks and schools, making Los Altos a second Westwood," he added.

Construction has been speeded so there is no delay in occupying the homes at the close of escrow.

The unit is located at Studebaker Rd., between Atherton St. and Anaheim Rd. To reach the model homes visitors are directed to drive on Spring St. to Studebaker Rd. and then south to Atherton.

Visitors also may drive on Seventh St. to Studebaker Rd., just east of Veterans Administration Hospital, and turn north.

Penney's Will Open New 'Toyland'

Opening of one of the largest toy departments in the Southland is planned about Aug. 1 by the J. C. Penney store, Sixth and Pine Ave., it was announced Saturday by Vernon Fay, general manager.

The company has leased a 4000-foot section of the Y.W.C.A. building immediately west of the store and will use it for "Penney's Toyland." It fronts on Sixth St.

"We are purchasing toys by car load lots and are installing the latest in fixtures for displaying them," explained Fay.

"By moving our present toy section to the much larger area it will permit us to enlarge other units in the main store."

The toyland will launch a Christmas lay-away program with the opening, he explained, and the store will stock a much broader line of toys with a greater variety of the higher priced lines.

A section of the basement will be utilized for the lay-away program under way at the Long Beach store. Modern display units are being installed throughout the store which permit customer ease in shopping and at the same time permit better display of the goods.

Dale Straus will supervise and direct the toyland, Fay said.

Leasing of this new unit is one step in a general modernization of the store.

Veterans who have used their G. I. benefits, who are still in the service or who have served less than 90 days are equally eligible to buy a home in the development, it was noted by Walker and Lee, Inc., sales agents for the subdivision.

Indoor-outdoor living arrangements have been incorporated into the dwellings, designed by Hugh Gibbs, A.I.A. A variety of 11 exterior elevations and a choice of floor plans are also offered, it was stated. Architecturally, the homes are a blend of informal rancho lines and functional California modern.

TITLE INSURANCE PROTECTS INVESTMENT OF STILL ANOTHER PROPERTY OWNER

Bernard S—recently bought a lot in a nearby college town and started construction of an eight-unit court. One day a woman drove up and announced, "I am Rita Carlson. You are building on my property!" The amazed Mr. S—asked us for an immediate explanation, for we had insured his title. We discovered that the deed of Bernard S—was from the estate of another Rita Carlson. Both Mr. S— and the man who represented the estate had believed the property to belong to the deceased Rita; and so had we! But the present Rita Carlson (obviously very much alive), was still the legal owner.

We were obligated to make good, and we did. We paid Bernard S—$8,000, the full amount of his policy. He breathed a sigh of relief...and vowed he would never stray from the protective wing of Title Insurance and Trust Company.

TITLE INSURANCE IN CALIFORNIA COSTS YOU LESS

A property title that appears perfectly clear on the surface may have a clouded history you know nothing about. A policy of title insurance from Title Insurance and Trust Company protects you against unexpected threats. Title insurance rates in California are considerably less than in many other U. S. population centers...so this protection can be yours quite inexpensively.

The three-bedroom, two or two-and-one-half bath homes are on estate size lots located in one of Santa Ana's most preferred residential districts. Prices are from $17,500 to $20,000.

The Henry C. Cox development offers eight floor plans with 16 exterior elevation cedar or shake roofs, Philippine mahogany exterior trim, floodlighted yards, and outside planters are among

Homes Ready in Skylark's Terrace Unit

A marked acceleration in construction pace at Skylark Terrace in Garden Grove, according to Bill Tietz, president of Tietz Construction Co., builders and developers, reduces a waiting period of only two weeks or less before home buyers can move into their new dwellings.

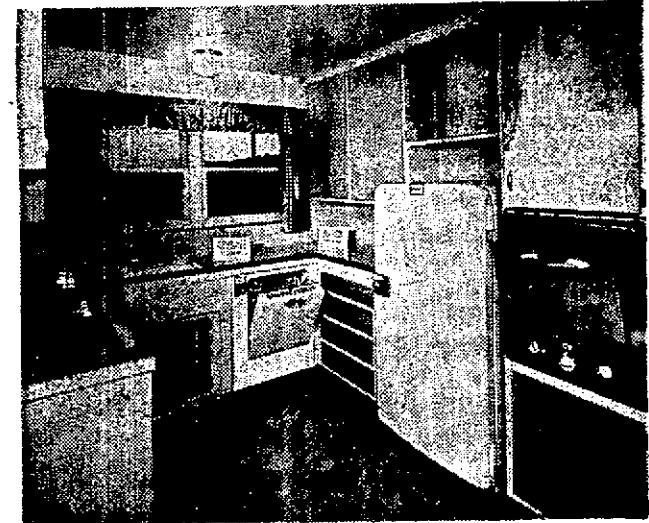

The announcement is expected to speed sales in the subdivision, where the three and four-bedroom, two-bath homes are selling for $14,500 to $15,000. Available to qualified vets on GI financing terms of $450 down, the residences have the added asset of being close to the new 10-acre, $2 million dollar shopping center planned at the corner of Brookhurst and Chapman Aves.

Select locations and large lots, some as large as one-fourth acre, are available. Living areas, exclusive of the two-car garages and covered terraces, are more than 1,300 square feet.

Thermador built-in ranges and ovens, exhaust fans, garbage disposals, Hotpoint dishwashers, ceramic tile work areas and natural finish cabinetry are among features in all the homes.

Over-size Roman brick fireplaces and interior planters are high lights of the decor in the living rooms, separated from the covered terrace by sliding glass lanai walls.

Purchase of 381.6 acres of land east of the San Gabriel River and north of Spring St. for a net price of $1,308,897 was approved Friday by the City Council. The figure was reached by negotiation with Louis H. Boyer and other representatives of Lakewood Park Corp., the owner, City Mgr. Sam Vickers said.

The gross price was $1,373,897, but the seller agreed to credit the city with $65,000 paid to the corporation by Southern California Edison Co. for a transmission easement. Thus the price per acre was reduced from $3600 to $3430. The land is being acquired for park expansion.

Plans West Covina Center

Joseph K. Eichenbaum, developer of Lakewood Center, nation's largest shopping center, plans development of a complete and independent regional shopping center in West Covina, heart of the San Gabriel Valley. A 55-acre site has been acquired at the intersection of Garvey Boulevard and Citrus Street, and application for rezoning the land has been made. Plans now being drawn for the new shopping center include sites for two major department stores; one totaling more than 300,000 square feet and the other totaling more than 200,000. Every phase of a complete business district will be included: Supermarkets, specialty shops, banks, restaurants, superdrug stores, service shops and amusement facilities will round out the diversification of the state's most modern shopping center.

Plans for Units

Mrs. B. Hall, 2034 W. 15th St., will build a two-story four-unit apartment at 1869 Harbor Ave. at an estimated cost of $15,000.

NEARING SELL OUT

Last chance to buy a $13,000 four-bedroom, two-bath "king-size" home at nothing down but costs and im-pounds for vets in Lakewood Plaza is typified by the above exterior in the famed Aldon community. Only 20 homes now remain. Location is Studebaker Rd. and Los Santos Dr., Lakewood district.

Aldon Homes Near Sellout in Plaza

Officials of the Aldon Construction Co., developers of Lakewood Plaza, where more than 600 "luxurized" homes, valued at a total of over $75,000,000, have been built and sold at popular prices in recent years, announce that the last 20 homes are now available for sale.

The final 20 residences are the last in the famed "Redwood Series" of four-bedroom, two-bath, "King-Size" homes in Lakewood Plaza, located at Studebaker Rd. and Los Santos Dr.

Their early sale at terms of nothing down but costs and im-pounds for veterans, with monthly payments of only $65.87 for principal and interest, was forecast by general sales agent E. (Billy) Hamburg, who said the full price of the remaining homes is $13,000 each.

"Never again," declared a top Aldon spokesman, "will such large, luxurized and soundly-constructed homes be built and sold at such popular prices and terms. These homes represent the ultimate in Aldon-pioneered construction, convenient location, quality features and low terms and prices."

He stressed that, with sale of the remaining 20 homes—all returned to the market because that many early buyers failed to qualify for credit to complete the purchases—the Aldon firm will complete its building in the Lakewood district, moving to other areas.

Among the most popular features of the "King-Size" homes are the four spacious bedrooms, one of which may be easily converted into den or recreation room, and the livable area of 1350 square feet in each home, exclusive of the two-car garage.

The buyers of the spacious homes at nothing down but costs and im-pounds for veterans have been impressed with the proximity of the nearby Lakewood Center, with May Co., Butler Bros. and other large establishments, and a big shopping center also at Spring St. and Palo Verde Ave., offering services of a Thrifty Drug Store, supermarket, department store and many specialty shops.

To See Pictures of City's Growth

Now Is Ideal Time for Buying, Says Cox

"Now is a most advantageous time to buy a home when values are unusually high for the amount of money required, and terms are well within the reach of any responsible person."

This is the advice of Henry C. Cox and Affiliated Companies, who pointed out that the building of private homes has risen about 9 per cent since last winter and is higher than the 1953 spring level according to figures released by the Federal Reserve Board.

With the trend toward a "buyer's market," Henry C. Cox built homes in Garden Grove are in unusually high demand. This is attributed by the builders to the policy of including more luxury features and giving better over-all quality and workmanship than would usually be expected in each price range.

Builders of several thousand distinctively designed homes, already purchased by Southland families, Henry C. Cox and Affiliated Companies currently have available Brookhurst Square and Lifetime Homes.

Soon to open will be the new Lifetime Ranch group. Model homes in Brookhurst Square, north of Chapman Ave. Visitors drive out Seventh St. (Garden Grove Blvd.), turn north on Brookhurst and continue to Chapman.

Ave., one-quarter mile east of Brookhurst. No down payment terms are available to qualified veterans.

THE TRAIL BOSS
A Roundup of Range Facts and Oddities

Yesterday the boss, "Russ" Russell, Bob, and I were down here at the V-Bar-M car lot. We were bragging up the sunny weather we've been having, when my old friend Rowdy Read stopped by for a visit. One thing led to another, and soon we were talking about high prices. Rowdy let us talk for a while, then he said, "When you find yourself getting a bit peeved with conditions, you might console yourself somewhat by the historical fact that today's prices, high as they are, seem mighty reasonable in comparison with the prices in San Francisco during the gold boom of a hundred years ago. It's too bad about—" He didn't finish what he had been about to say, for Russ stopped him and said, "Weight for weight I don't exchange my cars for gold. It's a pure cinch I ain't going to over-charge my customers. They'll find that my prices are right and I'll give them one of the best deals in town. I'll bet you couldn't find a more reasonable and fair chance to buy an automobile than this. If you work hard enough to wear out your boots BUT STILL HAVE QUALIFIED CREDIT you can drive a car off my lot WITHOUT MAKING A DOWN PAYMENT! Now I ask you, if this isn't the best news you've heard in a long time. If you have the "diner" all you have to do is pay your money and drive off in your choice of my cars. If you're a little shy on dough—come on out anyway—we might be able to fix up some sort of a deal; give us a "look see" anyway.

A few listings here might let you know what kind of specials I have for you this week end . . .

Sea-Going Residents Head for Catalina; Yacht Clubs Center of Summer Festivities

By ALMA OVERHOLT

The sea-going whirl of social activities has swung into high gear at Santa Catalina, the yachtsman's and great game angler's island rendezvous. Multi-colored pennants fluttering in the breezes by day and a myriad of colored lights twinkling from the decks of the Yacht and Tuna Clubs, signal a continuity of gay festivities ashore, while trim speed boats dash through the spray conveying guests from yacht to yacht for luncheon, cocktails and dinner.

At the Tuna Club, Stirling Pillsbury of this city, the new proxy, and his wife Helen, assisted by the board of directors and their ladies hosted the first deck party of the year. The Pillsburys with their sons, Gaynor and Cree, were guests aboard the Sea Gull of Dr. and Elaine Smith and their son, Cameron.

The Catalina Yacht Club was the center of festivities with Commodore Charles Tanner in command of his merry crew of 200 Corinthians and their ladies at dinner dancing until the wee hours. He was "ably" assisted by his staff officers who left most of the chores to their ladies, namely, Alice Foster, Grace Cairns, Esther Carmichael, Marge Furish, Betty Gartner, Margaret Gifford, Arlyne Ingold, Virginia Kennephol, Pauline Nichols.

One of the gayest parties aboard was the "yacht warming" of Spencer Honig's beautiful new 54-ft. Cris-Craft cruiser White Cloud. The affair was also in celebration of Spencer's birthday. Assisting as hosts and presiding over the delectable viands were Mike (E. B.) and Jane McGreal. Spencer's guests aboard on the maiden cruise to Catalina. Among the many yachting friends who came aboard to inspect the White Cloud and wish Spencer many happy returns of the day were Staff Commodore Hal and Betty Gartner and their guests aboard the Dream, Jerry and Hester Mayo; Staff Commodore Ed and Frances Harrison from their yacht Sueno and their guests the Murray Mitchells and daughter, Sally; Staff Commodore Bill and Lilyan Kirby from their Janet; Andy and Edna Elchox from aboard their El Toro, Lockwood Albright from aboard his Runaway.

Larry and Peggy Pringle were busy dashing back and forth in their speedboat Prince Mab between their magnificent 78 ft. racing schooner-yacht Queen Mab anchored at White's Landing and Avalon to pick up guests flying in from Seattle and points east and west to join them for a glorious week-end vacation of sailing in spanking breezes. When ship's roll was finally called Larry and Peggy had aboard Barbara and Joe De Franco; Virginia Lyons, Karen Hale, Jim Bishop and Ward Dawson, a barrister of San Francisco who flew down from Seattle.

Coffee Hours Tell News, Hail Visitor

By BETTY WENTWORTH
Independent Women's Editor

Causing a wide ripple of pleased excitement among their large circle of friends was the announcement on Thursday of the engagement of Juliana (Judy) Hickman to Dale Bellows Deatherage. The news was revealed at a coffee given by Mrs. Julian Delph Hickman, mother of the bride-elect, in the Hickman home at 217 Mira Mar Ave. An early fall wedding is planned.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. William N. Deatherage, 800 Santiago Ave., and the late Mr. Deatherage. He was graduated from the Naval Academy at Annapolis and is a June alumnus of the USC School of Law where he was affiliated with Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity. Judy attended the U. of Oregon, affiliating with Alpha Chi Omega, and is a member of the Junior League of Long Beach.

Assisting the hostess were another daughter, Marian (Mrs. Frederick H.) Bigony and Elma (Mrs. Everett H.) Miller.

Virginia Warren High on Capital Popularity List

By VIRGINIA WELDON KELLY
Staff Washington Correspondent

Are you aware that according to protocol, a beautiful blonde from California is the nation's "First Young Lady"? This is because the President has no daughters and Vice President Nixon's daughters are still little girls.

Of course you've guessed the identity of the ranking young lady—Miss Virginia Warren, daughter of Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren.

If Washington had home rule, Virginia could be mayor—if she wanted to be. She laughingly insists that she doesn't aspire to public office but she has made a real place for herself in the hearts of Washingtonians purely on her own merits.

With great tact, she never compares Washington to California. She likes it here because of the people and because the city is pulsatingly identified with the continuing history of our country.

In a city that is "sometimes" rent by partisan words, she made many Democratic friends when she served on the hospitality committee for the big reception that benefited the Truman Library—and was in honor of the recent visit of former President and Mrs. Truman.

She explained to appreciative Washingtonians that the role of the Chief Justice is non-partisan and added that in California, Democrats as well as Republicans supported her father.

A real worker for good causes, Virginia played a leading part in the recent Korean Relief drive. She is also greatly interested in the American-Korean Foundation which has received not only the support of the public but of a small group of three members—known as the Virginia Club.

The club members are the Deputy Director for the District of Columbia for the American-Korean Foundation, Mrs. Robert Low (Virginia) Bacon—distinguished Republican hostess and world traveler; Virginia Warren and this reporter.

Poised, friendly—a graceful and spirited dancer who treads Latin American measures with verve—Virginia has brightened the social scene. Of course, the golden blonde from the Golden State has covies of admirers—among them the perennial beau, Marvin Braverman, family friend of Miss Margaret Truman.

This year, Virginia and her parents have lived in an apartment at the Hotel Sheraton-Park—where the Warren ladies do their own work.

The Warrens are expecting a wonderful holiday in California this summer, combined with a joyful reunion with the rest of the family. Recently the Chief Justice told me that part of the vacation will probably be spent in Santa Monica—all of the Warrens love Southern California.

Ramona Kirkpatrick Radiant Summer Bride

Mrs. Henry Marquis Kline Jr.

Two prominent California families were united when dark-haired, attractive Ramona May Kirkpatrick became the bride of Henry Marquis Kline Jr., at an 8 o'clock ceremony last evening in the First Baptist Church, amid a bower of white blossoms, satin streamers, and flickering candelabra. Dr. Winfield Edson read the double wedding lines.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Kirkpatrick of 281 St. Joseph Ave., was escorted to the altar by her father. She was never lovelier than in her wedding gown of embroidered nylon tulle with scalloped edged, double peplum flowing into a full, satin-lined cathedral train. The bodice was fashioned with embroidered appliques on the yoke, and the bridal veil of tulle cascaded from a satin crown embroidered with seed pearls. Her bouquet was a heart-shaped shower of butterfly orchids and lilies of the valley.

Preceding the bride to the altar were her sister, Mrs. Donald M. Hodges Jr., as matron of honor, and the four bridesmaids, Mrs. Ronald Parker (Sally Carr), Mrs. Donald Holmes Jr. of Los Angeles, Miss June Beards of Long Beach, and Miss Shirley Berry of San Jose. Each wore white embroidered organza over aqua and carried heart-shaped shower bouquets of carnations and petite roses in shades of pink and white.

Flower girl was Connie Hodges, niece of the bride, and ring bearer was her nephew, David Hodges. Stewart Kline served his brother as best man, and ushers were the bride's twin brother, Robert Kirkpatrick, her elder brother, Eugene Kirkpatrick, Donald M. Hodges Jr., and Donald Mattson of San Francisco. Candelighters were Misses Shirley Howell and Linda Vaughan.

The reception was held in the large banquet room of the church, under a ceiling canopy of pink and white crepe paper from which hung white wedding bells. The wedding cake, decorated with white hells and pink hearts, was flanked by arrangements of Carol Arling roses. Accessory serving tables were centered with heart-shaped arrangements of pink and white blossoms.

Hostesses for the reception, with Mrs. J. Roscoe Howell in charge, included those who had recently honored the bride with showers; also Mrs. P. K. Countryman and Mrs. Lloyd Vaughan. Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Joe Mincey and Miss Nadine Camden, and in charge of the guest book was Mrs. Eugene Kirkpatrick.

The bride was born in Long Beach; her father is a native son of this city; and her grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Kirkpatrick, were pioneer settlers of Long Beach. She is a graduate of Wilson High School and was a 1954 June graduate of the University of California at Berkeley where she was a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. In the fall she will return to the university to enter the school of physical therapy.

Her husband, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marquis Kline Sr. of Cores, is a 1952 graduate of the University of California. He is a Phi Beta Kappa and a member of Phi Chi medical fraternity, and is now a senior at the University of California's medical school in San Francisco. Now on a honeymoon trip to San Francisco, the young couple will be at home after July 15 at 1299 Arguello Blvd., in San Francisco.

Geary-Hebert Vows Spoken in St. Anthony's Church

An early morning nuptial mass Saturday at St. Anthony's Catholic Church joined in marriage Miss Gladys Hebert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hebert of 6208 Arbor Rd., and Charles F. Geary, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Geary of Sioux City, Iowa.

Rev. Leland Boyer read the service, for which Miss Hebert chose a gown of nylon lace and pleated tulle. Her illusion veil was held in place by a head-dress of matching lace, and she carried lilies and stephanotis.

Single attendant to the bride was Miss Shirley Studer. Joseph Zylla served as best man and Robert Uhl and Edward Melone seated the guests.

The newly married Gearys were honored at a reception in the Assistance League Clubhouse, then left for a honeymoon in Northern California. Upon their return Aug. 1 they will make their home at 3560 Faust Ave.

The bride, a member of AAUW and SCOTS, was graduated from Polytechnic High School and the U. of Redlands where she was affiliated with Alpha Xi Omicron. The bride attended Sioux City Schools and was graduated from the U. of Dayton in Ohio. He is also a member of SCOTS.

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Norma See and John MacNaughton Epley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Epley of 5145 E. Third St., in a candlelight double ring ceremony in First Methodist Church in Buhl, Idaho.

off into the air just one day ahead of the skyrockets for a month's vacation in Hawaii. They'll have three weeks at Hana Maui and a week at the Royal Hawaiian, which to those of us who are pushing hard toward our vacations, sounds divine.

A postcard from Jean and Ralph Hunter informs us that they're spending a few days in Sun Valley. While there Jean is also participating in the national Delta Gamma convocation. Jean's parents, Grace and Rollin Lewis, have been spending several weeks with them and young son, Robert, in Ash-ton, Idaho.

Understand that Virginia Abell is among those journeying on the continent this summer, and that she'll interrupt her travels for a short course at the Sorbonne.

Another who's checking off cities of the old world on her itinerary is Mary Joan Stratton who wound up her sophomore year at Stanford and off from Quebec last Saturday on a student tour. Her brother, Cpl. Chuck Stratton, who's spent the past three years in Germany, will join her for several days of fun and frolic in Paris. Much to the delight of parents, Babe and Charles Stratton young Chuck will be returning in September to resume his college career in his junior year.

And then there's the septet of Pomona College students that's doing its traveling abroad on English motorcycles. In addition to Bix Bixby of Long Beach, others are from Chicago and the Los Angeles area. We darkly suspect that they'll leave as much of a mark on the old world as it will leave on them.

They sailed on the Holland-American Line "Groote Beer," which they fondly dubbed the Root Beer, and they plan to roar through France, Spain, Switzerland, Germany and Sweden if times permits and the band-aids hold out. Bix was given a valiant send-off by 10 of his cronies at a stag party master-minded by parents, Betty and Bix the elder.

Queen Bee Cream

The queen bee's endowment of miraculous vitality has been traced to a property called "Royal Jelly," with fabulous regenerative powers. Since only the queen eats this food, scientists felt that it had to be the secret of her longevity, energy and amazing fertility.

The queen bee, for example, lives for a period of five or six years, while the worker bees' span is six or seven weeks. Frenchwomen have known this secret for many years. It's now available to all women who value a soft, resilient, youthfully radiant skin. Queen Bee cream is revolutionary in conception; with its help, wrinkles and dryness seem to disappear like magic. ## Wild Waves Are Saying

Heat Wave, Fetes Share Top Interest

By IOLA MASTERSON

Wonder what the human melting point is? There are those, among our distinguished citizens, who just might be able to tell us. Verla and Dick Browning and Pat and Sam Cameron, for instance, who, we understand, left for the blazing heat of Las Vegas Tuesday. And Bill Barbee. We're told what's left of him is due in this week end from Kansas.

Cooler thoughts are in order and that takes us right over to Virginia Tuff's Seaside Wk. home where ocean breezes and guests played together Friday as Virginia and Betty Tebbetts co-hosted at a smartly informal brunch. Purpose of the affair was to welcome four newcomers to the Peninsula—two "permanents" and two here for the summer. The "perms" are Ginger McCallum and Diane Cooley and the summer visitors are Virginia's daughter, Dale Griffin, here from Santa Maria and Jane Mettler, whose new Peninsula home will enable the Mettler family to escape Bakersfield summer heat for years to come.

IT WILL BE a sad day in September when classes reconvene at Poly High without chic drama coach, Lillian V. Breed, on the campus. Word of her decision to retire came this week. The petite teacher who has produced so many outstanding stage productions at Poly and given so many subsequent stars of stage, radio and TV their start, plans to travel, relax, and travel again, letting fate and fancy lead her in the best traditions of a leisurely life.

Off for the fishin' grounds of the High Sierra this week end go Bernie and Willis Blenkinsop and Vida and "Rich" Richardson plus their families, complete with trailers and a burning desire to catch the biggest ones.

Elizabeth Tucker has the "for sale" sign out in front of her E. First St. home and her head is full of plans for a cute new house to be built on her lot on Amelia Dr. Whether it will be modern, traditional, French Provincial, or a combination of all three doesn't matter to "Liz" as long as it is full of fun and friends!

BILL ARTMAN drove over to Las Vegas this week end for a little preview visit before meeting Virginia, plus daughter Ann, and Virginia's niece, Joan Warren of Fullerton, who will take the train over Wednesday. Then, if the air conditioning doesn't break down, they'll relish the pleasures of L. V. until Saturday. About then the rest of the Warrens of Fullerton will arrive and off for lovely Turpin Meadows dude ranch in Jackson Hole, Wyo., they'll all go. After dude ranching it, the trip will continue, maybe to Estes Park or maybe some place else. Wherever, it will be fun!

San Francisco Mark Caton will return to the family home this week for that most important of dates—his own wedding! It will take place at parents, Mary and Bill Caton's, Roycroft manse next Saturday with the "I do's" to be spoken in the garden at 5 p. m. The bride is Nancy Dean, a North Carolina girl, who has been making her home in Minneapolis but who won't no mo'!

AND SPEAKING of the Catons, their daughter Judy, and husband, John Kilgo, set sail for the U. S. July 8 from France where John has been studying on a Fulbright Scholarship this past year. Unfortunately, they'll be stopping in Washington, D. C., to make their home and won't be present for Mark's wedding.

Dr. Art and Sue Buell have mid-July vacation plans which will take them first to a working ranch in the White Mountains of Arizona before traveling on to a dude ranch in Wyoming. By the time they get home they'll be referring to the family car as "Old Paint." You can take your choice of meanings from that.

Louise and Dr. Phil Voigt returned home last week with glowing accounts of the good times had at an OMA meeting in San Francisco and their follow-up vacation in Columbia River country.

Susan and Dick Loynes should, by now, be cruising those wonderful inland waterways between Seattle and Alaska aboard their 65-footer The Phantom. Dick took the boat out the coast last month with Susan driving up, meeting him first in San Francisco (where he docked for a couple of days at the St. Francis Yacht Club to let bad weather go by) and then again at Seattle. This summer several Long Beach friends have been invited to join them at various times and ports to share their travels.

Opti-Mrs. Set WCC Group Fall Conclave Has Luncheon

Opti-Mrs. Convention of the 14th district will be held at the Arrowhead Springs Hotel, October 10, 11 and 12. The Opti-Mrs. support the Optimists in their contribution to boys work and give help to the needy boys and girls of their community. The hostesses of the convention this year are the Compton, Gardena and the Huntington Park Opti-Mrs. clubs.

Each club has their own project that they are working on to raise money for the convention. Compton is planning breakfasts and potluck suppers. Gardena is planning picnics, cocktail parties and brunches, while Huntington Park will give a buffet dinner and box social. All three clubs are working on favors and decorations for the coming convention. The theme of the convention is Tyrolean and each club is to dress a doll in their choice of costume to be judged in the contest. Later, the dolls will be given to the Children's Hospital.

Gala event for members of Group 16 of Woman's City Club was the luncheon at Colonial Hall which marked the concluding social event for the group until September. Flowers from the garden at the home of the chairman, Mrs. O. G. Ross, were used to center the tables.

A report of summer activities of Woman's City Club was given by Mrs. L. T. Harding, and members voted to join with other City Club members at the annual picnic Aug. 20 in Bixby Park. Named to the telephone committee of the group were Mmes. T. W. Gilliland, Isabelle Hurley, Margaret Campbell, and Miss Marian Thomas. Guest of the group was Mrs. Catherine MacWilliams.

Pace Slackens for Summer Group Events

By RUTH REECE
Press-Telegram Club Editor

The weather is very warm, everyone is on vacation, there's not much club news, and so this column will be argued with a story about two zoo elephants in Germany which were dressed in women's stockings to demonstrate the elasticity of the yarn.

Lengthwise stretch was shown by having the elephants step on one end and pull the other end with their trunks, while a girl test involved pulling a stocking onto an elephant's foot. We suspect that German women, just like us, resent the implication.

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Insurance Women "got out of town" in more ways than one at dinner meeting Wednesday night. They disengaged themselves from Long Beach in three ways: First of all, it was their annual out-of-town meeting and was held at the Greenbrier in Garden Grove. The H. C. Smith Oil Tool Co. and was rated one of the best such events of the year by the large percentage of members taking advantage of the affair. Desk and Derrick member-employees of the best company were Ada Kennedy and Adelaide Erickson. A tour of the plant, delightful refreshments, and the graciousness of the executives of the company made the evening outstanding.

Mrs. Jack Ashmore

Ashmore-McFarland Wed in Service

In a military wedding one recent evening in All Saints Episcopal Church, Miss Shirley Jean McFarland, daughter of Mrs. Frances McFarland of 3600 E. Seventh St., became the bride of Lt. (j.g.) Jack King Ashmore. Dr. Ainsley M. Colton read the double ring ceremony.

After a reception at the church, the couple left on a honeymoon trip in the north. They will reside after July 23 at Corpus Christi, Texas.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, William A. Young, was lovely in a Cahill ballerina-length gown of white Chantilly lace and tulle over taffeta. The molded bodice was set off by a pleated satin cummerbund. A tiara of lace trimmed with seed pearls held her fingertip-length veil and she carried a satin and lace heart with white orchids and stephanotis.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Gwen Douglas, matron of honor; Misses Jean Mitchell and Judith Young, bridesmaids; and Kathleen Douglas, flower girl. Lt. H. R. Frankland served as best man, and Lt. (j.g.) Walter Todd and Ensign Kenneth Scott seated guests.

The bride is a graduate of Wilson High School and City College. With her marriage she relinquishes membership in Bachelorettes. Her husband, son of Mrs. Mary Ashmore of Paris, Texas, was graduated from high school and junior college in that city.

Golden Year Feted by Dr., Mrs. Brown

I. and Leonard S. Brown of New York City, and Mrs. Ellsworth Seibert of El Cerrito, who brought her three children with her for the festivities.

Spiritual Security Best Endowment for Children

By ANGELO PATRI

There is a good deal of talk these days about security. There is social security which means money for use in old age; there is security in jobs which means that a job brings to the worker no matter what comes or goes; and there is security of the spirit which means insurance against the ills of life, a faith that makes for strength to face life's tragedies.

The accent seems always to be placed on the securities of the material world and anybody who gives the matter a second thought knows that there can be no security in them. The moth and the rust can, and often does, corrupt them—the moth of Time, the rust of disaster, and where is security? Only in the spirit can it be found. Surely then, we should teach children that fundamental law of life and give them something to stand on in the evil day that comes to us all.

Somewhat we seem afraid to do this. Doubt seems to cloud faith and yet faith is what we live by. Consciously or unconsciously we go trusting in something beyond our understanding, beyond all knowing, or we could not go on. When trouble strikes, doubt fades and faith winged by hope takes over. We somehow find strength, somehow we manage to go on with the day's work, believing that things will be for our good because God and His goodness prevails. We must teach children that faith.

There is not much sense in implanting a thought that has no outlet in action, so we teach that faith in the good life must be strengthened by work that leads toward the end we have in mind. What that end is rests with us. If it is selfish, based on material gains, expressed in terms of getting and holding for the sake of a mythical security, it will never satisfy a single soul among us. If the work leads to spiritual strength, to the creation of a beautiful and satisfying way of daily living, it will bring the only possible security humanity can enjoy.

Why Grow Old?

Preserve Your Mental Youth

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Stimulation is one of the magic words so far as prolonged youthfulness and physical attractiveness are concerned. We need physical and mental and emotional stimulation in order to keep the bloom of enthusiasm and youthfulness.

Stimulation is one of the main tenets of skin care. There are many ways to accomplish this. You can use a complexion brush when you wash your face, if you use soap and water rather than cleansing cream. There are circulation creams which you can apply and which whip up the circulation. These are sometimes irritating to a sensitive skin, but not often. Facial exercises are stimulating in a most constructive way. They not only stir up the blood but tone the muscles of the face. Many of the youngest looking women I know have taken facial exercises for years.

Some authorities feel that the beauty angle, a slanting board on which you lie upside down, or with your feet higher than your head, helps keep facial contour and the neckline youthful because of the speed-up in circulation. Whether this is a real benefit I do not know, but it is a position which is used in hospitals in order to relieve strain on internal organs. If you do not have a beauty angle, you can lie with your feet up on the end of a divan or bed with pillows under your hips.

Much of the fatigue and aging people experience comes from stagnation and lack of exercise. For those at middle age and after, swimming, walking and golf provide the best forms of outdoor exercise. While mat exercises should be a part of every woman's day unless there is some reason for not doing them. Rockingchairs has damaged many persons.

If you would like to have my facial exercises, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 9, "Facial Exercises," to Josephine Lowman in care of the Press-Telegram.

Child Care

Books Help Child-Adult Adjustment

By BEULAH FRANCE, R.N.

(Q)—"In your column you mention books as valuable aids in the teaching of sex to boys. My son is nine. Will you please recommend publications I may purchase? Our local library has nothing suitable."

A.—C. F. H. (A).—Get the 1954 edition of "Int'l Manhood," Roy Dickerson, its author, a recognized authority on this subject, tells parents how to talk to their children in a way they will appreciate and understand.

Reading this book you will find the answers to most of the questions that your boy will ask. Prepare yourself to explain correctly, without hesitation, whatever queries he puts to you. The list of literature for adults, which I shall send you, will help you do just that.

If ever you can't be sure of giving an accurate answer promptly, don't be afraid to say: "Let's look that up together." Children develop lifelong confidence in parents who are ready to admit lack of knowledge, whereas parents who claim to "know it all" and are later found to have given incorrect information, forfeit their youngster's faith.

A book which your son will enjoy and will learn from is "Into The World," Victoria Emerson and James Thompson write it for boys and girls of your son's age. Consulting parents, educators, clergymen, physicians and psychologists, the authors made it a valuable work in story form. Read it yourself first, then you will be ready to discuss it intelligently with your son.

Another father recently wrote me that his boy had just been "told about sex in a very vulgar way" by a classmate. "My son," this saddened father said, "feels I didn't play fair with him because I evaded his questions on the subject and refused to tell him the truth. How I wish," this man declared, "I hadn't been such a silly, sissy prude. Now I've lost my boy's respect. Can I ever regain it?"

Work Out Own Answer to Problem

How should you play today's hand at a contract of six spades against a heart opening lead? Decide on your own line of play before reading on.

When the hand was actually played, South won the first trick in his own hand with the king of hearts and then laid down the ace of spades. This was a fatal error.

South must ruff twice in the dummy in order to win seven trump tricks, but he cannot afford to ruff with dummy's honors.

South struggled on manfully for a long time, but he eventually lost a club trick and a trump trick. His careless beginning had defeated him.

It is easy enough to provide for seven trump tricks if you simply analyze the hand before you play from the dummy at the first trick. Having seen what you need, you win the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts.

As your next step, you lead the queen of spades, discovering the bad news. Now you cash the king and ace of diamonds with one of dummy's low trumps. You return to your hand by way of the king of hearts and lead your last diamond towards the dummy.

If West discards, you can ruff with dummy's remaining small trump. It is then easy to cash the jack of spades and get to your hand with the ace of clubs in order to draw the rest of the trumps. If West trumps the fourth diamond, you can overruff in dummy and draw trumps with even greater ease. Either way, West cannot defeat the slam contract.

She's 'Heartsick' Over Trifle

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD: My problem is heavy on my heart and mind. I have never been a demanding wife, or, I believe, a jealous one, but I am very heartsick today. If I am wrong, please say so. I have two devoted daughters, married, and (unlike their mother) very happy. I tell you this so that you may know my husband might have asked their help instead of a strange woman's.

Now, while I do not ordinarily look a gift horse in the mouth, last week my husband gave me a birthday gift which some strange woman had helped him select. He thinks I am very unreasonable to object.

Of course, I know all stores have this shopping service, but why did my husband have to ask help of a stranger when his daughters would have been glad to lend a helping hand? Furthermore, why did he have to drive her home after she had helped him? Yes, that is what he did. I found cigarette butts in his front seat ashtray that had lipstick on them. I asked him about this and he then said she had helped him, and had missed her bus and so he drove her home.

On top of everything else he is a traveling man and had only spent eight days in this town when the incident occurred. He thinks I'm very unfair, but I cannot enjoy this gift, and I can't help feeling very sick at heart. Please tell me who you think is right.

—R. T. B.
DEAR R. T. B.: I suppose you aren't going to like my saying that you're making a mountain out of a molehill, but I actually think you are.

Oh, maybe, if you had your choice, you would rather not have had your husband ask for outside help, and preferred that he not drive the lady home. But when it comes right down to it, that's all he actually did—outside of leaving the cigarettes in the ashtray. And don't you imagine if he had any sense of guilt he would have painstakingly removed those?

If you'll accept my advice you'll go ahead and enjoy your husband's gift, and laugh at the whole silly business.—M.M. (Molly Mayfield appears daily in the Press-Telegram).

ONE GLANCE at today's Chef of the Week Peter J. Nitrini, and you'd know he was lively aquiver to every facet of his life. As manager of the Long Beach May Co. store, his record speaks for itself—as a grower of elegant roses he's top flight—but as a granddad to two grandsons, one brand new, he's really quite expansive.—(Staff photo by H. S. Melvin.)

Store Manager Offers Tomato Sauce Recipe

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

Each morning after that last sweet five-minute snooze, he's master of his domain—and his momentum is terrific! Though today's Chef of the Week Peter J. Nitrini was born in Carrara, Italy, he came to the U. S. at the age of nine. While his childish impression of the wharf at Boston was not very favorable, he stayed long enough to receive his education in Cambridge, Mass., and earned his degree in accounting at Boston University.

His dad was a renowned sculptor, and an assignment in the Capitol Bldg., Washington, D. C., brought the family from Italy. A similar assignment on the Los Angeles Public Library brought them to Los Angeles in 1927.

Our "chef" claims he can't draw a straight line, even with a ruler—his forte lay in the fields of auditing and merchandising. After a year "figuring" for the County, his real vocation became apparent in his next move—controller of a large department store. The rungs of the ladder were firm, however, and he soon stepped up to the position of both comptroller and auditor of a chain of Dollar Stores.

In 1932, it was the May Company's good fortune to have him join their staff's merchandising department. Assistant buyer, buyer and then division manager of their downtown store all preceded his advancement to manager of the new Long Beach May Co. store in February of '34.

The Lakewood district has been greatly enhanced by his presence. President of their Chamber of Commerce, he also "presides" their Merchants' Business Assn. On the board of directors of the Boy Scout Council, he holds directorates on the Community Chest and on the Catholic Welfare Council.

While merchandising is his very life, being grandpa to two up-n-comin' grandsons and growing roses run strong second. One hundred bushes, including 55 varieties, are most testimony. All long stemmed -- they're not the result of vitamin B shots, either -- just the Nitrini knack. While he has played golf most of his life, score-wise he contends he still has nothing about which to brag. (That's his story.)

Foodwise, he loves spaghetti that is, if properly "sauced," his recipe today.

ITALIAN TOMATO SAUCE SPAGHETTI FOR FOUR

1 lb. whole pork with rib. Brown in 2-quart pan on both sides with 2 tbl. olive oil.

Chop one onion and parsley together (equal quantity). Add 1 can Campagna tomato paste, 2 cans Del Monte tomato sauce and 1 whole clove of garlic. Place all ingredients in a 2-quart pan, so pork can be covered. After it comes to a boil, simmer without cover until grease of pork comes to top (which takes from 3½ to 4 hours). Serve hot atop cooked spaghetti.

What America Means to Me

by BILLY GERHARDS

AN AMERICAN BOY WHO LIVES IN GERMANY

EDITOR'S NOTE: Billy Gerhards, now 9, went to live in Germany before he was old enough to know the U. S. When CBS-TV's On Your Account treated Billy to a visit here, PARADE asked him to give his "first" impressions of his native land.

HEIDELBERG, GERMANY.

I SORT OF FEEL like Columbus, except that I discovered America in 1954 instead of 1492.

I've been living in Germany since I was 2½—and believe me, you don't remember much that you see when you're that age. My dad is a civilian teletype engineer and he came here for the Army after fighting in France and Germany. Naturally, my mother and I came along, too. That's how it happened that although I'm an American, I didn't know much about my own country. I didn't know what it looked like and I didn't know what Americans were like. I didn't even know who Abraham Lincoln was one day in school. That really made my dad upset.

He was pretty glad when I got a chance to visit my own land. I was gladder. It was a real thrill to spend four weeks actually visiting places like Washington, Philadelphia, California and Texas.

Now that I've seen the U.S.A. from corner to corner, the first thing I want to say is that the buildings surprised me. They're so tall and look like it must take years to build them. My neck ached after my first day in New York.

Another thing I noticed is that everybody in America seems to have money. Kids have plenty of money to spend for things, too. It's a very prosperous country.

Another thing—grown-ups in America take time to talk to kids. Wherever I went, people were glad to think I got a trip home and they spent plenty of time showing me around and explaining historical things to me. I saw so many universities that I'm mixed up now—I'd like to spend maybe a year in all the different ones I visited. American schools are terrific.

I also noticed all the plumbing; in Germany we don't have a lot of bathrooms. And closets are built in the wall in the States. German families just have a wardrobe closet in a room, so your clothes get pretty crowded.

We get swell food from the Army store but it's not like what I ate in America. I'm pretty fat anyway, but I gained 8 pounds on the first two weeks of my trip. They cook food differently in America. In New Orleans I was taken to one fancy restaurant for dinner. The lady I was with looked surprised when I ordered shrimp cocktail, one dozen snails, steak, potatoes, two glasses of milk and a dessert that was set on fire. But I ate it all!

The biggest thrill I had on my trip? It was meeting Mickey Mantle of the Yankees. He's my idol; I always read about him in Stars and Stripes, our Army paper. I got so excited when I met him, I didn't bat as well as I usually do. He gave me some tips and an autographed baseball and bat that he and Allie Reynolds, Phil Rizzuto and Eddie Lopat had used in spring training.

If I wrote about all the places I visited, there wouldn't be room, so I'd just better say every place had a surprise about it. For example, in Williamsburg, Virginia, I saw houses looking just like they did back in Colonial times. In Norfolk, I went out on a tour of the U.S.S. Tench, a real submarine.

In Philadelphia I leaned over and touched the Liberty Bell. And on Lost Valley Ranch in Texas, I got to ride a horse named Puzzles. It was just like in Western movies. That was the thing I couldn't get straight about America. I'd thought everyone would be wearing Western clothes and riding horses.

In Washington, D. C., I saw how our Government works and I met Senator Potter of Michigan. He lost both his legs while fighting in World War II. He was shot down three times. He's wonderful.

He told me it was worth even losing your life for America, and for me never to forget I am an American citizen just living in Heidelberg for a while.

I never will.

LOVE IN MARYLAND

● On graduation day, 1954, at the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., midshipmen threw their caps into the air—then dashed for the altar. Out of 852 in the class, 59 got married in the traditional "assembly line" ceremonies—one wedding every half hour—at the Academy Chapel. The first of the 16 couples in the vanguard of newlyweds started down the aisle at 1 p.m. Seven and a half hours later the 16th couple spoke their vows. For a look at this newest crop of Navy newlyweds, turn to page 16.

THREE who officiated at Annapolis: (l. to r.) Chaplain V. J. Lonergan (Catholic), Chaplain M. E. Brennenman (Protestant), Capt. J. D. Zimmerman, Senior Naval Academy Chaplain.

Submerged in unhappy infants and nervous "nannies," Peck wonders: What next?

Peck Among the Pinups

English babies all cry when the American film star sits down

THE TABLEAU above still makes Gregory Peck shudder a little. It occurred during shooting of his latest movie, Man with a Million (United Artists). In one sequence, Peck had to attend a charity fete at a London orphanage. The actor himself describes what happened next:

"Director Ronald Neame put an ad in the London Times for babies, and 200 mothers showed up with their infants. He chose eight on the basis of health and cheerfulness. So what happened? When the scene was made, every one of those cheerful babies started howling the minute it saw me.

"It was," Peck concludes with masterful understatement, "very embarrassing."

GEN. DEAN: Commander of the 24th Infantry Div. in Korea, he was taken prisoner in 1950, released in 1953. Now he is deputy commander, 6th Army, San Francisco.

General Dean's views on . . .

Teaching GI's to Withstand Communist Brain-Washing

by LLOYD SHEARER

AS A PRISONER of the North Koreans for three years, Maj. Gen. William F. Dean was subjected to every type of degradation the enemy could devise. He was stripped in freezing weather, starved and threatened. He shriveled from a robust 200 pounds to a 100-pound skeleton.

Despite all that, he refused steadfastly to divulge important information. But what of the future? If our GI's ever again are captured and exposed to Communist "brain-washing," will they be able to withstand it? Should they be getting special training now? General Dean is uniquely qualified to talk on these points. In an exclusive interview, PARADE reports his views.

QUESTION: From your experience, General, would you say that the average GI is as politically mature as his Communist opponent?

ANSWER: Let me point out at the outset that any views which I express as to the nature of the Communist soldier are limited to my own impressions of those North Korean soldiers with whom I personally came in close contact while I was a prisoner of war. None of them was below the rank of Master Sergeant; presumably they were specially selected on the basis of their sound Communist indoctrination for this assignment. With that in mind, I can say that the average American soldier is not as politically aware of the role of his country in world affairs as the Communist soldiers with whom I became acquainted. Certainly, the enemy soldiers I knew were better oriented on the Communist objectives in the world today than is the average American I have met since my return.

Q: Ideologically speaking, sir, did most of your troops in Korea understand or know what they were fighting for in Korea? Wasn't this beyond the ken of the average frontline soldier?

A: Prior to the commitment of the 24th Infantry Division in Korea, it was my practice to personally orient every soldier assigned to my division upon his occupation mission, his responsibility as an ambassador of good will in a democratization of Japan, upon the urgent need for combat preparedness and the nature of our most logical enemy—the Communists. This command orientation was implemented by weekly Troop Information and Education conferences at small unit level, in accordance with Department of Army policy, and was supplemented by specially selected speakers dispatched from my headquarters to tour all units. For example, I detailed my Deputy Chief of Staff, G-4, Lieutenant Colonel Robert Dice, a former instructor at the Military Academy, to visit each unit in the division and lecture on the entrance of the 24th Infantry Division into battle in World War II. These lectures were designed to help build pride of unit. At the same time, copies of the 24th Division's history printed in Japan were made available to all unit libraries and excerpts were printed in the division newspaper frequently.

I made it a regular practice to visit Troop Information and Education conferences at small unit level to ensure that they were being conducted with the vigorous preparation that I felt they deserved.

I mention all of this only to emphasize how important I consider this function of command to be. Unfortunately, the dispersion of my units and their abrupt commitment to battle prevented me from doing in Korea what I had previously done in World War II: personally tell every man why he was there. I did, however, impress the importance of this upon my regimental commanders and I am confident that they carried out my instructions.

Major General Guy S. Meloy, then a Colonel commanding the 19th Infantry Regiment, reported that he asked a soldier during one of these conferences the following question: "Why do you think we are fighting in Korea?" Without hesitation the soldier replied: "For freedom, sir." Of special significance, I think, is the fact that the Troop Information and Education NCO, Sergeant First Class Nelson V. Brittin, of the 24th Infantry Division, won the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously for conspicuous gallantry.

No, I do not believe that it is beyond the ken of the average frontline soldier to understand what he was fighting for in Korea!

Q: Do you think, sir, our officers and enlisted men need more orientation and more indoctrination studies as regards the nature of the potential Communist enemy?

A: Yes, I most certainly do, and I am certain that this matter is now receiving careful study by our military planners in Washington, with additional implementation of current programs in mind.

Q: Do you think, sir, it is possible for the average GI to resist Communist indoctrination as it was practiced in North Korea?

A: The number of American prisoners of war who did resist Communist attempts to win them over speaks for itself. Of the many thousands of American prisoners of war who were captured by the North Korean and Chinese Communists, only 23 openly indicated acceptance by refusing repatriation.

Q: What can be done in your opinion, General Dean, to prepare our men against such brain-washing in any future conflict?

A: In my opinion, the importance of psychological preparation for soldiers against Communist indoctrination in the event that they become prisoners of war has been highly overemphasized. Far more important is their mental preparation for combat itself. This preparation must begin in the home. Knowledge of what a soldier is fighting for stems from knowledge and practice of the ideals for which his country stands. What a man brings into combat in the way of mental and moral equipment will determine his actions. If the qualities of self-reliance, integrity and courage have been instilled in him since boyhood, he will display those qualities when he needs them most. The place to begin teaching our youth what America means to them is in the home. It must be rigorously continued by their teachers and by all who influence their thinking. The military leader has an obligation to so conduct himself as to merit the respect of the young American before he comes into military service. Thereafter, it is the responsibility of the military leader to continue to develop the qualities and character which have been instilled by the parents and nurtured by the teachers.

If, however, a young man has grown up in a moral vacuum, it is difficult, indeed, for a military leader to fill that vacuum with what it takes to make an American in the short time prior to combat normally permitted by wartime conditions.

Q: Would you say, General, that there were many men on our side in Korea who had grown up in a moral vacuum?

A: No. The overwhelming majority of our men are fine, decent, loyal Americans of character and courage. This is particularly true of our fighting men. In my tour of duty as Military Governor of South Korea, I did see evidence, however, of sexual misbehavior, drunkenness, dishonesty and disloyalty on the part of a minority of our citizens there or on occupation duty.

RED PROPAGANDA worked on these men, some of the 23 GI's who refused repatriation in Korea. Photograph was taken in North Korean town of Kaesong.

These were civilians as well as the military and the proportion not living up to the American tradition was about the same in each category. And, through every case, ran the same soft streak of character. In my opinion this soft streak develops when children have grown up in a moral vacuum created in large part, I think, by the pseudo-psychology I hear prattled on all sides. I can testify personally that some of our friends in the Orient have been sold on communism by the actions of Americans. Among the Reds who guarded me, I found such former friends. During the formative years of 6 to 17 our children spend more waking hours in the charge of teachers than they do in the charge of parents; so that teachers have a tremendous role in building character.

For the most part they are doing a great job. But here again, there is a minority who say, "I am paid to teach, not to preach." In my opinion, the teacher who is not willing to teach character and preach Americanism should change his profession.

Q: During World War II, members of the Dutch Underground were advised by leading Resistance psychologists to talk too much rather than too little in the event of capture by the Nazi Gestapo. The theory was that eventually the average underground agent would give way to mental torture and confess something vital. He was therefore advised to talk at great length about anything and everything in order to confuse the enemy. Do you think such a system would work with our soldiers?

A: While it may be true that the exceptionally intelligent and resolute man might be able to bewilder interrogators of lesser intelligence by a profusion of information, it is extremely unlikely that this device would serve anyone else. Obviously, intelligence officers of any enemy are selected from specially qualified personnel of above-average mentality. I seriously question that the average officer or soldier would be a match for them. In attempting to outwit them, the American soldier might easily betray without his own knowledge the very piece of information which the enemy is secretly seeking.

Q: In World War II we were taught to give the enemy nothing but name, rank and serial number. Psychologists now say that under constant Communist torture, mental and physical, not one in 50 GI's could obey such an edict. Do you agree?

A: I believe that it would be a serious mistake to change our present regulation which prescribes that a soldier give nothing but his name, rank and serial number if he is captured by the enemy. Any relaxation from this practice would eventually result in the enemy receiving the tactical information in time to use it whenever they capture a prisoner. Any officer who has been in combat can cite examples to prove my point. I remember the following one, in particular: it occurred when the 44th Infantry Division was in action near the Saar River.

One of our patrols captured a German messenger one night. He was carrying a verbal order, which he immediately related to his captors. The order directed a German battalion to prepare for a night attack on our positions at a critical point. Obliging, the German prisoner pointed out the battalion's assembly area. We immediately placed artillery fire (time on target) on the area. The attack did not materialize. Later it was determined from other prisoners of war that we had inflicted very heavy casualties on the German battalion, stopping their attack at the same time.

If the German messenger had withheld the information with which he was entrusted for only one hour, it would have been too late for us to act upon it and the results might have been very serious for us in this situation.

Q: As deputy commander of the Sixth Army, have you, sir, invoked any new teaching or training methods in reference to future Communist brain-washing?

A: Too much attention has been given in the press to protecting our men from Communist brain-washing after they are captured. More attention should be given to motivation of the fighting spirit that will enable them to capture the enemy. We must inculcate in our soldiers the conviction that to be captured is a misfortune. Wars can't be won by captives.

Cancer detection: Is this the

Using the patient's blood as a "thermometer," a team of California

DR. PENN: Most of his time, energy and money have gone into what some doctors now term "our best cancer diagnostic aid."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Because the cancer diagnostic technique described here is still being tested, it is NOT available at your doctor's office or at your local hospital. However, early results indicate that this research may prove a significant milestone in the battle against cancer. PARADE is reporting on the "Penn Reaction" now because of what it may hold for the future.

DOCTORS KNOW that if they had a reliable diagnostic test to reveal cancer in any part of the body, they could save a great many lives each year. For about a quarter of a century they have searched for such a test—in vain.

Now a group of California researchers appears to have discovered half the answer: a simple technique, which, they say, can give a patient the assurance that he does not have cancer.

In this diagnostic method—called "the Penn Sero-floc-culation Reaction"—a patient's blood is analyzed easily and comparatively quickly. Dr. Andrew H. Dowdy, chairman of the Department of Radiology, University of California, recently revealed that the Penn Reaction had been tried on more than 10,000 people with very encouraging results.

The Penn Reaction is named after Dr. Harry S. Penn, a brilliant Beverly Hills surgeon and associate clinical professor of radiology at the UCLA Medical School. Dr. Penn was one of the first scientists to suggest that cancer may result from an abnormal body chemistry and might reveal itself in a blood test. From that suggestion grew the Penn test. Here is how it works:

The doctor or technician takes a small sample of the patient's blood. One day later a solution of an inexpensive chemical, ethyl choledienate, is added to the blood sample.

If the mixture remains murky or milky in appearance, the test is considered negative, and the patient may be sure that he does not then have cancer.

If small particles form in the mixture and the solution becomes clear, then a positive test is indicated. The positive reaction, however, does not necessarily mean that the patient # best weapon yet?

doctors reports very promising results has cancer. All it means is that the patient is not well, and may be suffering from a high fever, arthritis, tuberculosis, pregnancy, cirrhosis of the liver—or cancer.

All of these will give a positive reaction to the Penn Reaction. Thus, a "positive" indicates to the doctor that he had best examine his patient carefully.

If the patient has only arthritis, not cancer, he will not run consistently positive tests. One week the Penn Reaction will be negative as the arthritis attack wanes; the next week it will be positive as it recurs. Similarly, the patient with fever who shows a positive reaction will show a negative reaction when the fever disappears. In such cases, therefore, the possibility of cancer may be ruled out.

The person afflicted with invasive cancer, however, will consistently run positive reactions week after week even though there are no apparent symptoms. This is when the most thorough exploratory examination possible should be conducted by the physician.

Except in relatively few cases—3 per cent—the false positives may be quickly ruled out as due to some disease other than cancer.

To repeat: the Penn Reaction is not yet a specific diagnostic test for cancer. It is a diagnostic aid.

In the words of Dr. George Hall, Director of the Cancer Control Center, Sawtelle Veterans Administration Hospital: "It is, in my opinion, the best diagnostic aid for the early detection of cancer science has yet discovered. And I am saying this on the basis of more than 30,000 Penn Reactions made under my supervision. No biologic test is perfect. But I believe this one will prove itself in the near future."

Dr. Dowdy describes the test as "very much like a thermometer." It indicates to the physician that something is wrong with his patient when no symptoms of the disease are apparent.

The Penn Reaction now is being tried, checked and double-checked by a select group of hospitals and clinics throughout the country.

Doctors Want to Be Sure

DR. STAFFORD WARREN, Dean of the UCLA School of Medicine, says of the test, "Even though the technique is straightforward and can be done by any qualified technician after a short training period, it is probable that it will take almost a year before it can become available to the general practitioner in local hospitals or diagnostic laboratories."

Before the reaction is released nation-wide, the scientists connected with it want to make absolutely certain that it meets all the requirements for a diagnostic test.

The man who feels reasonably sure that the Penn Test will fill those requirements is its Russian-born creator, Dr. Harry S. Penn. For the past 25 years, this modest, dedicated surgeon has devoted most of his time and practically all of his money to the cause of cancer research.

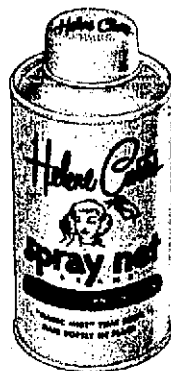

But he is making no outlandish claims for his test. Conservative by nature, he continues to work on it. Quiet and self-effacing, he is deeply respected by his assistants. Says a nurse who has been with him for more than two decades: "Dr. Penn is 63. Time is running out for him. In his heart he knows this, which is why he keeps working like a beaver. Before he dies, he wants to see this terrible disease beaten. That's all he lives for."

How Many Girls in These Pictures?

You can count eight, but it's all a photographic trick to show one girl's dives

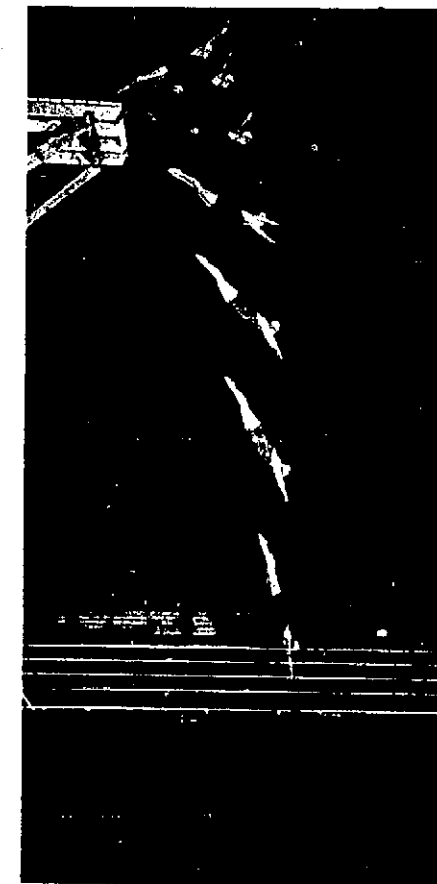

Split-second lights record backspringing Bende Velin's image eight times on one film.

ELSINORE, DENMARK.
IN THE DAYS when Hamlet—Shakespeare's "melancholy Dane"—brooded on the battlements of the old castle here, he never set eyes on anything like the pictures on these pages.

The scene is a pool almost in the shadow of the castle. The girl: Bende Velin, 20-year-old Danish diving star. The occasion: a two-hour session with photographer H. Lund Hansen.

By rigging his camera to a battery of eight stroboscopic lights, each of which flashes for 1/10,000th of a second, Hansen recorded the whole arc of Bende's descents—a graphic display of diving form.

To facilitate the picture taking, Miss Velin performed her dives between 10 p.m. and midnight on a cloudy night. Says Hansen: "What courage! She couldn't even see the water from the 40-foot board!"

PLUNGING into darkness from 40-foot board, Bende executes a perfect forward dive. Note fists clenched to break impact.

Hearty Frankfurter Stew

Frankfurter stew is Portuguese in origin.

"Suspiros" are dainty meringue cookies.

KITCHEN HINT: The secret of good meringue—beat in each addition of sugar until completely dissolved.

A WONDERFUL array of recipes from Cape Cod—native specialties, Portuguese dishes, Old World delicacies—is collected in a new book* by a genial host and lover of fine food, Peter Hunt. On this page are two samples from the Portuguese—a hearty main dish, a delicate dessert—for you to try.

FRANKFURTER STEW

- 1 tablespoon shortening    ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 medium onions            ½ teaspoon pepper
- 1 pound frankfurters        dash of Tabasco sauce
- 3 boiled potatoes, cold,    1 tablespoon vinegar

dice
Fry onions in shortening until golden brown. Add frankfurters, cut in fourths, and fry lightly. Add 1 cup cold water, salt, pepper and Tabasco sauce. Simmer for ½ hour, then add potatoes. Take from fire. Add vinegar. Mix well. Makes six to eight servings.

'SUSPIROS'

- 3 egg whites                ½ teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 cup sugar                ½ cup sliced blanched almond meats

Beat egg whites until very stiff. Add sugar gradually. Add lemon juice. Roll in (picturesque for "fold in") almond meats. Line a cookie sheet with brown paper. Drop mixture by teaspoonfuls onto this paper and place in moderate oven (350°F). Remove when slightly brown. Makes about 12 cookies. Incidentally, "suspire" means sigh.

Glamor T-Shirts

Striped and sparkling, they're a far cry from undershirts

THAT OLD standby, the cotton knit T-shirt, gets more glamorous every season.

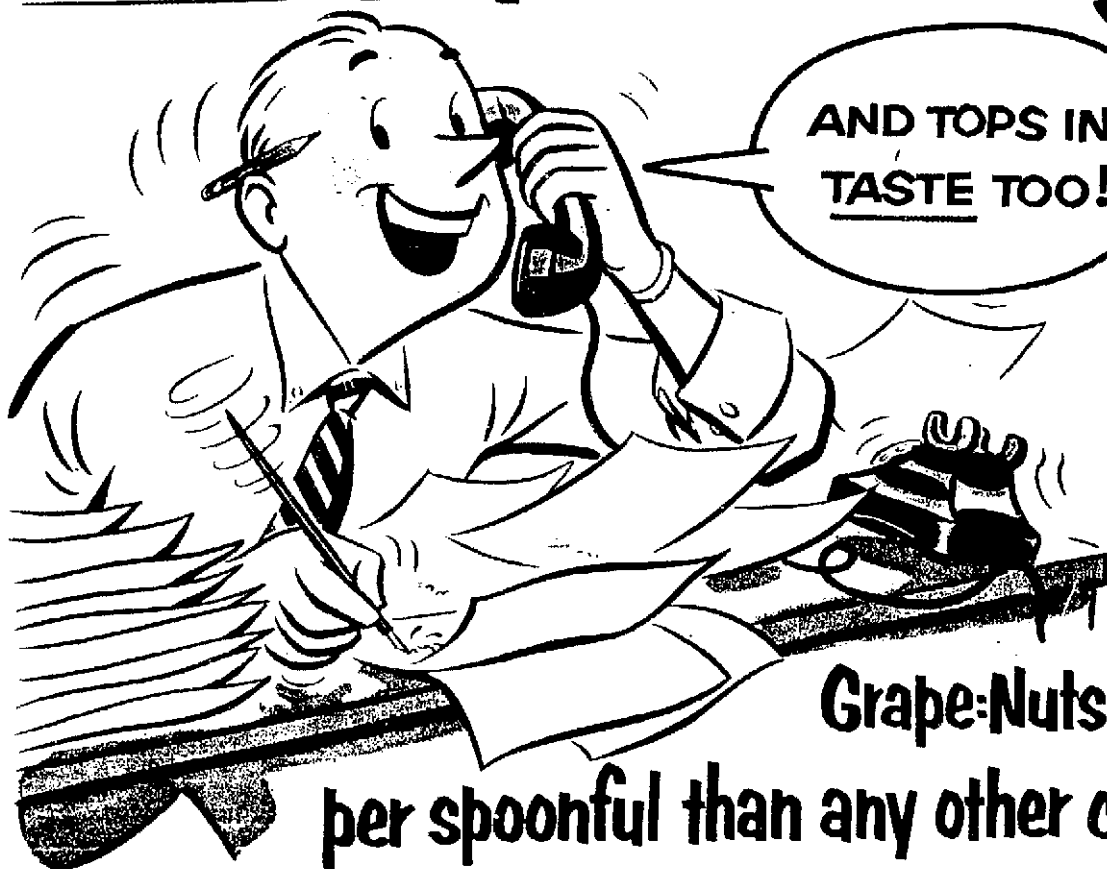

This summer's collection has more swank than a milk bucket filled with diamonds. And designers seem to be outdoing themselves to create a T-shirt for every occasion, from shopping to housework to dancing to just plain lounging.

The three examples shown here (by Smartee) are typical of new T-shirt styles. But whether they come striped or checked, with or without matching shorts, dotted with rhinestones or appliquéd with gingham, they're still T-shirts: comfortable, inexpensive and washable. Which explains why U.S. women buy more than 15 million dozen of them every year.

Jauntily striped blouse with drawstring waist ($2.98) takes to shorts, jeans or slacks, is kind to sunburned arms.

Marriage Marathon

In 8 hours, 16 Annapolis graduates become grooms

ANNAPOLIS, MD.

MOST PEOPLE consider it a red-letter event if they happen to attend two weddings in a single day. Anyone here during the recent "June Week," however, could have watched 16 in one afternoon. Such was the lineup pictured on these pages, start of the annual post-graduation rush to the altar at the U. S. Naval Academy.

The Academy's new graduates, including a number commissioned in the Air Force (in the absence of an Air Force Academy), have one big advantage over most recipients of college diplomas: guaranteed lifetime jobs. As undergraduates, however, they are forbidden to marry. Results this year were typical.

Altogether, there were 59 Naval Chapel weddings (out of the 852 men in the Annapolis Class of '54) in about three days. The ceremonies had to be, and were, handled in efficient assembly-line style. Three chaplains and two organists worked in relays. As one couple took its vows, the next was getting ready. When PARADE visited the Naval Chapel, the "line" was turning out a pair of newlyweds every half-hour.

Yet there was no lack of traditional wedding color. Rice rained down wholesale. (One couple was showered with plastic collar buttons.) Camera-bearing relatives clamored for pictures. Fathers, brothers and uncles gave brides away. Mothers, sisters and aunts cried happy tears.

And, in the chaplain's office, brides- and bridegrooms-to-be tried hard to look relaxed. Some succeeded. But one willowy blonde, waiting at the door for the first strains of the Wedding March, clutched her father's arm. Through the silence came her loud whisper: "Daddy, are you as scared as I am?" ■

A SENSIBLE NEW WAY TO

Control your weight

This simple, new orange method helps you hold down weight to an attractive, healthful level and keep it there.

This is not a reducing plan as you know them. There is no dangerous dieting, no calorie counting, no back-breaking exercises, no expensive drugs.

It is based on this simple truth: Almost every case of overweight is due to overeating. So the secret of sensible weight control is to eat what you need but not more than you need.

That's exactly what this easy, new orange method helps you do. You simply follow this rule: Eat a Sunkist Orange 30 minutes before lunch and dinner.

Then eat moderately, as you should. This becomes amazingly easy because the orange with its healthful "meat" (rich in cellulose) helps curb your appetite, gives you new hunger control.

This new plan is working for others. Why not give it a fair trial, say for three weeks? Ask your doctor about it.

Why so many modern diets call for fresh oranges

When you eat less, your supply of vitamins, minerals and other food essentials is reduced. Fresh oranges help maintain a proper balance of these values because both their juice and meat are rich in vitamins and minerals. And their important protopectins help you get more of the health essentials from the other foods you eat. Whether you are on a weight-control plan or a strict reducing diet, include fresh oranges... fresh Sunkist Oranges, the world's finest.

Is Bob Turley the New Bob Feller?

As Turley throws, Oriole coach Harry Brecheen watches him for flaws.

IN DUGOUT between innings, Turley leans back among teammates with hands clasped over head. A secret of his success is ability to relax.

Baseball's grapevine says so.

But the modest Oriole admits he still has a lot to learn

BALTIMORE.

THE FIRST TIME the transplanted Baltimore Orioles paid a visit to Washington's Griffith Stadium, a strapping youth with a duck-like waddle shuffled to a stop before a bronze plaque at one of the stadium approaches. Soberly young Bob Turley read the words of tribute to baseball's greatest fastball pitcher, Walter Johnson.

"Look at that," he said to a teammate. "He won 414 games, 113 of them shutouts. One out of every four. How can anybody mention me in the same breath with him? He must have been a superman."

Despite such modest disclaimers, however, exuberant Baltimore fans continue to couple this 23-year-old from East St. Louis, Ill.—who's playing his first full season in the majors—with such greats as Johnson, Lefty Grove and Bob Feller. So do other players. Says Feller himself: "He's got it. He'll be the next to strike out 300 in a season. He's fast enough. All he needs is experience and more work on that curve."

Oddly, in this day of huge bonuses for untested kids, Turley represents an investment of just $500. And it wasn't his speed, but his size (he weighed 195 then, goes 207 now) that brought him a tryout with the St. Louis Browns in 1948. He had been a good sandlot pitcher, but he wasn't sensational.

The Browns (forerunners of the Orioles) sent him to their Class D farm at Belleville, Ill. At first the manager refused to let him pitch. Finally the Browns' general manager sent out orders to use Turley. Bob responded with a three-hit shutout.

It was no fluke. As he came up through the minors, young Turley got better and better. At Aberdeen, S. D., he won 23 games. At San Antonio he won 20. He was averaging a strikeout an inning when he entered the Army in 1951.

Bob came back to the Browns late last season, and immediately the benches around the league began to take notice. Although he won two and lost six, he struck out 61 batters in 60 innings and lost several games only through hard luck.

This year, even the most cautious of baseball men have trotted out their best adjectives to describe Turley. "He's the best young pitcher to hit the majors since I've been up," says Cleveland's Al Rosen, the league home-run champion and Most Valuable Player.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel, after watching Turley set down his team on two hits, declared, "He's the fastest in our league, I'll guarantee that. Maybe he's the fastest in baseball. Turley has a great future. He could be a 30-game winner when he reaches his peak."

You don't gauge Turley's greatness by looking at his won-and-lost record, however. With a second-division ball club behind him, he isn't burning up the league. But his strikeout record is holding up. His early games included a pair of two-hitters, a four-hitter and a five-hitter.

And, although the Orioles' attendance has slipped a bit, Turley is a great drawing card. At home, the club has been averaging 18,000 fans a game—but nearly 24,000 when Bob pitches. On the road, the figures have been 8,800 and 14,400. In each case Turley means at least a one-third boost in attendance.

He's the darling of Maryland, as his wife learned first-hand recently. Out shopping, Mrs. Turley was carrying a purse which sported a baseball insignia. It caught the eye of a pretty young salesgirl, who gushed, "Have you seen our Orioles play lately? Isn't that Bob Turley a doll? Golly, would I love to date him!"

Mrs. Turley, straight-faced, told her, "Oh, I know him. I could introduce you."

"Could you? That would be wonderful. But how do you know him?"

"He's my husband," punch-lined Mrs. Turley, putting a stop to that conversation.

Will He Be Traded?

HERE'S ANOTHER proof of merit: both the Yankees and the Boston Red Sox have shown interest in wresting Turley away from Baltimore. Oriole general manager Art Ehlers says in reply, "I'd sell the franchise before I'd sell Turley. I'd be run out of town!"

However that may be, Bob himself retains his normal head-size. "I've got a lot to learn," he declares. He works out daily with his boyhood idol, Oriole pitching coach Harry Brecheen. The old Cardinal pitcher is trying to teach him to put more leverage on his fast ball and to refine his crude, but effective, curve.

One thing Turley has learned by himself—how to relax. He refuses to "take the game home with me." He and his young wife, Dorothy, never talk baseball. Instead, Bob helps with the dishes, tries his hand at cooking, reads Western novels and goes to action movies.

The Turleys live in a two-room apartment in a residential section of Baltimore, and Bob is the idol of all the neighborhood kids. They "discovered" Turley one day when his wife tossed them an American League ball to replace the taped ball they were using.

The next morning, a Sunday, the doorbell rang at 8 a.m. There stood 30 kids clutching autograph books and pencils. Turley, still in bed, signed for each of them. No sooner had he finished than 20 more appeared. And the parade continued until game time, when Mrs. Turley chased them out so Bob could go to the park.

"I'm glad to do it any time," grins the idol of Baltimore. "I'm still young enough to remember chasing ballplayers myself."

Forgotten something?

Bags all packed, tickets all bought, and here you are—ready for that long-awaited vacation. But if you don't have a certain product tucked into a suitcase, at least a part of your vacation might be spoiled.

For what's more likely to spoil a vacation than not being able to go swimming? Yet, if you use external pads for sanitary protection, you may even feel an understandable reluctance to go to the beach. (External pads with their belt and pins are so bulky!) In fact, you may feel self-conscious about shorts, tapered slacks or clinging dresses.

How different—how delightfully different—when you have Tampax with you. Tampax is internal sanitary protection. It never "shows" under a wet or dry bathing suit. And is it comfortable! Actually, you don't even feel the Tampax, once it's in place. (No chafing, not a speck of irritation.)

Tampax is made of highly absorbent surgical cotton in disposable applicators. The Tampax itself is so easy to dispose of that you just don't have any worries. And of course you can wear Tampax in your shower or tub.

One last bit of good news: Tampax actually prevents odor from forming! Choice of 3 absorbency-sizes at any drug or notion counter: Regular, Super, Junior. Month's supply goes into purse. Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Mass.

Suddenly Curry and High-Lo stopped in their tracks. There, on the steep slopes of Devil's Canyon, were the two men Curry had sworn to run out of the territory! A voice broke the silence. "Stay where you are, Curry! Ride one step closer and you'll be feelin' some hot lead!"

She's the Queen of Atlantis and Lemuria

Mrs. Gertrude Norris Meeker has, through a quirk of fate, become the ruler of an island empire. She checks her domain on the globe and in "Historical Treasures of Leif Erikson," rare book which tells of Viking explorations.

This is the "royal" flag of Mrs. Meeker, Laguna Beach really operator who recently inherited tropic empire.

By Douglas Nelson Rhodes

CLIENTS of a certain small real estate firm in Laguna Beach would be astonished to learn that the petite, 57-year-old woman realtor who takes such personal interest in solving their housing problems is — through a trick of fate — the new queen of a five-million-acre empire encompassing 50 tropical islands in three oceans and the ruler of 25,000 subjects.

None could be more amazed, though, than Mrs. Gertrude Norris Meeker herself when in August, 1953, she was notified officially by the island group's government that a virtual stranger had bequeathed her all rights, titles and properties of a constitutional monarch in a scattered island empire extending — in a hop-skip-jump fashion — from a point 200 miles south of Florida, along the Central American coast to 300 miles southeast of the Panama Canal. Also included in the realms is an "annex" of some dozen small isles in the Pacific west of Panama.

The widely separated collection of islands once was known as the Danish Virgin Islands West but now is recognized internationally as the "Atlantic and Pacific Empire of Atlantis and Lemuria," so named after the legendary "lost continents" of Atlantis and Lemuria. Some atolls in both oceans are purportedly the last remnants of these fabled lands.

WHETHER the lost continents of Atlantis and Lemuria ever really existed is a hotly debated question but actual existence of Mrs. Meeker's newly acquired kingdom is not in doubt. It is composed of three large and four small Atlantic and Caribbean islands, five small Pacific isles with satellite atolls, and 43 other land masses ranging in size from a few acres of tropical growth to great oval-shaped rims of land encircling lagoons 60 miles and more in circumference. The three largest islands are Flamingo (named for the millions of flamingo birds that make their home there), Odino and Thoro. Ninety per cent of the population in the realm live on this island trio.

The true-life fairy tale, in which Mrs. Meeker finds herself playing the starring role, began in 1945 when she befriended one Don Juan Hua Eiderscol, a venerable, courtly gentleman of Spanish-Danish descent, who was then foreign minister of the little empire. Mrs. Meeker, widow of a prominent western mining promoter, was at the time active in mining property development.

Eiderscol asked Mrs. Meeker's

help in disposing of some American mining leases so that he might weather a financial drouth brought about by the war which prevented him from receiving funds from foreign investments. With her assistance and advice this was accomplished and Don Juan was profuse in his expressions of gratitude. He promised Mrs. Meeker that if he ever became governor general — a title roughly equivalent to king in the island government — he'd show his appreciation in a substantial way.

THE GRAY-HAIRED businesswoman forgot the incident until 1948, when she learned that Don Juan had succeeded to the ruling title at the death of the reigning government head. Then in August, 1953, she was informed officially that old Don Juan Hua Eiderscol, governor general of the Atlantic and Pacific Empire of Atlantis and Lemuria, had died. In his will, the communication stated, he had directed that Gertrude Norris Meeker be named his successor.

"At first I thought it was a joke," the California businesswoman declared. "But, after a big stack of legal documents, commissions and a passport arrived and were carefully checked, I was too thunderstruck to realize fully my unexpected good fortune."

Mrs. Meeker has inherited far more than a mere empty title. The territory — though widely separated by thousands of square miles of ocean — includes at least a dozen inhabited islands with great development possibilities. Natural resources are rich in fine hardwoods, fish, gold, sil-

Mrs. Meeker's empire encompasses five million acres. Most of 25,000 natives live on Flamingo, Odino, Thoro.

One-mule power is still standard transportation in the widely-scattered island group in Mrs. Meeker's holding. Islands have resort possibilities.

Without human aid, this machine developed at Star-Kist plant unscrambles empty tuna cans, turning them all right-side-up on conveyor belt.

Three-decker stainless steel belt carries the cooked fish to white-garbed women workers, who remove the finest white meat for canning.

A salting machine (right) tosses a dab of salt into each can, while the spigots add salad oil.

A million cans a day are counted automatically as they are speeded through automatic conveyor.

By James Phelan

FORTY YEARS AGO a Yugoslav immigrant named Martin Bogdanovich, fishing for tuna off Long Beach, hooked onto a simple idea that grew into a multi-million-dollar business, helped turn Long Beach-San Pedro-Wilmington into the greatest fishing port in the world, and changed the eating habits of Americans.

The idea had the classic simplicity that makes other people knock themselves on the head and lament, "Why didn't I think of that?"

Bogdanovich, one happy morning, stored some ice on his little fishing boat when he put out from shore.

At that time, tuna was almost unknown to American consumers. Tunafishing employed only a handful of fishermen at a standard of living several cuts below that of a marginal Arkansas share-cropper. The few tuna that were caught were consumed by Californians who lived near the shore. There were no tuna canneries, and the great American staple in canned fish was salmon.

The trouble with tuna-fishing was two-fold: The fish were elusive and unpredictable, and like any other fish, they spoiled easily. Fishermen might go out and hook only three or four fish all day, but when night approached they had to make the long trip back to shore with their meager, unprofitable catch.

Martin Bogdanovich and his ice changed all that. When other boats turned shoreward with only a few tuna, he fished on until he had a capacity load, his catch safely tucked away on ice.

BOGDANOVICH was a man at whose door opportunity needed to knock only once. He soon was running a market on shore, and other boats—all equipped with ice—were fishing for him. From the market he moved into the cannery business.

The simple idea of carrying ice on a tuna boat was the first step in an industrial revolution that wound up putting tuna on virtually every table in the United States, and pushed canned salmon into a minor role in the American diet.

Martin Bogdanovich's crude refrigeration for the first time put tuna ashore in mass quantities so they could be canned. Today 64 per cent of all tuna consumed in this country is canned by two companies with headquarters on Terminal Island — the Star-Kist Co., founded by fisherman Bogdanovich, and the Van Camp Co., which produces the Chicken of the Sea brand.

The fish-canning industry today gives employment to 15,000 persons in the harbor area and produces between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000 a year in "new money" in the Southland. It ranks fourth in importance among California industries, and on good years moves up into third.

But before it grew, it had to solve an intriguing industrial problem—How do you put a tuna that weighs as much as 150 pounds into a 7-ounce can? It answered that problem by developing an assembly-line technique that rivals, on a smaller scale, the mass-production methods by which Detroit turns out automobiles.

THE $2,500,000 Star-Kist Plant No. 4 on Terminal Island, largest tuna cannery in the world, comprises a series of conveyor belts, mechanical gadgets and automatic machines that can turn out a million cans of tuna in an eight-hour shift. It operates with an efficiency that would have brought a gleam to the eyes of Henry Ford, the man who gave mass production to the industrial world.

From the near-by docks where the tuna clippers and purse seiners unload, the tuna are whisked by flumes—man-made brooks—to the cannery. En route they are weighed—again automatically—in 1000-pound batches.

In the cannery they are tumbled onto a conveyor belt where the cleaning process has been reduced to a simple piece-work basis. One group of men slit the fishes, another eviscerate them.

From the cleaning line, the tuna are pushed in huge trays to the cookers, where they are steamed from one to seven hours, depending on the size of the fish, at 218 degrees.

FROM THE COOKERS, to a cooling room, then into the giant cannery room, longer than a football field, with seven Swedish stainless-steel conveyor belts. With a touch that Ford would admire, the floor of the plant slopes gently from the butcher line to the steel belts, so the workers can push the big trays with a minimum of effort.

Each of the 250-foot conveyor belts has three levels. The middle one carries the cooked fish slowly down the line of 100 white-garbed women who work at each line.

The women skillfully remove the light-meat fillets for canning, and discard the heads, tails, skin and dark meat. The top conveyor belt carries the fillets on to the canning machines, the bottom belt carries the dark meat back to the head of the line, where it drops into a chute and is processed for pet food, and chicken feed.

The actual canning operation is an automatic marvel of complexity. The tuna meat is fed into a machine that lucks exactly seven ounces into an open-topped can. The lines of cans speed in single file past another machine that tosses an identical amount of salt into each can. They are whisked under another device that squirts salad oil into the cans. Then they dive into a clanking machine that seals them, and spits them out the other side like a machine gun, at the rate of 125 cans per minute.

From the canning machine

They Copy the Masters

On a broad stage in the natural amphitheater of Irvine Bowl, the seaside art colony of Laguna Beach this year will copy the masterpieces of the great painters to present for the 19th time the world-famed Pageant of the Masters in connection with the annual Festival of Arts, from July 17 through Aug. 15. Seven hundred volunteers of the community reproduce more than 60 famous paintings with living models, each authentically costumed and skillfully made up by Max Factor of Hollywood. All of the models are Lagunans who spend uncounted hours preparing to pose in a background identical to that of the original painting, which is enclosed in a great frame of gold. Here are some of the living pictures and the masterpieces from which they are reproduced at the Laguna Beach Pageant.

Meet Japan's Beautiful 'Mouse'

TOKYO.
IF YOU THINK Washington, D. C., got something in 1912 when the Japanese gave that city some cherry trees, then wait until you have a look at the gift which Long Beach is going to receive in mid-July! This latest present from the Land of the Rising Sun is not a tree, but she has prettier limbs than anything Joyce Kilmer ever wrote about.

To be more specific, Long Beach's gift is a young lady named Mieke Kondo, Miss Japan of 1954, who will arrive in Long Beach July 15 to compete in the Miss Universe contest.

We were lucky enough to witness a preview of Miss Japan when the newspaper, Sangyo Keizai Shimbun, sponsors of the contest in this country, held a "Welcome to Tokyo" party at the Tokyo Keikan Hotel. For a guy whose interviewing previously has been confined to such subjects as "Jumbo Joe" Stydahr, Tank Younger, Porky Oliver and Baron Leone, this parley was indeed a treat.

After the Japanese and foreign correspondents had been assembled in a small room, Miss Kondo made her entrance with her mother. Formal introductions followed with at least 50 bows on the part of Miss Kondo and the Japanese writers. When the questioning began, we realized that it takes two to interview as well as to tango.

OUR LANGUAGE barrier was hurdled, however, when Susie Muto, secretary to an official of the Sangyo Keizai, came up with, "Do you need an interpreter, Mr. Teele?" From that point on things were fine, or as the Japanese say, "Daijobu."

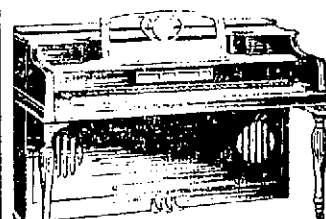

Susie introduced me again to Miss Kondo, sat down between us, and made English into Japanese and vice versa for approximately 40 minutes without missing a word.

First of all, Susie described, as only another woman could, Miss Kondo's apparel and appearance. "She is wearing a white kimono with maroon, blue and green designs," Susie began. "Her obi (belt or sash) is white and canary yellow with matching geta (sandals). Her earrings are miniature five-story pagodas. The only make-up she is wearing is her lipstick, but

Miss Mieke, or Mieke-san to us old Japan hands, is tall for a Japanese girl. She towers 5 feet and 5 inches above those canary yellow geta. Her trim figure, a mystery when camouflaged by the colorful kimono,

BEAUTIES AT THE BEACH are in seasonal focus these days, for eyes and cameras.

Camera fans can improve their beach pictures with their present cameras and available models by paying more attention to the little tricks of posing, expression and lighting that have proved successful to others. As a start, save clippings of pictures that interest you and analyze them. Study the lighting, posing and action and see if you can figure out the exposure and other shooting angles.

A principal fault with most attempts at glamour photography by casual snapshooters is body distortion. Most of us are aware that when we shoot a person whose feet extend towards the camera, they will loom up in the picture way out of proportion to the rest of the body. This is true also of knees, arms and elbows and becomes increasingly evident the closer the camera is to the subject.

Distortion can be avoided by careful selection of camera angle and not shooting too close.

Little Gibbon Is a Popular Guy

By Eleanor A. Price

ALTHOUGH he is quite scarce and therefore fairly expensive, the little Gibbon ape is enjoying a popularity in the western world unequalled by any other anthropoid.

There are several reasons for his desirableness, chief among them being his even disposition, his high intelligence, and his affectionate disposition. He will throw his arms around his owner and love him like a child. In Siam, his name even means "half-human."

The Gibbon ape is found in all parts of the East Indies where he inhabits the forests. In his native lands, he lives almost entirely in the trees and can travel with great rapidity through the tangled growth. At night he sleeps curled up in a ball in the branches of a tree or a crudely erected platform. In the home he likes a comfortable platform made especially for him in his cage.

The Gibbon ape has a strong family life. The parents and children live together for years, playing and greatly enjoying one another's company.

This little fellow's natural food consists of fruits and nuts and occasionally a small bird. In captivity, he soon acquires a taste for cooked foods, although he should not be fed fatty food. He likes cereal either dry or softened with milk. Flowers, especially roses, are special treats for dessert.

WHEN THIRSTY, the Gibbon will drink from a hose or make a cup of his hands and drink from that.

Bath time is a great event. He should be dried thoroughly with a soft towel and then brushed. The more brushing the more beautiful his coat.

In his native haunts, the Gibbon is noisy and chatters incessantly, especially in the morning when he greets daylight with long drawn-out "wa-hoos." In the home, he is more subdued and is easily tamed. He is mischievous, however, and must be caged or chained when not watched. He is extremely imitative and therefore a lot of fun as a pet.

Gibbon apes belong to the group which includes gorillas, chimpanzees and orangutans.

The golden Gibbon pictured on this page is three years old and is the pet of Mrs. C. M. Gibboney, 3195 Santa Fe Ave.

ANYONE wishing to enter his dog in the Orange Empire Dog Club Unbench Show and Obedience Trial to be held in John Galvin Park, Ontario, Sunday, July 18, must have his entry received in the office of the superintendent not later than midnight, Monday, July 5. The superintendent is Jack Bradshaw, P. O. Box 15416, Los Angeles 15. (Phone PRospect 7432.) Dogs need be present only one hour prior to the judging. Show and obedience trial hours are 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.

THE 26TH ANNUAL all-breed bench dog show and obedience trial of the Santa Barbara Kennel Club will be held from 9 a. m. to 8:30 p. m. Sunday, Aug. 1, at Hope Ranch, Santa Barbara. The superintendent is Jack Bradshaw.

FLIES can be great pests around the ears of dogs. The hair in or on the dog's ears should not be clipped or cut, for it affords some protection against flies. There are several preparations to help ward off flies. A mixture of oil of sassafras and petroleum jelly (vaseline) is one of the best and can be applied every other day.

OUT OF FAIRNESS to your pets, your family, and the neighbors, keep the dog's yard clean so flies cannot breed. It is very discouraging to live alongside a dog yard that is bad odored and crawling with flies.

Pan American World Airways Photos

Sternwheeler steamboats still ply regular Yukon River routes, a feature of interest to tourists. Alaska is a land of many interests for visitors.

ALASKA OFFERS SOMETHING for every kind of visitor—from just plain sightseeing of glaciers and fjords to big-game hunting, sports fishing and mountain climbing.

Alaska is a huge territory. If placed squarely atop the United States the Aleutians would touch the coast of California, southeastern Alaska would reach Georgia. North to south, Alaska would stretch from Texas to the Canadian border. And the entire population of the territory is less than 200,000.

Alaska is busy expanding and improving its system of surfaced highways available to tourists, according to a survey by Pan American World Airways, thus making it vastly easier to get around to the sights and the hunting and fishing grounds.

Many travelers report that the only thing they can find out about Alaska that is consistent is the warmth of welcome for guests. The tradition of the leather latchstring hanging on the outside of the cabin door continues strong today in the open-hearted hospitality of people who love their wide, spacious country and are eager to show it off to visitors.

The scenery is inconsistent. The coastal ranges, with their high, steep cliffs are reminiscent of Scotland or Scandinavia; the land stretching northward to the rim of the frozen Arctic Ocean bears a strong reminder of the plains of Illinois or Indiana. The old and the new — log cabins that might have been built by the earliest settlers, and in some cases were built by them, are within hailing distance of modern office and apartment buildings.

Alaska boasts the highest point on the North American continent — 20,300-foot Mount McKinley — which stands head and shoulders above scores of other snow-capped mountains.

In the inland regions, the climate may be compared to the northern United States and the prairie provinces of Canada. Summer temperatures range from 50 to 80 degrees. In winter it may go down as far as 40 below.

Friendly Alaska Offers Much to Vacationist

SEVERAL DISCOVERY TOURS of Alaska have been scheduled for this year by the Arctic Alaska Tours, and details of these are available from any authorized travel agent or from a Pan American World Airways office. Costs range from $396 for an 11-day trip up to $633.50, including all transportation, hotel or lodge accommodations, and meals en route. For those who wish to travel independently, about $20 a day should be set aside for meals and lodging each day.

Alaska offers exceptional opportunities to the sportsman. Hunting trophies may be taken out of Alaska free, and the license fee for visitors from the United States is $30 for big game, such as moose, elk, bear and mountain sheep, and $10 for game birds. All hunters, however, must have a competent, licensed guide, and their fees range upward from $25 a day.

Fishing is open all year, and with no limits on the catch. Fishing licenses cost $2.50. Fish are plentiful and large. Lake trout as large as 60 pounds have been taken, and 35 pounders are not uncommon. Salt water fishermen may go after the tough, hard-hitting King Salmon with assurances of getting 40 and 50-pounders.

Round-trip fare from Seattle to Juneau is $118.80, to Fairbanks, $162, and to Nome, Alaska's westernmost city, $234.

Annual Ski Tour to Lofty Andes

NO LONGER will skiers have to give up their skiing pleasures simply because the snow has melted and summer is here. At least, that's the opinion of Panagra (Pan American-Grace Airways), which announces a second annual ski tour to the lofty Andes of Chile, where winter weather is just setting in.

The 21-day, all-expense tour, prepared by the Haley Corporation Travel Service to take advantage of the reversal of seasons below the equator, will convene in Panama for Panagra's DC-6B "El Pacifico" flight to Santiago, capital of Chile, at the end of July. Vivacious Jacques Bolling, the tour conductor and an avid skier, will lead the group to the world famous resorts of Portillo, the fashionable winter playground known as the Sun Valley of South America; Lahna to the south of Chile, where several volcanoes provide vertical drops of 5000 feet, and Farellones and LaParva, situated high in the Colorado Mountain range among a cluster of Alpine-like "refugios" or lodges.

The tour is described as "an adventure in skiing," with all the comforts of a well organized itinerary, which provides for twin-bedded rooms in every place visited, an unlimited use of ski lifts and complete arrangements for surface transportation. There will be ample opportunity for ski touring, ski jumping and competing in special racing events such as the "Copa Emile Allais," named after Portillo's French ski instructor, a former Olympic champion.

Sightseeing will high light the en route itinerary at historic Panama City, often referred to as the "crossroads of the world," and skiers will be given leisure time for shopping and entertainment both here and at charming Santiago.

Priced at $635 from Panama City, the tour allows members of the party to arrange their own transportation to that city and gives them a choice of return by way of glamorous Buenos Aires, Montevideo and Rio de Janeiro at a small additional cost.

Germany Builds Her First Motel

Germany's first modern motel is built with all rooms facing inner court, away from the noise.

THE FIRST MODERN MOTEL in Germany—and perhaps in Europe — has been opened at Tuebingen, famous old university town near Stuttgart, according to the German Tourist Information Office. Inspired by the success of American motels, this first German motel is expected to be followed by others. Called "Touring Motel," the modern structure is built in atrium style, with all rooms facing an inner court away from the noise of the highway, and each room above its garage. In construction it is reminiscent of American motels. Facilities include showers and telephones with each room, modern furnishings, a restaurant with terrace, and a bierstube (beer room). Cuisine is of the finest, and an excellent wine cellar is attached to the establishment.

Motorists may be attracted to the motel because of its convenient location on the first-class road near Stuttgart and on the way to Lake Constance. However, the visitor interested in lovely old medieval towns will do well to pay a visit to Tuebingen for its own sake. Idyllically located in the winding Neckar Valley, Tuebingen rivals Heidelberg for picturesque old buildings and streets and romantic vistas of the river.

The Touring Motel Tuebingen is equipped not only with all comforts for the traveler, but for the welfare of his automobile as well, located as it is beside a completely equipped gasoline service station.

Meet Miss Japan, Beautiful 'Mouse'

(Continued From Page 6.) has its 95 pounds distributed fairly. When she walks under the spotlight at Long Beach's Municipal Auditorium next week, the man with the tape measure will find that a yard-long tape will have only two inches to spare after the first vital statistic is checked.

BORN 18 YEARS AGO, in the Year of the Mouse (one of the 12 recurring phases of the Japanese zodiac), Miko had no thought of entering a beauty contest until three weeks ago. In her silk-soft South Japan accent, she explained that "Mouse People" are supposed to be quiet, shy and gentle like their tiny annual patrons.

The project of competing for the Miss Japan title came into being after Miko's teacher read the newspaper announcements and persuaded her to enter. She represented Nagoya, her hometown and Japan's fourth largest city, in the finals at Kyoto, where she won the crown and the hearts of the judges and a huge audience.

Miko is a typical home girl. She lives in a five-room house with her grandfather, mother and a younger brother and sister. "My family," she purred, "is the most important part of my life."

Like many young Japanese girls, Miko has been influenced by both Japanese customs and those of the western world.

SHE PREFERS western style clothing to the Japanese kimono because "it is so much easier to wear," but adds that she also loves to wear the kimono because of its beauty and grace. Her favorite foods are bananas, oranges and "osushi," a Japanese delicacy of raw fish and rice.

When we asked Miko what she planned to do during the talent part of the Miss Universe contest, she replied that she was going to sing. She added that she likes both jazz and the classics and when we asked her for the name of her favorite singer,

she came back promptly with "Bing Crosby."

When we mentioned the movies, Miko was most emphatic. "Gregory Peck and Ann Blythe are my favorite stars and the movie I liked most was 'Roman Holiday.'" As for a career of her own in Hollywood, Miss Japan wasn't quite so decisive, stating that she will let that idea wait until the contest is over.

But despite all of the influence of the west, Miko remains typically Japanese in many ways. For instance, her favorite way to spend an evening, she told us, is to "meditate" or to listen to quiet music. How many glamour girls in the United States could make such a statement?

MIEKO plans to marry before she is 23 years old, but, as Susie explained, she is "much too young to make such a decision yet." Miss Japan's specifications for a husband are simple and direct. "He must be tall and be able to support me, but he need not be handsome," she said.

What does Miss Japan want most to see in the United States? "I would like to visit big American stores and look at the clothes," she said. "I hope to get some ideas which I can bring back to my school in Nagoya."

Last July, we watched the Miss Universe contest on our TV set in Long Beach to the exclusion of most other shows. If all of the 1954 contestants are as beautiful and charming as Miss Japan, we predict that Milton Berle and Ed Sullivan are about to suffer great setbacks in their Hooper ratings.

One of dessert-time's special treats is pie—and lemon chiffon is a foremost variation of the popular sweet.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

CHIFFON, says Webster, is "any ornamental addition—something fluffy."
And when could there be a better time than summer in which to serve a big piece of filmy, frothy, tasty chiffon pie? There's one man in town who'll agree — Al Davis, 4300 Myrtle Ave., for he thinks there's nothing quite like those pies which Mrs. Davis bakes, especially the one she calls Lemon Chiffon. Her recipe is featured today.

You may be sure that particular pie isn't her only specialty. Her pie repertoire runs the gamut of the following:

Peach Strawberry Angel Pie

- Meringue Shell:
4 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup granulated sugar
Filling:
½ cup whipping cream
7 canned cling peach halves
1 cup sliced sweetened strawberries

Meringue Shell: Beat egg whites with salt and cream of tartar until stiff. Gradually beat in sugar. When very stiff, pile into well-greased 9-inch pie pan, making depression in center. Bake in very slow oven (275 F.) 1 hour. Cool thoroughly. Chill overnight in refrigerator.

Filling: Whip cream until stiff and spread in bottom of meringue shell. Arrange well drained peach halves on top of cream, and top with strawberries. Serves 6.

COOKING

Filmy, Frothy, Tasty Chiffon Pie!

Black Bottom Pie

- One 9-inch baked pie shell.
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup sugar
4 egg yolks
2 cups milk, scalded
1 package Semi-sweet Chocolate Morsels
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 tablespoon gelatin, plain
¼ cup water
4 egg whites
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
Combine cornstarch and sugar. Beat egg yolks and slowly add scalded milk. Add sugar mixture and cook in aluminum double boiler until custard coats spoon. Remove 1 cup custard and add to it ½ package of chocolate morsels. Beat well. Cool, add 1 teaspoon vanilla extract and pour into pie shell. Add gelatin softened in water to remaining custard and cool but do not allow to stiffen. Beat egg whites until foamy, add cream of tartar and beat until almost stiff. Slowly add sugar and continue beating until stiff. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla, and blend into custard. Cover chocolate layer of custard with vanilla custard and chill until set. Sprinkle with other half of chocolate morsels, which have been finely chopped, and serve.

Party Ice Cream Pie

- 1 teaspoon butter
½ cup marshmallow creme
2 cups oven-popped rice cereal
Strawberry ice cream
Melt butter in sauce pan. Add marshmallow creme and stir until well blended. Remove from heat. Add rice cereal and stir until coated with syrup. Press into pie pan to form shell. Chill. When ready to serve, fill with ice cream and top with strawberry halves, if desired.
Yield: One 9-inch pie.

Meringue Pie

- 1½ cups granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
4 egg whites
3 tablespoons toasted, chopped almonds
4 egg yolks
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon

Kitchen Tip:

Mrs. Davis' Kitchen Tip: Never sift bran or corn meal or whole wheat flour when baking muffins.

Favorite with the Al Davis family is lemon chiffon pie. Mrs. Davis, above, shares her recipe with readers today.

Mrs. Davis' Lemon Chiffon Pie:

- |                               |                              |
|-------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 1 tablespoon gelatine (level) | ½ cup lemon juice            |
| ¼ cup cold water              | ½ teaspoon salt              |
| 4 eggs                        | 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind |
| 1 cup sugar                   |                              |

Soak gelatine in cold water 5 minutes. Separate white and yolks of eggs. Add ½ cup sugar and ½ cup lemon juice to beaten yolks. Cook over boiling water until thick. Add gelatine to hot custard, add grated lemon rind and cool. Beat egg whites until stiff and dry. Add remaining ½ cup sugar to whites carefully. Fold egg whites into cooled custard. Fill pie shell and place in refrigerator. Also delicious with graham cracker crust.

rind
¼ teaspoon salt
1 pint heavy cream
Preheat oven to 275 F. Measure 1 cup of sugar from above amount with the cream of tartar. Beat egg whites until they hold stiff peaks, then slowly add the sugar, beating thoroughly. Spread the meringue in bottom and on sides of a pie pan, which has been well greased. Sprinkle rim with chopped almonds. Bake 1 hour at 275 F. Cool.

To make filling: Beat egg yolks slightly in a double boiler, then stir in ½ cup of sugar, lemon juice and salt. Cook until thick, stirring constantly (8 to 10 minutes). Cool. Whip 1 cup of cream and fold it into the custard. Fill meringue shell. Set pie in refrigerator to chill at least 24 hours. Just before serving, whip second cup of cream and garnish the top.

Cheese Pie

- 1 cup cottage cheese, packed
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¾ cup cream or top milk
2 eggs
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Dash of salt
Cinnamon

Put the cheese through a food press. Add melted butter. Dissolve the cornstarch in the cream. Beat eggs and add sugar. Combine the mixtures and add rind and juice of lemon, salt and cinnamon. Pour into the graham cracker pie crust. Sprinkle with graham cracker crumbs. Bake 35-40 minutes at 350 F.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Happy Home on a Tom Thumb Lot

By Eileen Ball

RESIDENTS of Belmont Shore are a particularly devoted clan. Rarely does one happen across a shore-dweller who will admit that any other part of the city could compare with this beachside locale.

It seems the sentiment prevails in spite of and not because of the abbreviated size of the lots. Consistently small, Belmont Shore lots have been bought and built upon by those who feel that a little site in this spot is worth twice the space further removed from bay and beach.

All of which, however, poses many problems for the architects to whom they go for inspiration. Take the case of the Ernest H. Lockwoods, for example.

The Lockwoods bought a wedge-shaped plot at 21 Ximeno Ave. and then wondered what manner of house could be built upon it. The frontage of the lot is a scant 39 feet. The lot goes back about 60 feet, shrinking across the back to a mere 28 feet — it wasn't a very spacious building site.

But the Lockwoods had the near-beach location they wanted. Devotees of sun and shore, they looked forward to their residence in the resort-like vicinity.

On the debit side, however, was the lot's Lilliputian size and the close proximity of the residence next door.

Thomas J. Russel, A.I.A., was commissioned to plan a house that would take advantage of the location's merits and, at the same time, rise above its distractions. Not an easy task, that!

RUSSELL FIRST had to find out just what was most important in a house as far as the

The Ernest Lockwoods' dining room, situated at front of the house, offsets the lack of view with a mural.

Lockwoods were concerned. His contention is that while a small house cannot include all things, it can — if planned wisely — include everything the owners really want.

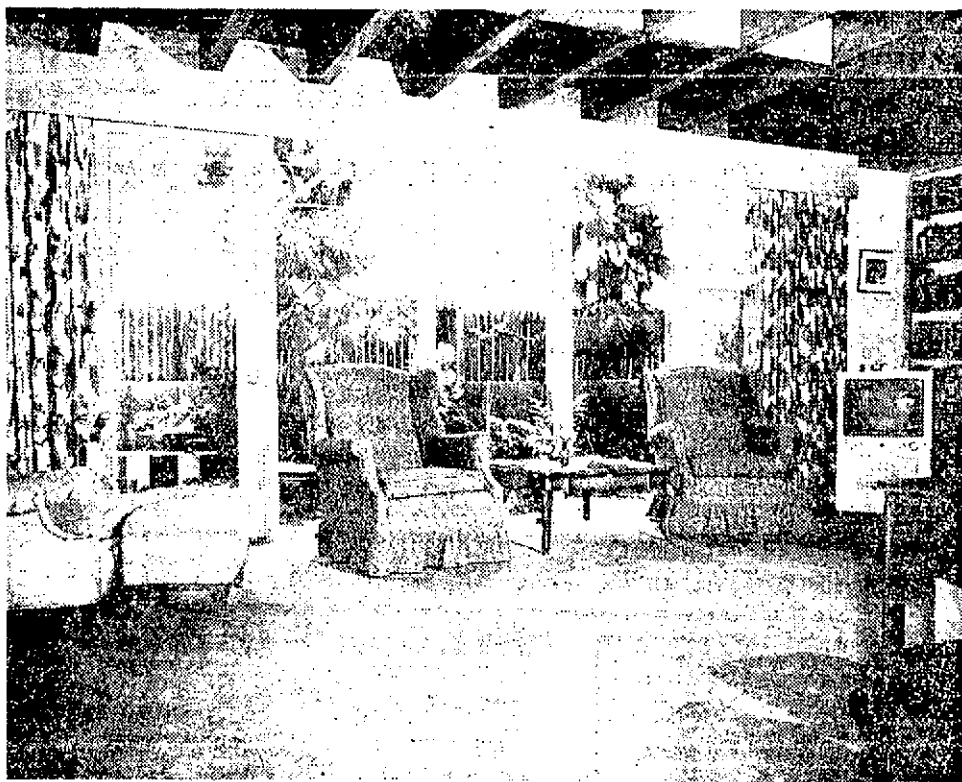

Also, Russell explained the fact that the house — any house — should take a cue from the weather and be planned accordingly. The Lockwood house is orientated toward the south with its sunshine, ocean breeze and view. The close proximity of the neighboring house to the north was minimized by the omission of all but absolutely necessary windows. The feeling of the Lockwoods' 1500-square-foot house is one of privacy, spaciousness and delightful informality. And that is a triple salute to good planning!

The entry opens from the side of the house, accessible from the street by a shaded walkway along the north side of the building. This gives the front door a feeling of pleasant removal from the sidewalk close to which the house was built.

Inside, the entry proves to be a little landing elevated two steps from the living room. The entry and its low, diagonal steps have been carpeted in a deep-looped sand-colored rug. The same carpeting leads up the stairway to the second story.

The lower-level living room is a thoroughly cool and inviting

FURNITURE

1334 ALAMITOS

Beams, open fireplace contrive to give the living room of the E. H. Lockwood home a feeling of security and sheltered warmth. House is on a small lot.

spot. Expansive floor-to-ceiling windows overlook the shaded courtyard defined with rustic high grapestake fencing. Taking a color clue from the pine trees and verdant shade plants massed in the little garden, Mrs. Lockwood chose for the living room a velvety deep green carpet. The openness of the windows in combination with the lawn-colored carpet create the delightful sensation of drawing the outdoors right into the house!

RECOGNIZING that many materials can serve in a double capacity for beauty as well as for convenience, Russell specified that the living room walls, the entry and the staircase wall be paneled in combed plywood. Lightly stained, the material is easily maintained, comparatively inexpensive and offers textural interest.

Adding a further note of rustic informality is a rugged fireplace of fieldstone.

Adjoining the living room and separated only by a suggestion of an arch is the dining room. A window of obscure glass solved the problem of lighting the street-side room without loss of privacy. This viewless window has been given interest with the use of vertical and horizontal studding, which has had the effect of scoring off the glass into a series of window boxes for the display of art objects.

It is interesting to see the manner in which the Lockwoods have compensated for the loss of view. Lockwood, an amateur artist, undertook to paint a mural on one wall depicting a quaint waterfront scene. The perspective is so convincing that the apparent size of the dining room is greatly enhanced.

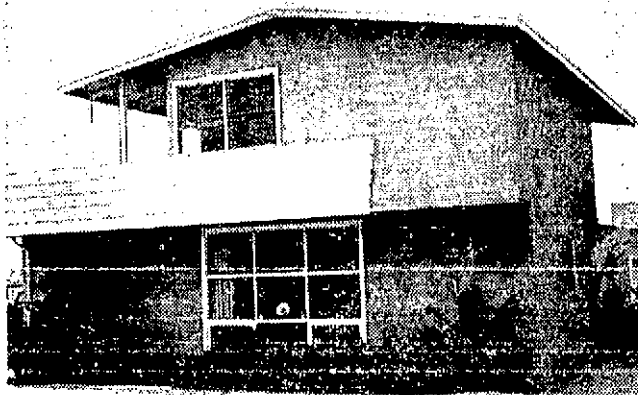

Next to the dining room is the spacious gray and yellow kitchen, which throws its double doors open onto the courtyard, thereby merging the two areas. A cherry yellow dinette set stands just inside the glass doors, and in a second, the whole thing can be rolled out into the sheltered garden for Sunday breakfasts or party lunches.

THE MASTER BEDROOM upstairs was planned with enough space for the inclusion of an intimate reading and study area. Set in a niche apart from the bedroom proper, the sitting room is given further distinction with its sloping ceiling. Immediately beyond this is the high-walled sun deck. This arrangement answers the need for occasional privacy. Russell worked toward a design that would enable the family to "get together" without sacrificing features of necessary seclusion.

Because Mrs. Lockwood indicated a desire to spend much time in this room, Russell provided that the baby's room also converge onto the sun deck. In this manner, the Lockwoods' small daughter can play outdoors without danger under the watchful eye of her mother.

The little girl's room is carried out in pink and powder blue. Her older brother's room abounds in a sturdier cowboy motif. All three sleeping rooms have windows that open wide to the ocean for breeze and view.

Why Taffy Learned to Tease

By Jay King

TAFFY O'NEILL performs a type of ecstacy which qualifies her as a leading strip tease artiste at the Lake nightclub.

As Taffy makes her nightly rounds under the blue spotlight on the small stage, the question which occurs to some, but not many of the patrons is:

"How does a stripper learn the odd contortions of her trade?"

And another question: "Why?"

The strip-tease, of course, is as old as Salome.

The unveiled dancer of the Orient learns her art from the sorority of the harem.

a career for Taffy.

Her 128 pounds on a tall frame are proportioned 38-24-37.

These generous proportions have been affected little by 23-year-old Taffy's acrobatic career.

"I was big for my age at 12 and thoughtlessly created a sensation one day at Banning High in Wilmington. All I did was wear a sweater."

Does a stripper's career conflict with marriage?

"No," says Taffy, emphatically.

"If more wives would learn a little dance for their husbands, there would be fewer married men in my audience."

Taffy O'Neill relies on her eyes while dancing.

But in the West there is no academy of bumps-and-grinds. So where, how and why did the tall, blonde and blue-eyed Miss O'Neill learn her profession?

"In Long Beach I used to go out to the Bomb Shelter quite a bit," she explains. "And when I heard the combo beating out the rhythm I just wanted to get up and dance."

It was almost that simple. Taffy had another reason. Money. "My son, David" (the only child of Taffy's marriage) "has had polio. The National Foundation did a lot, but it couldn't do it all. So I needed the money."

Taffy watched the bumpers at the Bomb Shelter. "Then I got an agent. He taught me enough to start. I learned the rest by experience."

SHE DIDN'T HAVE MUCH of a repertoire at first. "I was awkward and stiff from training as a fashion model."

Taffy relied — and still relies — on her eyes.

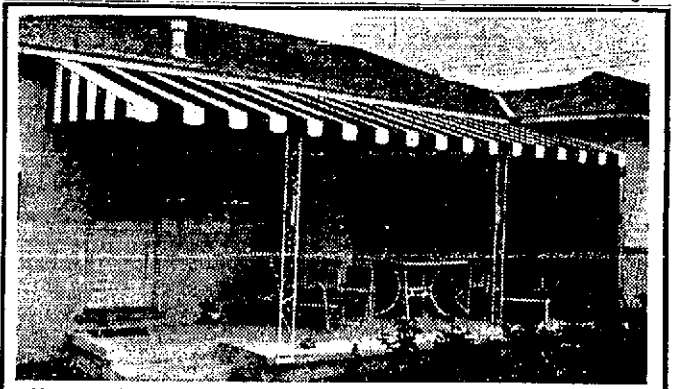

"I depend on my eyes to hold attention. I play to some one person on each side of the stage."

It is not the sea blue eyes alone which opened the door to

has issued a star-studded album to honor its parent.

Memorable numbers such as Gene Kelly's "Singing in the Rain," William Warfield's "Oh Man River," and duets such as "Easter Parade" by Fred Astaire and Judy Garland and "No Business Like Show Business" by Betty Hutton and Howard Keel make this a prized lp.

Another fine lp issued by M-G-M shows off the splendor of "Gypsy Music." Each of the 12 numbers is stirring but the "Cumbalo Hora" is a thing of exceptional beauty. The cumbalo, indeed, is a neglected instrument, much more exotic than the zither.

There is a considerable amount of frenzy, too, in the eight Dixieland Jazz numbers presented by Good Time Jazz Records as "Firehouse Five Goes South," Ward Kimball's trombone plays the clown throughout the Session, giving excellent support to the other sidemen on such classics as "Alabama Jubilee" and "At a Georgia Camp Meeting."

IF YOU BELIEVE everything you hear, Tony Bennett is going to be the busiest singer around. According to reports, he plans to do a Hank Williams memorial album. Williams wrote such hits as "Cold, Cold Heart" and "There'll Be No Teardrops Tonight" and another album of hot jazz songs. He's also working up some singles with Errol Garner. All this for Columbia, of course, and let's hope, that between these specials, there'll be some regular records.

THE FIRST ORIGINAL cast album ever made before a show opened was cut by Decca. It is Guy Lombardo's "Arabian Nights," at Jones Beach on Long Island. It stars Lauritz Melchior and Helena Scott. The show is booked for the entire summer, so there was no reason to wait for reviews before cutting the record.

GENE KELLY

... In star-studded album ...

HILBILLY HIT: "I Hit the Jackpot (When I Won You)," Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys (M-G-M).

IT COSTS MONEY to launch a singing career, especially for a crooner. MGM's 19-year-old Tommy Mara is bidding for the big time, and he's made up picture buttons and membership cards and all sorts of gimmicks. He's hired a full-time secretary and a press agent. All this adds up — but Tommy's dad is fortunately in the chips.

IN THE MONEY—Perry Como's latest, "There Was Never a Night So Beautiful" and "Hit and Run Affair" (RCA); Nat "King" Cole's "Make Her Mine" (Capitol); Ella Fitzgerald's "Who's Afraid" (Decca); Dinah Shore's "Pakistan" (RCA).

The Good Land and Its People

THE CONQUEST OF DON PEDRO, by Harvey Fergusson (Morrow, $3.75).

Readers of this new novel by the author of "Grant of Kingdom" are presented with a lead character who is not the usual fiction hero. Leo Mendes is a health refugee from New York in the days following the Civil War who becomes an itinerant peddler in the Southwest. He opens a store in Don Pedro, grows in stature and influence, marries a vital Mexican girl, Magdalena, who is 24 years his junior, and then finally leaves everything because he is a man of peace.

Even if the reader is confused and skeptical as to Leo Mendes, he is enthralled by the picture of the land and its people as painted by the story-telling art of the author. Born in Albuquerque, N. M., of pioneer parents, Fergusson presents the nuances of fact and behavior that make the story seem very real. Each character stands out clearly and distinctly, including Padre Orlando, village priest; Don Augustin, ruling Rico of the town; Robert Coppinger, handsome horseman from Texas who steals Leo's wife; Dolores Pino, the witch, and others.

The book holds interest and pleases tremendously. But upon finishing it the reader will be concerned along with the author, who says, "Although I have shared some of Leo's experiences, it puzzles me that I should have imagined a man so different from myself in many ways, and should have felt such complete sympathy with him." This is the Literary Guild selection for July.

GEORGE DAVIDSON, PIONEER WEST COAST SCIENTIST, by Oscar Lewis (University of California Press, $3.50).

George Davidson is one of the west's most overlooked men of importance. Although remembered best, perhaps, as the man who charted navigational aids for the guidance of Gold Rush ships converging on California, he actually charted every mile of the great coast from Mexico to northern Alaska. His career was a fascinating one, particularly when reviewed in the entertaining style of the man who also wrote such outstanding California historical works as "The Big Four" and "Silver Kings."—F. T. K.

THE COMPLETE GUIDE TO SPINNING TACKLE, by George V. Thommen (Crown, $1.50).

Fishing with spinning reels, a technique that goes back centuries, only recently captured the fancy of Americans and now it is the rage almost everywhere. Devotees of the sport will want this book because it gives all the latest dope about spinning technique and equipment.

OCEAN SAILING AND RACING, by Cuthbert Mason (Macmillan, $1.50).

An unusually readable book for the salt water racing enthusiast. The author is thoroughly experienced in the sport and covers authoritatively and amusingly all phases from tactics and navigation to crew morale and seasickness. A valuable addition to your marine library.—C. R. IL

Explorers Honored

THE LEWIS AND CLARK EXPEDITION a century and a half ago, which resulted in the opening of the vast northwest to the United States, is the subject of a 3-cent commemorative stamp which will be first placed on sale at Sioux City, Iowa, July 28. Sioux City was picked because it was there that Charles Floyd, a member of the expedition, died. Collectors should send their addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Sioux City, with money order remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, prior to July 28. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers."

Tuna Canning

they climb another conveyor belt that takes them to a can washer. Next they go to retorts for additional cooking that sterilizes the contents so that it will keep indefinitely.

STAR-KIST even utilizes an automatic method to insure that all the batches of tuna cans receive this second cooking. Each batch, in a large metal cart, has a cardboard tag on the front. Before it is cooked, the tag is red. Heat of the cooking turns it green. A worker can tell at a glance whether the batch has been sterilized and thus prevent the possibility of a batch by-passing the retorts.

From the retorts, the cans go to another battery of machines that label them, stack them in cardboard cases, and seal them without human aid.

One of the most unusual mechanical developments in canning, which was patented by Star-Kist, is a device that turns all the empty cans right side up before they are fed into the canning machines.

The automatic lift that puts the empty cans on the conveyor belt used to dump them on helter-skelter with half of them upside down, and the cans had to be righted by hand. They now are righted by a device that would delight Rube Goldberg.

THE CANS are machine-fed onto a narrow track down which they roll on their sides past two magnets that face each other. Each magnet attracts the cans whose bottoms face the magnet, but has no effect on the can whose open tops face the magnets. The magnets tilt the cans into two separate runways, one to the left, one to the right, so that they all slide onto the conveyor belt right side up.

It hasn't missed yet.

The mechanization that pervades the Star-Kist cannery has also stepped up the efficiency of the fish-catching process. The boats, which range as far south as Chile in following the seasonal movement of tuna, are equipped with such devices as radar, sonar, and helicopters to aid them in locating the tuna schools. Sonar, which was used in World War II to locate enemy submarines, can search out tuna beneath a boat by the distinctive sound they make.

A new electronics device, the Fish Loop, developed in Germany, recently has been installed on one tuna clipper. It is an improvement over sonar, which works only on fish beneath the boat. The Fish Loop can spot them in an area up to 3000 feet away from the boat.

ONE ODD PROBLEM that the tuna industry solved long ago, however, required the genius of man rather than the efficiency of the machine.

When canned tuna was first introduced to the American housewife, it ran into unexpected consumer resistance. Mrs. America was accustomed to the pink color of salmon, and shied away from the white-and-tan color of tuna.

This resistance was overcome by a high-priced Manhattan public relations expert, who at the same time took a subtle whack at the familiar salmon by implying that there was something wrong with a fish that had a reddish hue. He advised tuna canners to print a simple slogan on their product:

"GUARANTEED NOT TO TURN PINK IN THE CAN."

To date, no one has developed a machine that can come up with ideas like that.

Harold Morse and his musicians provided entertainment.

Committee chairmen for the forthcoming year: Program, James Lang; membership, Dr. Marcia Sneden; juried exhibits, Mrs. Gertrude C. Jones; special exhibits, Virgil W. Bullock; hospitality, Mrs. Ruth Mattison Eaton; house and door, Mrs. Jessie Hubbard Helwig; bulletin, Miss Laurene Steven; publicity, Mrs. Ethel Keeler; crafts, Mrs. Florence Gendron; year book, Mrs. Virgil W. Bullock; telephone, Mrs. Vetra Redford; finance, Edmund J. Newbegin; scholarship, Athena Hall; art gallery, Mrs. Heber Arden Ward.

OPENING TODAY in the Municipal Art Center will be designs by Gio Ponti of Milan, Italy, and Gyorgy Kepes of Cambridge, Mass. The designs were collected by Boston's Institute of Contemporary Art and "New Design Developments," prepared by the North Carolina State School of Design, Raleigh, for circulation by the American Federation of Arts. The two shows will remain in the Art Center through Aug. 15.

"New Design Developments" presents an outline of advanced research in the field as it is seen and taught on the Raleigh campus. Twenty panels of black and white and color photographs explain exercises in the fundamentals of design, intermediate and advanced architectural design and landscape design, description drawing and construction. Exercises in basic geometric forms and structures from natural forms are illustrated as well as scenes from the painting workshop.

In an introduction prepared for the exhibition, George Boas writes: "Design is order. It may be found in nature, in plants, animals and rocks. It may be created by geometry and illuminated by the other sciences. It may be brought into the light of day either by the intellect or by the spontaneous action of the artist's insight. It may exist in its own right as a pattern of beauty or applied to the satisfaction of human needs. It is the enemy of obscurity and links the philosopher, the scientist and the artist in the achievement of a common purpose. These panels illustrate its birth and its life in the artist's mind."

A CLASS in dynamic symmetry, the science of beauty and proportion perfected by the Greeks, will begin soon at the Long Beach Academy of Art, Brittany Gardens, First St. and Atlantic Ave., Director Karl Seethaler announces. The class, which will meet one evening a week for six months, will be open to the lay public as well as art students.

TODAY is the last day to see "Sixty Years of Living Architecture," exhibit by Frank Lloyd Wright, 85-year-old dean of American architects, in the new Wright-designed municipal art center in Barnsdall Park, Vermont Ave. at Hollywood Blvd., in Los Angeles. The exhibit will be open from noon until 9:45 p. m.

THE SEASIDE art colony of Laguna Beach will be the scene of the 19th annual Festival of Arts and Pageant of the Masters for a 30-day season, July 17 through Aug. 15, the longest run in the history of the nationally famous event. Two hundred local artists and craftsmen will display paintings, sculpture, photographs, ceramics, and handicrafts in the Festival grounds in Irvine Bowl. Each night the dramatic Pageant of the Masters will be presented under the stars. Classic and contemporary art masterpieces are recreated with living models, authentically costumed. In addition to such popular favorites as "Pinkie," "The Blue Boy" and the traditional "Last Supper," the more than 60 new subjects include Rembrandt's "Polish Rider," Renoir's "Lady at the Piano," Fragonard's "A Stolen Kiss" and Matisse's "Coffee."

MAHON STEWART, weaving instructor at Scripps College, will give the last of a series of three lecture-demonstrations in the art of weaving at 10 a. m. today at the Idyllwild Arts Foundation, Idyllwild.

HOW TO Polish With Power Tools

FLOOR POLISHER results when sander-polisher is equipped with a handle. Bristle brush and a wet paste of fine-grit cleanser remove scuff marks and dirt from asphalt tile floor. A spreader pad, as pictured, applies wax; then buffing pad does polishing.

METAL OBJECTS that have been scratched or scorched can be buffed into beauty again with a fine-wire wheel, here used on a sander-polisher. Use care so the lines from buffing all flow in the same direction, and don't press the wheel into soft metals so hard it digs pits.

GLASSY FINISH for surfaces such as this heater reflector is attained with a fabric buffing wheel and rouge abrasive. A high polish increases heater's efficiency. Rouge can be bought in stick form, to be laid evenly on fabric wheel while it is spinning on polisher.

Keep ants out!

around your house!

IT'S THIS EASY TO DO! Just sprinkle — or spray — a diluted solution of ORTHO-KLOR 44 Chlordane Spray around the foundation — under porches, along runways, around the garbage container. This special ORTHO formulation serves as an "invisible barrier" through which ants and earwigs just won't pass. Easy to mix and extra thrifty. By following easy label directions you dilute Chlordane to the dosage recommended by experts. At this effective strength, ORTHO-KLOR makes one gallon of diluted spray for about 16¢.

On all chemicals, read directions and cautions before use.

The Exotic Flower of Passion

By Vera Williams

WOULD YOU LIKE something exotic and distinctly different for your garden?

Try the passion flower — the Passiflora incarnata, so named by Spanish explorers because they envisioned a religious symbolism in its geometric delight of circles, triangles and pyramids, perfectly balanced to produce the rare and exotic bloom.

The corona, with its delicate blue tipped filaments, denoted the crown of thorns, they thought; the three prominent purple styles represented the Trinity, also the three nails which held the Savior to the cross. The five anthers denoted the five wounds, they thought, and the pointed leaves resembled the spearhead and the tendrils the scourges or cords. Two perfect five pointed stars are formed by the sepals and petals. Added they give 10 points, the number of perfection and completion.

The passion flower, an exotic, tropical tendril-climbing vine, grows rapidly on fence or trellis. It blooms profusely and produces edible orange, yellow or purple fruit called maypop, a corruption of the American Indian word maracoeck. The plant is indigenous to South and Central America, and flower lovers say there are at least 300 varieties. The passion flower is built in tiers, beginning with the creamy green petals. Next the corona, like two close fitting discs, rests lightly on the petals. The corona gives the flower its color, as it is a hyacinth blue at the edges with a center circle of white and an inner circle of deep maroon attached to the green stem. Above this rise the five green anthers and topping it all three almost black styles.

Just one word of warning: Caterpillars love the passion flower. You must spray early and often.

Tips on Gardening

GARDENING TIPS for the week . . . Many weeds are now maturing and will shortly reach the seeding stage. The time to eradicate this type of vegetation is before the seeds have a chance to form. You have your choice of several different kinds of weed killers: some are selective and others actually sterilize the soil against all plant growth.

Zinnias can still be started from seed, some varieties flowering in less than two months. These plants want a sunny spot. One of the amazing zinnias of recent introduction is the Lucky Strike; it has tremendous size and produces certain pastel shades rarely seen in this group.

When petunias are through flowering they should be pruned back. This will encourage the plants to carry through the winter season and flower again next spring.

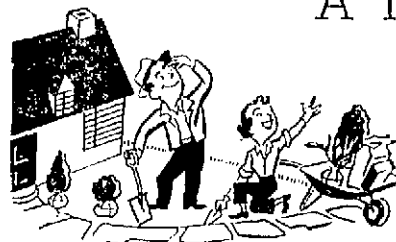

Spanish explorers named it the passion flower because they envisioned religious symbolism in it.

Carpet Your Garden With Color

By Bob Gilmore

IT IS POSSIBLE to carpet your outdoor living room with a rug of living flowers. Those varieties selected should have a low-growing habit of growth and the capacity for producing bright-toned flowers for a long period of time. In addition, they should be hardy and able to tolerate an open exposure.

Petunias are certainly one of our best summer-flowering plants. For ground-cover purposes it is best to choose the low-growing varieties. Petunias make few demands on the caretaker. They must have a sunny spot. In the hybrida nana compacta group — those recommended for low growth — you have your choice of the following: Blue Bedder, Rosy Morn, Silver Blue, Snow White, White Perfection and Peach Red.

Another splendid flower for this purpose is the gazania, a native of South Africa that thrives throughout the Southland. Variety uniflora is perhaps the best known in this area. The flowers are yellow, set off by black spots toward the center of the bloom. The foliage curls inward at night, revealing a white underside.

Gazanias rarely ever grow taller than about six or seven inches. The plants react favorably to regular applications of plant food. Sunny skies are a must for top production; overcast skies will prevent the flowers from opening. Usually you will note blooms from April through December.

Pansies enjoy a cool, moist atmosphere but they will do well along the coast during the summer if supplied with plenty of moisture. Possibly some shady or partial-shady spot in your garden will need color and here pansies will fill the bill well. A mulch will aid in conserving moisture.

THE MESEMBRYANTHEMUM, answer to the poor man's garden dream, is very much at home in this area. It has won much fame as a ground cover on hilly sites and is used extensively for this purpose all over Southern California. The leaves are succulent and thus capable of storing up great quantities of moisture. Plants may be started either from seed or divisions, the latter being the preferred method. The following colors are available: Crimson, copper, ruby-red, lavender, pink, yellow, buff and white.

Although the verbena is classified as a perennial it is usually grown in this district as an annual. The flowers are colorful, including shades of red, pink, crimson, purple, lilac and white. The Verbena is not extremely particular concerning soil preferences; the plants apparently thrive in every garden location. Some pruning during the season may be required as the plants unfortunately have a rather sloppy habit of growth. Cut the stems back from time to time as they grow out of bounds.

ALYSSUM GROWS RAPIDLY from seed and is a plant that literally hugs the ground. The Royal Carpet is one of the most-talked-about introductions of recent years. It has a spreading, compact habit and is marvelous for carpet bedding. The plants possess a uniform habit, growing three inches tall with a 12-inch spread. In addition, it is an All-America Winner.

If you wish to carpet your out-

She's Queen of Atlantis

ver, copper and pearl-oyster beds.

HISTORY of the strangely assorted island group is fascinating. The isles were discovered by Leif Erikson, Viking explorer, in 1001 A. D., according to Mrs. Meeker. Erikson's brother died on Flamingo Island and is entombed there. It was recognized as a Danish possession until 1917, when Denmark found it inconvenient and unprofitable to provide protection for such a small and far-flung territory and thereupon relinquished all claim to King Christian X, native ruler of mixed Indian and Danish blood. Christian was succeeded by his son, Alfredo X, who died in 1938 after previously turning over the governmental reins to Adm. John L. Mott, Danish sailor and soldier-of-fortune, who became the first governor general with kingly powers. Mott died in 1944 and was succeeded in turn by Jeremiah Sonneveld van Boelzeraer, another Dane. Van Boelzeraer was Don Juan Ina Elderseol's immediate predecessor. Mrs. Meeker becomes the fourth non-native ruler and first woman to head the empire's government.

The 25,000 total population is made up of about 18,000 dark-skinned Indians, of probable Inca ancestry; 6500 mixed Indian-Danish descent natives — some of whom claim forebears in Leif Erikson's party; 500 or so Cubans, Panamanians, Virgin Islanders, and a scattering of Europeans and Americans who live by trading and fishing.

Mrs. Meeker will make her first visit to her new realm early in the fall, at which time she will be inducted formally into office.

A NATIVE Californian who traces her ancestry back to early western pioneers, Mrs. Meeker has no thought of relinquishing her U. S. citizenship. She plans to spend but a few months each year in Flamingo, where she'll discharge her designated sovereign duties — consisting largely of signing documents, proclamations and appearing at a few informal and minor diplomatic functions. Remainder of her time will be spent in residence at her present California beach home.

No change in governmental policy is planned. Legislative and judicial matters are ably handled by a 15-member elected parliament, whose powers are precisely stated in the empire's 45-article constitution, based primarily on the Ten Commandments. There is no capital punishment and no income taxes. Mrs. Meeker, as governor general, is constitutionally entitled to a 26 per cent personal levy on all inter-island trade and foreign export business, but her first imperial proclamation from Flamingo Castle probably will make her the most popular monarch ever to rule the empire of Atlantis and Lemuria.

"Just to be queen of a real tropical kingdom is reward enough for me," the motherly Queen Gertrude I declares. "I'll immediately renounce all forms of tribute as my first decree. After all, I'm an experienced resort operator, among other things, and I'm sure that we 'Lemurians' can get our share of the Yankee dollar without exploiting each other!"

PETER G. STATHIS

PETER G. STATHIS, Long Beach restaurateur and raconteur who recently outwitted Groucho Marx, has a very low opinion of housewives' cooking abilities.

In fact, he is plain disgusted with women who complain about the high prices of meat and have not got sense enough to do something about it.

Stathis, part owner of the Sea Food Grotto at 701 E. Ocean Blvd., appeared on Groucho Marx's radio and TV shows a few weeks ago and achieved everlasting fame in the restaurant world by slyly slipping in a big free plug for his restaurant. Then, when the show went off the air, he wowed Groucho's studio audience by insulting the cooking abilities of America's housewives in a number of well-chosen ad libs.

Stathis' story is really quite simple. He says that housewives themselves keep the prices of meat high because they keep on buying the higher priced cuts and ignore the cheaper cuts which require more work and culinary skill before they can be made highly palatable.

"The trouble with American housewives," says Stathis, "is that they're can-opener crazy. They want to fix all their meals in a hurry without any bother. And as long as they keep on buying steaks and choice cuts of meat, those high prices are going to stay up."

Stathis, who has been in the restaurant business 42 years, advises the modern wife and mother to return to the cooking techniques of her mother and grandmother. He advises them to cook such things as chucks, stews, shoulder of lamb, macaroni, etc. — but with a difference. And that difference is the sauce which accompanies each dish.

"Prepared with loving care," says Stathis, "the right sauce can turn an ordinary cheap meat into a delicious dish."

Is there a secret to these fine sauces? Nope, says Stathis. And if any Long Beach area housewife wants the recipe for one of Stathis' sauces, he can be contacted at the Grotto daily from 10:30 a. m. to midnight.

"WHY FEAR DEATH? IT IS 'THE MOST BEAUTIFUL ADVENTURE IN LIFE.'"
—CHARLES FROHMAN'S LAST WORDS BEFORE GOING DOWN WITH THE LUSITANIA—

IT'S BEEN A WONDERFUL EVENING, FOLKS! MEAT AND POTATOES AND GRAVY...AND APPLE PIE...MY FAVORITES!

MY LAST SUPPER ASHORE... LEAVING THE MOMENT I BOARD THE YACHT... AWAY A YEAR OR SO... BUT I'LL BE BACK FOR MORE OF YOUR WONDERFUL COOKING!

I DON'T LIKE IT! I DON'T LIKE IT! I DON'T LIKE IT! IT'S TOO PEACEFUL AND QUIET!

THERE HE GOES, JUST WALKIN' ALONE, DOWN TO TH' SHORE, TO GET INTO HIS LITTLE BOAT TO GO OUT TO TH' YACHT...

HE KNOWS HE'S A WALKIN' TARGET...MAYBE HE IS BEIN' GUARDED, TILL HE GETS INTO THAT LITTLE BOAT! BUT IT'S A LONG, LONG WAY OUT TO THAT YACHT...A LONG...

AS YOU SAY, THE WOODS ARE FULL OF WARBUCKS' CUTTHROATS... BUT OUT ON THE WATER...

YES! HIS SMALL BOAT IS FAST, BUT THIS WILL BE LIKE SHOOTING THE FISH IN THE BARREL!

THERE THEY GO! NOW!

NO! NO! THE SAHIB! WE HAVE FAILED HIM!

FROM WHERE THEY FIRED! SEE? A DIRECT HIT...THERE IS NOTHING OF THEM, PUNJAB...

THIN COMFORT, ASP! TO TRADE OUR SAHIB FOR THOSE TWO JACKALS!

O-O-O-OH! IT...IT...IT'S G-GONE! HIS B-B-B-OAT! "DADDY"! N-N-NOTHING! NOTHING LEFT!

RESTRAIN YOUR GRIEF, SMALL ONE! PERHAPS ALL IS NOT SO BAD AS IT SEEMS...

OFTEN THE SAHIB HAS SURVIVED WHAT SEEMED FAR WORSE! BUT...BUT THIS TIME...

MAMA SAYS YOUR BIRTHDAY IS NEXT, DAD...

HOW OLD WILL YOU BE?

I'LL ADMIT TO FORTY, THAT'S WHERE I STOP COUNTING!

THE PAST TENSE IS STOPPED COUNTING!

HEAVENS NO! THAT'S JUST THE BEGINNING OF MIDDLE AGE!

YOU'RE AS YOUNG AS YOU FEEL AND I FEEL LIKE TWENTY ONE... SOMETIMES!

YOU CAN'T KID MOTHER NATURE

MIDDLE AGE ISN'T WRITTEN ALL OVER YOU, BUT THAT'S WHERE IT SHOWED FIRST, AROUND THE MIDDLE!

IS THAT SO? I'M IN GOOD SHAPE!

OKAY, THROW OUT YOUR CHEST AND PULL IN YOUR STOMACH!

WHICH DO YOU WANT ME TO DO FIRST?

SEE? THAT'S A DEFINITE SIGN OF MIDDLE AGE, WHEN YOUR WIFE TELLS YOU TO PULL IN YOUR TUMMY AND YOU ALREADY HAVE!

Good advice about bleaching from Good Housekeeping

FOR THE BULK OF YOUR FAMILY LAUNDRY YOU NEED A HEAVY-DUTY CHLORINE BLEACH, REPORTS LEADING HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE

After years of study of washing problems, Good Housekeeping, leading household magazine, says this:

To maintain whiteness, use a heavy-duty chlorine bleach "for the white cottons and linens that make up the bulk of family laundry..."

"Typical items: sheets, pillowcases, dish and bath towels, face cloths, men's shirts (including striped and light colors), T shirts, shorts, aprons, gloves, handkerchiefs."

You do need to bleach — And of all the bleaches you can buy... only Purex gets clothes so white... so safely

There's no substitute for a chlorine bleach to get dirty cottons and linens dazzling white... really sanitary. And the right chlorine bleach is the one you can safely use every washday — PUREX. Just follow the label directions.

What's so different about PUREX Liquid Laundry Bleach? It's safer because it's pure. Our exclusive Intrafil® Process removes chemical impurities that cause bleach damage. What remains is better bleaching action — gentle, steady yet thorough. Millions of housewives have found that only PUREX gets clothes so white so safely.
